Roosevelt Budget Calls for 8½ Billions

EXPECT DEFICIT OF 3 BILLIONS IN '41 FISCAL YEAR

President's Figures Under Fire.

President Roosevelt's budget message to congress yesterday is on page 16, and an analysis of appropriations asked for national defense [one out of every four dollars sought] is on page 8.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—President Roosevelt today presented to congress an 8½ billion dollar budget, entailing a 3 billion dollar deficit, for the 1941 fiscal year.

While administration leaders hailed the budget as a genuine measure of retrenchment and asserted that the recommendations would be carried into effect, the Republicans and numerous conservative Democrats treated the document as a tissue of specious fiscal logic and tentative figures. The budget message was read by the clerks in both houses shortly after noon.

By holding down the prospective work relief appropriation to a tentative 1 billion 300 million dollars, based on a business upturn, the President produced an estimate of expenditures aggregating 8 billion 424 millions, about 675 millions less than this year.

Count on Business Gains.

Similarly by proceeding on the assumption of continued business improvement, contrary to predictions by the administration economic experts of a spring setback, the President estimated receipts at 5 billion 548 millions, about 400 millions more than this year.

In this manner Mr. Roosevelt arrived at a forecast of a deficit of 2 billions 876 millions for the fiscal year beginning July 1, next, compared with the deficit for the current fiscal year now estimated at 3 billions 933 millions.

Then, if congress legislates 460 millions of additional taxes to finance the increased expenditures for national defense proposed by the President, and if about 700 millions of excess capital funds are recalled from government corporations and turned into the treasury, the 1941 deficit would be cut to about 1 billion 716 millions, Mr. Roosevelt calculated.

Debt Soars Near Limit.

If by means of these measures the deficit is held to 1 billion 716 millions the public debt, Mr. Roosevelt estimated, would be 44 billions 939 millions on June 30, 1941, just under the statutory 45 billion limit. So if congress fails to keep within the budget or fails to increase taxes or receipts fail to come up to expectations it will be necessary to raise the debt limit, tho probably not before the presidential election.

The President himself treated his budget as tentative, for he said that he may submit revised estimates later. Republican leaders declined to take the budget estimates seriously, pointing out that Mr. Roosevelt invariably has far underestimated the deficit.

In the case of the eight previous budgets these underestimates of the deficit have run all the way from 584 millions in 1933 to 2 billion 630 million dollars in 1937. Altogether his deficit estimates have been only 50 per cent of the actual aggregate deficit in his administration to date.

Urges Committee Study.

Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, announced tonight that he will offer a concurrent resolution in the senate on Monday, providing for the appointment of 24 members of the senate and house as a special committee to study Mr. Roosevelt's budget recommendations.

This unusual step is suggested, Harrison said, because of a recommendation for 460 millions in new taxes besides other budgetary changes which "demand the most careful analysis and study upon the part of the congress." The committee would be appointed by the Vice President and speaker and be asked to report within 60 days.

"It was a clever bit of fakery," was

Juliet Elopes in House Dress; Marry Today

New York, Jan. 4 [Special].—One of the most turbulent romances since Romeo and Juliet died for love of each other in the churchyard tomb in old Verona was moving tonight to a far happier ending than was devised by Shakespeare.

Its setting was a peaceful hamlet hundreds of miles from New York, and its principals were Eileen Herrick, society beauty, and her sweetheart, George Lowther III., whom she joined in an elopement dash after slipping away from her East End avenue home on a ruse to "walk the dog."

They're Quickly Reunited.

Walk the dog she did — for two blocks. And then, eight minutes later, the 20 year old daughter of former Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick was reunited with Lowther in her first completely unguarded moment in three months.

At 11 a. m. today Eileen left her home. She was natless and wore only a simple black and cream house dress and a polo coat, into which she had tucked a toothbrush and a comb. By her side on a leash walked Gypsy, her black setter.

At 11:03 she reached 2d avenue and 86th street and jumped into a taxicab and sped across town to the apartment of a confidante.

There, at exactly 11:08, she met Lowther.

Tonight, far from parents, courtrooms, nurses, and detectives, they were in the secluded home of a friend. A license has been obtained and a preacher engaged to marry them early tomorrow.

How It All Started.

The romance came to light last November when Lowther obtained a Supreme court writ of habeas corpus, charging that Eileen's parents were keeping her a prisoner at home to stop her from marrying him. Justice Isidor Wasservogel ruled that Eileen should have 10 days to think it over.

When the 10 days were up Eileen was taken to the family summer home at Wainscott, N. Y., by her parents.

Lowther obtained another writ when Suffolk County Judge L. Barron Hill decided that Eileen had a right to marry whom she pleased.

Then Eileen was stricken with appendicitis and went to a hospital for an operation. Discharged from the hospital on New Year's day, Eileen was not permitted until today to leave the house alone.

JAPANESE SOLDIER REPORTED SHOT BY AMERICAN SENTRY

TOKIO, Jan. 5, Friday (AP).—Domei [Japanese news agency] today reported from Peking that an American sentry had shot and seriously wounded a Japanese soldier.

Regiment Reported Annihilated.

HONGKONG, Jan. 4 (AP).—Spokesmen in China's provisional capital, Chungking, today said Chinese forces had stopped a Japanese advance in northern Kwangtung province after inflicting 10,000 casualties.

The Chinese said an entire regiment of Japanese imperial guardsmen was "annihilated" and a Japanese force of 100,000 was routed 100 miles northeast of Canton [South China] in a mountain ambush.

[Japanese army spokesmen Jan. 2 declared their Kwangtung campaign had been halted after successfully attaining all objectives and killing 15,000 Chinese. They said Japanese troops now were engaged in mopping up the area.]

ROB E. R. BACON AND FAMILY OF $10,000 IN JEWELS

Edward R. Bacon, head of the grain company bearing his name; his wife, Katherine, and their debutante daughter, Miss Mary Alice Bacon, were held up with their chauffeur in the driveway of their home at 446 Briar place late last night by two cursing bandits who took $10,000 in jewelry and $132 in cash.

The Bacons had been out for the evening and were returning home when the robbers ran up with guns drawn. Both were masked. One put a gun against the chauffeur, Walter Zenker; the other accosted the Bacons.

One of the gunmen slapped Mrs. Bacon on the face when she obeyed their orders too slowly. The bandits took two rings from Mrs. Bacon and one from the daughter, and also took their purses containing $62. From Bacon they got his watch and $70.

A check for $20 goes each month to Esther Ann Hill Morgan of Independence, Ore., daughter of John Hill.

LORD LOTHIAN SEES GERMAN DRIVE IN SPRING

Envoy Tells British Hopes and Fears.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A terrific attack by Germany against England and France by land, air, and sea is expected this spring, Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, said in Chicago last night.

Lord Lothian arrived here yesterday for a two day visit. He spoke at a dinner of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer House.

The issue before Germany, he said, is world empire or downfall, and the British and French feel that the decision of Hitler will be to strike, just as Ludendorff struck in a gigantic offensive in March, 1918, for the same goal.

Britain and France Ready.

Great Britain and France are ready, the ambassador said, and are confident of ultimate victory. But he touched on the possibility of an "unutterable disaster" in which the light of freedom would go out in Europe. With victory, he said, there lay the shining hope of the birth of a better world for everybody if the nations will put selfishness aside and combine for the common good.

His address, he said, was an account of what the people of England feel, hope, and fear about the war.

"We think," he said, "that the central issue is which of two conflicting ways of life, the democratic and the totalitarian, is going to be dominant in Europe and possibly the world.

"What Hitler really seeks is not justice for Germany, but conquest and domination. There is no other explanation for the fact that Hitler has subordinated every other consideration to the creation of the most tremendous totalitarian military and aerial organization the world has ever seen, that he has used it with utter ruthlessness to gain his ends both in diplomacy and in war.

The Fight for Freedom.

"The broad purpose of the whole movement for freedom was to allow the individual to lead his life in his own way, subject to the restraint of law which he helped to frame to curb the ambitions and privileges of race, class, or caste, to dethrone militarism and conquest, and to make the state and those who directed it the servants and not the masters of the people. Nowhere has that ideal been more fully realized than in the United States."

Lord Lothian discussed the movements of this century toward economic freedom and social reform, and analyzed the essential characteristics of communism and national socialism. These are both hostile, he said, to free religion, independence of character, intellectual integrity, and moral courage in the individual. They establish the dominance of irresponsible secret police for law and substitute cruelty and propaganda for free discussion, he said.

"In the light of recent experience," he said, "we do not think we can impose democracy on nations who do not want it and are not ready for it. But we do think it is necessary to prevent the dictatorships from extending their empire over the mind and spirit of man by force. That is why we are fighting to restore liberty to Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, and why we are giving all the help we can spare to Finland."

Sea Power Key to Victory.

Sea power, the ambassador said, is the key to victory in this war.

"If Germany can defeat England, either by direct attack upon her naval and sea communication, or on France thru Belgium or the Maginot line, and compel us to surrender our fleet or a large part of it, Germany will then be on top of the world. The opposition to her in Europe will disappear. Most other nations will hasten to get on her band wagon, and she will be able to dictate the basis upon which world politics shall be conducted.

"If the German thrust for sea power fails, it is only a question of time before the relentless pressure

Germany Fits Economic Life to War's Needs

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Germany today further coördinated its economic life under the direction of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering. As head of the ministerial council for national defense he also became chief of a new general council which will direct every economic activity in the reich for the duration of the war.

The organization is planning to set up a board to "adapt available forces, such as factories, workers, raw materials and means of transport to the changing requirements of the supreme high command for war on land, sea and in the air."

Reject Mass Feeding.

The Nazis discussed the introduction of soup kitchens for the entire population, but this plan was rejected at the request of the political police. It was felt that mass feeding might lead to creation of "undesirable centers of unrest," especially among housewives whose families dislike soup kitchen experts.

Nevertheless, economic experts are working on plans to "bring about unification of consumption to make certain that the population is making the maximum possible sacrifices necessary to bring about victory."

General Made a Member.

Lieut. Gen. Georg Thomas, chief of the economic section of the supreme high command, was made a member of Goering's new council. Heads of other economic offices also will be members of this council with Goering acting as the supreme war economic authority. Paul Koerner, secretary of the Prussian state ministry and Goering's right hand man, will act as his deputy.

Nazis, who started regimentation of economic life when they assumed power, expressed conviction that they will build up a more effective economic organization than England and France. Goering's newspaper, the Essener National Zeitung, said "Mr. Muddle still governs economic life" in Britain and France.

Goering, who is also air minister, has been responsible for virtually the entire economic life of Germany since the day he assumed command of the four year plan for self-sufficiency. Some quarters ventured the belief that the Nazis are planning new drastic economic and financial measures.

FINNS HIT HARD BLOWS AT SOVIET SUPPLIES OF FOOD

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 4.—Finland has been at war five weeks today and besides combatting successfully the many columns of the Red army which have invaded her thousand mile frontier with the U. S. S. R., the Finns have developed a highly effective strategy which has succeeded on several of the many fronts.

Finland's defensive tactics have been directed chiefly against field kitchens and supply columns of the Red army. Thus Russia's overwhelming superiority in numbers has been converted into a handicap by her inability to maintain communications and to keep forwarding supplies to her armies.

This strategy, which was used so successfully in the battle of Lake Kianta, now is being used against the soviet invading forces which during the last fortnight were trapped by heavy snowfalls and have been held immobile in the neighborhood of Korinoja. The sector is 25 miles on a bee line east of Sortavala but 35 miles by road.

Mine Roads; Blast Bridges.

This is another mechanized soviet division. It is being harassed by Finnish forces which have cut off the Russians' retreat by mining the roads and blowing up bridges.

Only brief mention has been made of this sector by Finnish communiques which have stated that one battalion of this soviet force, which was sent north along Finland's chief eastern front road towards Suojarvi, was attacked and destroyed at Loimola and another battalion attempting to go to its support met a similar fate at Syskyjarvi.

These regions contain the largest and finest forests in all Finland. They are thinly populated, having nothing that the Russians could use to eat or provide fodder for their horses.

Between Korinoja and Kitela, the latter 10 miles to the northwest, there is a No Man's land where scouting parties of Finns are meeting foraging parties of Russians to the misfortune of the latter. The Finnish forces are operating in the rear of the Red army.

Defend Valamo Monastery.

The war activity in the vicinity of Sortavala is even more interesting than that on the Karelian isthmus. The northern part of Lake Ladoga between Sortavala and Valamo Island is frozen. The monastery on Valamo, the last great Russian Orthodox institution remaining, now is being successfully defended by the Lutheran Finns against the Russians.

[Valamo is 25 miles south of Sortavala and on the Finnish side of the demarcation line of Finland and Russia. The Finns have permitted the ancient monastery to continue its life undisturbed, bu in recent years have installed coastal batteries and a garrison on the island.]

Communication is being maintained between Valamo and the mainland, but only at night. Any one seen on the lake in daytime is threatened with machine gun fire from the soviet airplanes which are constantly on patrol, attempting to assist the soviet invading force trapped near Korinoja.

Reds Use a War Sled.

The Russians have an unique device which they are using on Lake Ladoga when ice conditions permit. It is a large, lightly armored, streamlined sled called an aerosian. It is propelled by a pusher type airplane propeller. The sled develops great speed, but is unwieldy to maneuver.

The Finnish air force has been strengthened by the addition of Swedish volunteer forces which are taking over aerial combat duties in northern Finland.

The first action of the Swedish newcomers was to successfully bomb soviet encampments in the north.

FAST FINN UNITS CUT FAR ACROSS RUSSIAN BORDER

Report New Soviet Division in Trap.

WITH FINNISH FORCES ON THE LAKE KIANTA FRONT, EASTERN CENTRAL FINLAND, Jan. 4 (AP).—Speedy Finnish ski patrols have cut deeply into Russia at several points to encircle forces of the Red army fleeing from the defeat administered to them six days ago on the shores of this Finnish lake.

[Unconfirmed reports in Copenhagen said the Finns had surrounded a second Russian division between Lake Kianta and the border. The division was en route to the aid of the Red army's 163d division, which was trapped and destroyed by the Finns in the greatest battle of the war.]

The cutting of Russia's vital Murmansk railroad not once but several times by flying ski raiders was reported reliably.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

Hand to hand guerrilla fighting between opposing ski soldiers is taking place frequently. Small numbers of Russian ski troops are in action — mostly on the Russian side of the border—in attempts to stem the advance of elusive Finnish troops.

The main Finnish force, in eastern central Finland, meantime has strengthened and consolidated its positions within five miles of the border and is continuing mopping up operations against fleeing Russians of the routed 163d division.

[Reports received at Bergen, Norway, said unidentified bombing planes bombed the Finnish arctic port of Liinahamari, for the second time today. The port has been in the hands of the Russians since early in the war. The aircraft, of a type not used hitherto by the Finns, vanished over the sea, leading to rumors that sea based British planes had participated. Damages or casualties were not cited by the reports.]

Bomb Turku and Hango.

Helsingfors officials said Red army planes bombed Hango [Hanko], Finland's "Gibraltar of the Baltic," twice today. Two bombers inflicted slight damage during the morning and a larger number of raiders dropped between 40 and 50 incendiary bombs in the afternoon. No loss of life was reported.

Today's raids came after air attacks which a general staff communique said the Russian airmen directed yesterday at the southwestern naval base and the nearby Turku [Abo] district.

On other fronts, the communique said that Finnish troops had repulsed a Red army attempt to recapture a strong position northeast of Lake Ladoga while the front was reported "quiet" on the Karelian isthmus.

Capture 189 Prisoners.

"In the Kuhmo sector [eastern Finland] the enemy attacked, supported by artillery and tanks," the communique said. "The attacks were repulsed. At Suomussalmi 189 prisoners were taken during the day in the course of continued mopping up operations in this area."

A Russian tugboat was abandoned near Fort Koivisto in the Gulf of Finland, the Finnish military dispatch said, when defending guns opened fire. The tug later sank.

The main battle theater of the war appeared to be on this central front where the victorious Finns advanced about 12 miles against no effective resistance yesterday.

A tank was destroyed with its crew today, several miles north of this area, apparently fleeing toward Russia on the Kokki road.

Moscow Communique.

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 (AP).—The headquarters of the Leningrad military area, in a brief communique on the war in Finland, reported tonight:

"Nothing of importance took place on the front today."

Pamphlets on Leningrad.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 4 (AP).—Finnish planes flew over Leningrad, just across the border on the Karelian isthmus, yesterday and scattered thousands of leaflets printed in the Russian language saying the Finns were fighting only for the defense of their independence, the newspaper Social Demokraten reported today. The pamphlets also were scattered over the soviet lines on the isthmus, the paper said.

MOVE TO REVIVE SEAWAY TREATY WITH CANADA

Defeated Roosevelt Plan Is Rewritten.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—The state department tonight announced that a delegation is being sent to Canada to open new discussions looking toward negotiation of a treaty which would start the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence navigation and power project.

Adolph A. Berle Jr.

The delegation, which is bent on reviving President Roosevelt's pet power project, will leave Washington Saturday for Ottawa. Members expect to take up promotion of a treaty with Canadian officials during the week.

In general, the treaty will provide for canalization of the St. Lawrence river from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean and construction of power plants with the United States paying a larger part of the expense. The treaty also would fix forever Chicago's diversion of Lake Michigan water into the lake-to-gulf waterway at 1,500 cubic second feet.

Berle Heads Delegation.

Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle Jr., who drafted the waterway treaty which failed to achieve senate ratification in 1934, is to head the delegation. Berle has been busy for several months in rewriting the treaty to eliminate features which brought about its defeat in the senate.

The delegation will include Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power commission, and John D. Hickerson, assistant chief of the European division of the state department.

Olds is an ardent advocate of the waterway project. He was brought to Washington by the President because as chairman of the New York State Power authority he worked for the project.

Opposes Power Project.

Hickerson, a Texan who rounded out his education at Harvard, is a state department career man, who has specialized in Canadian affairs. Altho he is interested in the navigation phase of the project and not in sympathy with the power development, he is expected to take orders from his chiefs to do as the President wishes.

Hickerson is expected to be the active state department representative on the international joint commission, which President Roosevelt is revamping, to further the seaway project. R. Walton Moore, counsellor of the state department, was named a member of the body which is concerned with land and water boundaries of the United States and Canada, but will leave active participation in its work to Hickerson.

FLINT DAMAGED IN HARBOR; START FOR U. S. DELAYED

BERGEN, Norway, Jan. 4 (AP).—A report from Narvik said today that the American freighter City of Flint, preparing to return to the United States, bumped into a British freighter while maneuvering in the harbor there. The necessity of repairing damaged plates postponed the City of Flint's sailing until at least Saturday.

The City of Flint has been in Norwegian waters since Nov. 11 when the Norwegian government declared her free and interned at Haugesund a German prize crew which had taken her to Murmansk, Russia, and then sought to take her down the Norwegian coast to Germany as a prize.

Russian Railway Reported Cut

2,500 IN RAIDING PARTIES FIGHT ON FRONT ALL DAY

French Penetrate Into Enemy Territory.

PARIS, Jan. 4 (AP).—Approximately 2,500 French and German soldiers fought a dawn to dusk skirmish today against a background of heavy firing from both sides, military sources reported tonight.

The activity, these sources said, extended along a 100 mile front between the Moselle river and the Rhine as German patrols abandoned night scouting forays for daylight raids.

The French responded with patrol thrusts and between 1,200 and 1,300 men on each side were drawn into the fighting.

Raiders Use Hand Grenades.

The skirmishes, in which the raiding parties employed hand grenades, was accompanied by steady machine gun, trench mortar, and artillery fire.

One French patrol, military advices said, penetrated nearly two miles into enemy territory and obtained valuable information.

Another French patrol in the Vosges mountains engaged two German detachments totaling about 200 men. Altho the French were outnumbered, they were reported to have surprised their opponents by automatic cross fire. The Germans were said to have been forced to retire with what were described officially as "heavy losses." The French said they suffered no losses.

Four French aerial groups, profiting by clear weather, flew over western Germany to a depth of 250 miles. German planes operated over the front, in the north and near Paris.

Communique Notes Clashes.

The French evening communique took note of the skirmishes along the western front by reporting "several encounters between patrols in the region west of the Saar," but said there were no other incidents of importance.

German Air Force Busy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—According to today's German war communique, the German air force continued reconnaissance flights over France and the North sea while British attempts to fly over German territory failed again and again.

On the front, the high command reported that "in the west, between the Moselle river and the Palatinate forest" there was "somewhat heavier artillery disturbance fire than on previous days. Scouting troops also more active."

British Scouting Planes Active.

LONDON, Jan. 5, Friday.—Royal Air Force planes made scouting flights over northwest Germany and patroled seaplane bases in Heligoland bay during the night, the air ministry announced early today. All were said to have returned safely to their bases. A Reuters news agency dispatch last night said German planes flying high had been fired on by Belgian anti-aircraft batteries over Limbourg and Antwerp provinces.

5,000 FROM HUNGARY TO AID FINNS; 200 IN FIRST UNIT TO LEAVE

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Jan. 4.—The first contingent of 200 Hungarian volunteers was reported here to have left Budapest today to fight for Finland. It is understood a total Hungarian volunteer force of 5,000 is being raised. Finland already is using Hungarian antiaircraft guns. Sympathy for Finland is exceptionally strong because Magyars and Finns consider themselves racial cousins.

150 Norwegians to Start.

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 5, Friday (AP).—The newspaper Dagbladet said today the first contingent of Norwegian volunteers—about 150—would leave today for Finland.

ENGLAND DRAFTS MERCHANT FLEET TO ACQUIRE FOOD

7,000 Ships Taken Over by Government.

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP).—Following a precedent established in the world war, the British government tonight requisitioned all merchant ships of the United Kingdom and its colonies to speed a shipping program centered on obtaining food supplies from abroad.

Sir John Gilmour, minister of shipping, announced that the program would go into effect Feb. 1. He said that all ships would be placed under government control as soon as they make their first cargo discharges in the United Kingdom after that date. Ships of dominion register are exempt.

7,000 Vessels in Fleet.

Britain and her colonies have a merchant fleet of some 7,000 vessels totaling 17,500,000 tons—the largest in the world.

Gilmour's announcement said the government believed that the new plan would result in a more effective use of available tonnage. Partial control of shipping has been in effect since the early days of the war.

[In Ottawa, J. G. Parmelee, deputy minister of trade and chairman of Canada's wartime shipping board, said Canada is coöperating closely with the United Kingdom in handling ship tonnage. Canada has virtually no merchant marine, he said, which necessitates chartering neutral or British and French ships to carry Canadian goods.]

Bars Transfer of Sterling.

The treasury announced new restrictions on the transfer of sterling or sterling securities, effective next Monday.

The order, designed to protect the pound sterling and conserve the nation's credit for the war, prohibits, without treasury permission, the transfer of sterling or sterling securities from Britain to any individual or company outside of the British empire, including Canada and Newfoundland. It was said Canada was included in the transfer ban because Canada is on a dollar currency, now at a premium over the pound.

[The British pound was quoted at $3.93 and the Canadian dollar at 84 5/16 cents in New York yesterday.]

Weak Point in Financing War.

One of Britain's weakest points in financing the war is her dollar position, observers said, because of the necessity of paying cash in the United States, where Britain has an adverse trade balance.

The government watched closely diplomatic results of the Russian-Finnish war, particularly with reference to Sweden.

The British made it known that Sweden could place armament orders in this country. British firms already are filling orders for Finland.

2 German Freighters Quit Ecuador to Run Blockade

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 4 (AP).—Two German freighters, the 615 ton Quito and the 613 ton Bogota, sailed from this port at midnight and were reported ready to try to run the British blockade to reach a German port. Both freighters anchored here after the outbreak of the European war.

ENGLAND URGED TO SET UP LABOR CORPS FOR BOYS

Lord Derby Proposes Idle Youths Be Recruited.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The British government is studying a project to set up a youth labor corps to absorb the army of unemployed youths created by wartime dislocation of education and economic systems.

The campaign, sponsored by the earl of Derby, former minister of war, calls on jobless youths from families normally in comfortable circumstances to work on government projects for little more than the cost of food and lodging. Lord Derby was the author of the recruiting scheme which bore his name in the world war and which was a forerunner for military conscription in Great Britain.

Face Period of Idleness.

The labor battalions, he suggests, should be made up of youths between 16 and 20 years old whose chances of entering a military academy, university or business after leaving school have been upset by the war. Many youths are confronted with two or three years of idleness or the prospect of drifting into stop-gap jobs until conscripted into the army.

Lord Derby, who wields a big influence with the government, wants to recruit these youths to work on land, in the forestry service and in industry both in Britain and in the dominions. In return they would be given billets and "a little pay." They would be under discipline and wear uniforms.

Government coöperation is being sought for a subsidy so that the project for premilitary training ostensibly will check deterioration of the morale of the young men.

Stress is laid by supporters of the scheme on the ministry of agriculture's plan to plow up 2,000,000 extra acres in Britain for wartime food production and the fact that more than 200,000 workers have deserted the soil in recent years.

Student Unrest Grows.

It is estimated that 15,000 youths will leave secondary [high school], private and public schools in Britain next summer. Many who normally would continue their education in universities or go in for military, business and professional training face bleak prospects. A survey conducted by the Institute of Industrial Psychology reveals growing unrest among students under wartime conditions.

The military academies at Sandhurst and Woolwich which formerly absorbed a regular percentage of public school boys for training as officers are closed. In this war more promotions are being made from the ranks.

Economic stringency also has made it impossible for many parents to send their sons to universities. Other young men who had expected to take up business or professional careers find employers reluctant to engage or train them for a year or two before they are called to the colors.

Military Chiefs Back Plan.

Consequently, Lord Derby maintains youths run the risk of becoming loafers and wasters for want of suitable employment.

Military authorities, educators, social organizations, and the press are supporting the student labor corps scheme.

Students at the Liverpool university labor federation conference today unanimously turned down the plan as involving regimentation of youth and the unemployed and as opposed to a real solution of the student problem. George Matthews, vice president of the National Union of Students, denounced the project as "providing a source of potential strike-breakers recruited from the public schools."

Lord Eustace Percy, former president of the board of education, challenges Lord Derby's plan on the grounds that it threatens to wreck the country's higher education system.

TAFT TO ARRIVE IN CITY TODAY FOR 2 SPEECHES

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, one of the leading candidates for the 1940 Republican nomination for the presidency, will arrive in Chicago this morning on the Capitol limited. He will be here two days. At noon today he is to speak at the Union League club at a luncheon for which 1,000 reservations have been made. His subject will be "Planned Economy Without a Plan."

Tonight Senator Taft will address the Chicago Bar association on "Mr. President, Here's How to Balance the Budget." This speech will be broadcast on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting network from 8:30 to 9 p. m.

ANY OLD PAPER? IF YOU HAVE, SAVE IT, FRENCH TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 4.—French citizens today were requested to save all paper wrappings, newspapers, sacks and cartons for government collection. The suggestion, made by the high commissioner of national economy, was aimed at preventing the waste of these materials. The need of productivity is continually stressed by national leaders. Eleven per cent of the population is mobilized, according to Paul Reynaud, minister of finance, and the fact that each soldier consumes nearly 14 ounces of meat daily is causing a shortage.

BIG GERMAN PUSH IN SPRING SEEN BY LORD LOTHIAN

English Envoy Here; Tells British Hopes, Fears.

of the blockade upon her capacity to carry on the war effectively will end in the defeat of her purpose and the democracies will then have the chance of determining the kind of a world in which we are to live.

Struggle Indecisive Thus Far.

"So far the struggle has been indecisive. Our view is that everything today points to the probability that Germany will attempt early this spring to gain a decision against England and France by a terrific attack by land, air, and sea in which she will use every weapon in her armory.

"We have been a little misled by the relative calm of the war in the west so far. But while we have been overtaking our own shortage of munitions and building up our naval patrols, air squadrons, and mechanized divisions, Germany has been expanding her armaments also.

Confident of Winning.

"We believe that we shall successfully repel the German attack and that if it is repelled as it was in 1918 it will not be long before Hitlerism itself goes down to defeat.

"Even at this moment our present safety rests upon the fact that we control the Atlantic and you control the Pacific. Neither we nor you nor the overseas republics and dominions would be so secure if either of us was left to act alone."

Lord Lothian arrived from Washington, D. C., in the morning. He held a press conference shortly afterward and appeared at various social functions during the day. He spoke briefly at an afternoon reception in the Casino club given by the English Speaking union. Today he will visit the Art institute. He is the guest of Lewis Bernays, British consul general, and Mrs. Bernays.

At some places during the day the ambassador was met by persons bearing signs critical of Britain. He ignored them.

British Civil Servants Ask Pay Increase; Told to Wait

LONDON, Jan. 4.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon today told a civil servants' deputation seeking wage increases because of the rise in living costs that he did not think the time had come to negotiate the question of adjusting pay. He said he considered the automatic raising of wages to meet higher living charges would involve grave dangers of inflation. He added that the government was trying to prevent further unnecessary rises in prices.

Manchukuo Gives Reds Last Check on Chinese Railway

MOSCOW, Jan. 4 (AP).—Tass, official soviet news agency, said a check for 5,809,565 yen [$1,365,247] was presented to Constantin Smetanin, soviet ambassador in Tokio, tonight as Manchukuo's last instalment on the former Chinese Eastern railway. Russia sold her share in the strategic, 1,000 mile railway in 1935. Manchukuo withheld final payment pending settlement of other issues.

ROOSEVELT VIEW ON PEACE IS OUR VIEW, FRENCH SAY

English Praise Speech; Germans Reserved.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 4.—French comment today on President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday conveyed the idea that America approved of France and Britain fighting for causes vital to America's own welfare and safety, but for which the United States itself would not fight.

A writer in the semi-official Le Temps explained how politics, especially the third term, was a big issue in America and the delicate position of the President in trying to reconcile the highest praise for the causes—which the empires claim as theirs—with America's reluctance to fight for them.

See Objectives as the Same.

The French maintained that President Roosevelt was working for the same peace as that which France and Britain desire. From that it was assumed that the President did not intend to make a peace move until the French and British themselves had obtained the "material and positive guarantees," which Premier Edouard Daladier said were necessary before France would lay down its arms.

The attitude of many Frenchmen on the possibilities of a peace move and the part the United States might play in it was reflected in an article written by Bernard Fay, French writer and historian, in the magazine Deux Mondes.

"Peace of Justice."

"The only hope now is the possibility of the United States preserving neutrality and in accord with other neutrals impose in the spring a peace of justice and coöperation," Fay wrote. "If Roosevelt is able to traverse the danger blockades and diplomatic intrigues and retain the internal prosperity of America and the allies are able to hold Germany, everything can be saved. A just and democratic peace can be obtained without a military victory."

Says Sympathy Indicated.

The Paris newspaper L'Intransigeant said: "The President of the United States without naming any country has nevertheless clearly denounced the aggressor and manifested the sympathy of his great country for the allied cause."

Le Temps said that "neutral America, at least in a moral sense, affirms its full community of thought and sentiment with the two great democracies that are fighting for the good of all."

London Press Favorable.

LONDON, Jan. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday brought favorable comment in the London press. The Daily Telegraph said:

"The world is learning to find its oracle in the voice of the President of that great neutral republic of the west into whose hands has passed the keeping of the neutral democracy's conscience and whose potent influence may determine in the last resort a hovering balance between human freedom and totalitarian despotism. The underlying tone of this notable address might be called Lincolnian."

Calls Him Outstanding.

The News Chronicle said:

"President Roosevelt stands head and shoulders above all other men in authority and power with which he speaks for democracy and freedom. His great speech to congress yesterday made that clearer than ever. His words come to all people of good will in Europe as a breath of sanity, of sense, and of hope."

Not Much New, Germans Say.

BERLIN, Jan. 4 (AP).—Official German reaction to President Roosevelt's message to the United States congress was reserved today. Authorized spokesmen said the message was "addressed to the American people and it was for them to decide whether the speech was compatible with congressional expressions of neutrality."

They added that there was not much new in the speech as the President previously had stated he didn't want to be militarily involved in the war.

Called "Pathetic Message."

ROME, Jan. 4.—The Italian press was quiet editorially today on President Roosevelt's message to congress, but two papers expressed their attitude in headlines. La Tribuna said "The Incapacity of the Democracies Confessed by Roosevelt," and the Corriere Padano labeled its story "Pathetic Message of Roosevelt."

Hungarian Press Skeptical.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 4.—The Hungarian press received President Roosevelt's message with marked skepticism. This country, according to the conservative newspaper Magyar Nemzet, does not welcome the idea of the United States remaining aloof now and intervening at the end of the war "to dictate at the peace conference."

Irish Press Mass Roundup of Outlawed Army Suspects

DUBLIN, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Irish parliament completed action tonight on an emergency powers bill giving the government authority to intern without trial members of the outlawed Irish Republican army.

As police pressed a mass roundup of extremists charged with being dangerous to the state, the senate adopted without amendment the emergency measure previously approved by the dail eireann [lower house].

At the same time the dail passed a companion act for dealing with "offenses against the state" which will go to the senate tomorrow. The dail then recessed until Jan. 21.

Charges of Financial Aid.

The senate acted favorably on the measure after Justice Minister Gerald Boland had told it of the government's campaign to track down members of the illegal organization. He declared that on one suspect alone $8,000 in American money had been found. Boland previously had told the dail that the I. R. A. was financed with funds collected in the United States.

At Cork Tomas MacCurtain, 22 years old, dashing and wealthy son of a former lord mayor, was arraigned in District court on a charge of slaying Detective John Roche last night. MacCurtain's father, a prominent Republican leader, was killed in the Sinn Fein disorders 20 years ago.

Young MacCurtain was said to have been sought by police for several months. When Roche approached him on the street a shot was fired and the detective fell fatally wounded. Other detectives seized MacCurtain.

20 Others Arrested.

MacCurtain has been arrested a number of other times. Two years ago he went on a hunger strike and a year ago was cleared of a charge of assaulting officers.

More than 20 others were arrested in the Cork area today.

The I. R. A. is angry with Prime Minister Eamon de Valera over what it calls the government's inactivity in the direction of the Republican goal—to unite Ireland and Northern Ireland [Ulster] and abolish British influence in Ireland.

De Valera also wishes to unite the six northern counties now giving allegiance to the British crown with the rest of Ireland, but he wants the unification to be accomplished peacefully.

JAMES CROMWELL IS APPOINTED ENVOY TO CANADA

Name Husband of World's Richest Heiress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—James H. R. Cromwell, economist, athlete, and husband of the world's richest heiress, Doris Duke, was named United States minister to Canada today by President Roosevelt.

James H. R. Cromwell.

The appointment came as a surprise because the 43 year old son of Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, Pa., who is in line for a fortune in his own right, had not been regarded as a candidate for the post, even tho he was a recent visitor in the White House.

$50,000 Campaign Gift.

Cromwell's appointment was ascribed to the fact that his wife gave the New Jersey State Democratic organization $50,000 in the 1936 campaign. Political observers said the appointment to Canada may also be a shrewd bid for further contributions to the Democratic cause in the 1940 presidential campaign year.

Cromwell and his wife live in Somerville, N. J. Two years ago he was boomed for a senate vacancy on the strength of the party contribution, but nothing came of it.

He is the author of a book, "In Defense of Capitalism," and a pamphlet, "Sound Money," in which he challenged much in the present economic system, but argued that it can be made to work. He has appeared before congressional committees several times in support of his monetary theories. As for his athletic prowess, he is an amateur boxer and devotee of various sports.

Cudahy Shifted to Belgium.

His name headed a list of diplomatic appointments which shifted John Cudahy of Wisconsin, minister to Ireland, to Brussels to succeed Joseph E. Davies as ambassador to Belgium. Cudahy was formerly ambassador to Poland.

Breckinridge Long of St. Louis, Mo., assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration and ambassador to Italy in the early days of the New Deal, was recalled to government service as assistant secretary of state. Long will succeed George S. Messersmith, state department career man, who was nominated as ambassador to Cuba. Messersmith succeeds the late J. Butler Wright.

R. Henry Norweb of Ohio was named ambassador to Peru. Robert M. Scotten, counselor of the embassy to Brazil, another careerist, was named minister to the Dominican republic.

Several Political Appointments.

Other nominations which President Roosevelt sent to the senate today included:

Charles Edison, son of the famous inventor, to be secretary of the navy [he had been given a recess appointment previously]; Daniel W. Bell, former acting director of the budget, to be undersecretary of the treasury in place of John W. Hanes who resigned; John L. Sullivan of Manchester, N. H., to be assistant secretary of the treasury.

Alvin J. Wirtz, Texas attorney, to be undersecretary of the interior; Grover Bennett Hill, another Texan, to be assistant secretary of agriculture; Harry Slattery of South Carolina, former undersecretary of the interior, to be rural electrification administrator.

Lift Censorship on Private Correspondence in Spain

MADRID, Jan. 4 (AP).—The Spanish government today lifted its censorship of private correspondence within Spain. Censorship will continue on international correspondence, however. Censorship already has been removed from Spanish newspapers, altho editors and writers will be held responsible for what they write and publish. Censorship remains for foreign correspondents.

Roosevelt Nominates Murphy for Supreme Court Bench

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Attorney General Frank Murphy, former governor of Michigan, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to succeed the late Justice Pierce Butler as a member of the United States Supreme court. Senate confirmation of Murphy's appointment, which is assured, will result in a Supreme court with five Roosevelt appointees, a majority of the nine members.

Judge Francis Biddle.

To succeed Murphy as attorney general the President nominated Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, the candidate of the inner circle New Dealers and reputedly the candidate of Roosevelt for Vice President, whoever the New Deal candidate for President may be.

He's a New Yorker.

Jackson is from Jamestown, N. Y., and he will become the fifth member of the cabinet from the President's home state.

To succeed Jackson as solicitor general the President nominated Judge Francis Biddle of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia. Biddle received his appointment to the federal bench less than a year ago while he was drafting, as special counsel for a congressional investigating committee, a report which whitewashed the Tennessee Valley authority.

Biddle's agreement to resign a lifetime job on the federal bench to become solicitor general, a post he is not likely to retain for more than one year unless Roosevelt is elected for a third term, is part of an extraordinary political maneuver on the part of the Roosevelt administration to undermine opposition to the National Labor Relations board and thwart demands in and out of congress to overhaul the Wagner act.

Madden May Be Shifted.

According to senators who have been consulted about the matter, the President has selected J. Warren Madden, chairman of the labor board, as Biddle's successor on the federal Appellate court. This would create a vacancy on the board and give the President an opportunity to appoint some one who, like William M. Leiserson, a present member, is acceptable to the American Federation of Labor.

At his press conference today Attorney General Murphy confirmed the reports that Madden is being considered for the federal court vacancy. Murphy said Madden was under consideration because of the work he had done on the labor board.

The A. F. of L. vigorously opposes Madden and Edwin S. Smith because, it charges, they are prejudiced in favor of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations, and is demanding a series of amendments to the Wagner act to curtail the board's powers. If Madden were replaced by a man like Leiserson, however, a majority of the board might be acceptable to the politically powerful A. F. of L.

Confirmation in Doubt.

Whether Madden's appointment would be confirmed by the senate appeared uncertain. Several Democrats said they would take the position that a man who is not fit to be a member of the labor board is not fit to be a member of one of the second highest tribunals of the federal judiciary. Madden is a native of Illinois, but came to the labor board from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was professor of law at the University of Pittsburgh.

While most of the Democrats in congress acclaimed Murphy's appointment to the Supreme court, many Republicans denounced the aid he gave, as governor of Michigan, to the communist led C. I. O. sitdown strikes which paralyzed the automobile industry in 1937.

Murphy himself professed great humility, saying he felt "unworthy" of the position.

Murphy's appointment is deemed to be politically expedient because he is a Catholic, as was Justice Butler, and there now is no Catholic on the Supreme bench. Also, he comes from the middle west, as did Justice Butler, who was from Minnesota.

Age and Experience.

Murphy will be 47 years old on April 13. He was born at Harbor Beach, Mich., and was graduated from the University of Michigan law school. His legal experience consisted of private practice at Detroit from 1916 to 1917 and a job as assistant United States attorney from 1920 to 1923. His only judicial experience was as judge of the Recorder's court of Detroit from 1923 to 1930. He became mayor of Detroit in 1930, resigned in 1933 to become governor general of the Philippines, and resigned that post in 1936 to run and be elected governor of Michigan.

Jackson's appointment as attorney general received universal approval in congress. His political opponents concede that he is a much better lawyer than Murphy. With a background of corporation law practice he was appointed general counsel of the internal revenue bureau in 1934, assistant attorney general in 1936, and solicitor general in 1938.

Jackson will be 48 years old next month. President Roosevelt has told cabinet members within the last week that he favors Jackson as a young and aggressive "liberal" for Vice President. The cabinet appointment, therefore, is intended to aggrandize Jackson's political stature.

Denmark Orders Rationing of Coal, Coke, and Cinders

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Jan. 5, Friday.—Denmark last night decreed the rationing of coal, coke, and cinders, allowing the purchase of only one month's supply. Reduced supplies from Britian and Germany, soaring prices and the lack of ships owing to losses at sea, brought the order.

CITY'S LEADERS VOW TO SMASH LABOR TERROR

Slaying of Garage Owner Spurs Fight on Rackets.

Murder Background

THE CRIME—Marinus Hvid, a garage owner, was beaten fatally by labor sluggers eight days ago. No clew to the identity of the slayers has been found.

THE INVESTIGATION—Police are seeking to establish a link between the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, from which Hvid was expelled, and a union which picketed his garage. Chicago leaders, meanwhile, took action to smash labor terrorism.

THE RECORD—Hvid's murder was the 32d labor slaying in Chicago in the last nine years. There has been a conviction in only one case.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Chicago's business, civic, and religious leaders yesterday served notice of their determination to stamp out labor terrorism, which has been responsible for 32 murders in the last nine years.

The leaders met in the Red room of the La Salle hotel, condemned racketeering and violence, and decided to appoint two committees to combat it. One committee will draw up resolutions defining the position of law abiding citizens in this newest war on crime. The other committee will urge direct action by law enforcement authorities thru conferences with these officials.

The meeting was inspired by the latest in the series of slayings—that of Marinus Hvid, owner of a garage at 3514 North Halsted street. He was beaten by labor goons Dec. 28 and died two days later.

Treasurer of Group Quizzed.

Other important developments yesterday in the investigation of the Hvid murder were:

1. W. P. Enzweiler, treasurer of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, a garage owners' organization from which Hvid was expelled, said he did not know that Emil Mermall, executive director of the association, had withdrawn $14,000 of the association funds between Jan. 1, 1938, and Oct. 1, 1939, as disclosed Wednesday.

2. John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, admitted receiving two letters from Hvid last May and June and throwing them in the wastebasket. Hvid wrote of his suspicion that a working agreement existed between the garage owners' organization and the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union, which was picketing his garage.

56 Leaders Confer.

The meeting in the La Salle hotel was called by Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Frank Hecht, chairman of the association's All-Chicago council. Of 70 persons invited, 56 attended.

The session was a closed one and lasted an hour and a half. No politicians or labor leaders were present. Hecht said afterward that the whole situation had been discussed and that those present determined to tackle the evil of racketeering and stamp it out.

One group at the meeting apparently wanted the resolutions to contain some commendation of the efforts of public officials to curb terrorism. Another group, headed by Fred Steers, an attorney and former president of the Ridge Civic council, wanted such commendation omitted at present.

"No Whitewash," Says Attorney.

"The racketeering and terrorism in this city has arisen with the acquiescence of some one," Steers said. "It has every little business man by the nape of the neck. Our inquiry must not be a whitewash.

"We mustn't be afraid to find out who is responsible for this situation and to expose this individual or group. Let's not commend our officials until they have done something to remedy the situation."

Hecht will appoint the two committees soon. Another meeting of the entire group will be held Jan. 11.

T. A. Hunter (left), secretary and W. P. Enzweiler, treasurer of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, at state's attorney's office yesterday where Enzweiler was questioned.

Among those present and the organizations which they represented were: Leo Sheridan, Building Managers' association; Bertram J. Cahn, Chicago Crime commission; B. F. Affleck, Executives' club; Newton Farr, Chicago Real Estate board; Walter Gregory, State Street council; the Rev. Ralph Wakefield and Dr. Albert W. Palmer of the Chicago Church federation, and Rabbi Jacob Singer of the Rabbinical Association of Chicago.

Treasurer Reluctant Witness.

Enzweiler, treasurer of the garage owners' association, was a reluctant witness when he was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford. But Crawford said his replies gave further evidence of a close working agreement between the association and the garage helpers' union.

Enzweiler owns two garages and a third, the Belmont, at 3157 Broadway, is managed by his wife, Flora, and a man he named as Benedict. Enzweiler said Hvid took away two of the Belmont's customers by quoting them a lower storage rate. Hvid was called before the executive board of the association and, according to Enzweiler, said he would continue cutting prices.

Enzweiler said the board decided to fine him $75, then discovered he was delinquent in his dues and expelled him. The union then was notified to deal directly with Hvid and not thru the association, as was done for its members.

Director in Full Control.

Prosecutor Crawford said Enzweiler admitted he was treasurer of the association in name only and that Mermall, the executive director, managed it and its funds as he saw fit. Enzweiler said he understood that Mermall had a contract which gave him full control of the association as long as he operated it to the satisfaction of the members.

Enzweiler then said he knew nothing of the $14,000 withdrawn by Mermall on checks payable to cash.

Enzweiler said he never saw the checks, didn't know that such a large sum had been collected or spent, and didn't know how Mermall used the money. Mermall previously told Crawford the money was used for promotional expenses.

Capt. Patrick O'Connell of the Town Hall police talked to Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, concerning the letters written by Hvid.

Admits Ignoring Letters.

"Fitzpatrick told me he got the letters, but paid no attention to them," O'Connell said. "He threw them in the wastebasket. He thought the matter was not one for the labor federation to consider but for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, with which the garage helpers' union is affiliated."

O'Connell reopened his inquiry into a fight between William Bibbe, business agent of the union, and John Leykauf, 730 Cornelia avenue, a mechanic who leased space in Hvid's garage and occasionally helped him deliver customers' cars.

Leykauf said Bibbe attacked him in a dispute over a second hand car parked in front of the garage. The car had been taken over by the union pickets as a shelter from rain and cold. Leykauf said Bibbe struck him and he hit back.

"I don't think it would help solve this murder if I signed a complaint against Bibbe," Leykauf said. "I gave him as good as he sent, and it's all square."

500 IN THEATER LEAVE QUIETLY AS FIRE STARTS

Under direction of ushers, 500 men, women, and children marched safely out of the Biltmore theater, 2046 Division street, last night after fire had started in the basement.

The fire was discovered in a supply room by Austin Cooper, colored janitor. He notified Walter Lyons, manager, who told the audience from the stage that there was a fire near by that that they should leave. Cooper played a hose on the blaze until firemen arrived and put out the fire. It destroyed stage scenery, rugs, and spare seats. Damage totaled about $5,000.

BAPTISTS PROTEST ROOSEVELT SENDING AN ENVOY TO VATICAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—The public relations committees of the northern and southern Baptist conventions made public tonight a letter to President Roosevelt expressing concern over his appointment of a personal representative to the Vatican.

"The distinctive theory upon which this government has been founded," the letter said, "is the absolute separation of church and state, and any recognition, implied or otherwise, of the political status of any ecclesiastical organization constitutes, in our judgment, an assault upon this principle."

The letter called to Mr. Roosevelt's attention the pronouncement on religious liberty adopted by the southern, northern, and national Baptist conventions. This pronouncement declared opposition to "the establishing of diplomatic relations with any ecclesiastical body" and to "the extension of special courtesies by our government to any ecclesiastical official as such."

New Federal Grand Jury Resumes Gambling Probe

A special federal grand jury, impaneled Wednesday to handle routine matters and the current investigation into the income of Chicago gamblers, began its work yesterday. It was reported that 10 Waukegan residents were questioned concerning the affairs of the Waukegan Post.

NEAR ZERO COLD ARRIVES; IT'S DUE TO STAY 2 DAYS

A mass of cold air from the northwest moved into Chicago yesterday afternoon. The temperature, which stood at 19 at 2 p. m., had been driven down to 1 above at 1 a. m.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said today and tomorrow would be fair and continued cold. More moderate temperatures are expected by tomorrow in the upper Mississippi valley, where the mercury was at subzero levels last night. Milder weather is not expected in Chicago before Sunday.

CHAMPIONS FOR WOMEN

By CALEB

SIR WALTER of Henley quilled a discussion some four hundred years ago on the important problem of the horse versus the ox. "The horse costs more than the ox . . . besides a plough of oxen will go as far in the year as a plough of horses. . . . Further, in a very hard ground where the plough of horses will stop, the plough of oxen will pass. . . . It is necessary that he (the horse) should have every night at least the 6th part of a bushel of oats . . . and when the horse is old and worn out, then there is nothing but the skin; and when the ox is old with tenpennyworth of grass, he shall be fit for the larder."

Always in all ages there are assailants and defenders of the encroaching newcoming ways of the world. It is not without some dislocations that new domestic beasts take, or lose, their places in the sun. It is not without some maladjustments that new inventions come to play an accepted part in our daily lives and routines.

Since business is business, or for some other reason, inventions which have lightened the workload of men have proverbially met less resistance than those which lightened the workload of women.

Offices knew many devices for labor saving — factories had gadgets and labor-savers by the score — before women started getting the help in their homes which the modernity of the times would justify.

The department store of today is woman's valiant advocate and defender in the great amphitheater of world commerce. Not content to sit back and wait for new ideas and devices to be born for woman's advantage, the department store has often aggressively shown manufacturers how to improve modern equipment for the home.

It isn't a matter of labor-saving devices alone. In all things wherein the old is challenged by the new, the department store weighs both, and in case of doubt gives each version of an idea opportunity to take its case to the final arbiter, Mrs. Customers herself.

Does a new type of furniture come over the horizon? We are immediately after it, making way for it to find its place in your favor. Is there a new way of draping windows? We at once tell it to you. Does a new type of kitchenware appear on the market? Without eliminating old favorites, we present the virtues of the new. Is there a better way to do hair, to fit corsets, to compound a cosmetic? We present its advantages, and you do no waiting.

The department store, we believe you will agree, has probably done more than any other single institution in American life to make the American woman the best-dressed, on the average, in the world; and to make her home, on the average, the most convenient and modern in the world. Obviously, that is a responsibility we enjoy.

NEW ARCHBISHOP AWAITS FORMAL TRANSFER ORDER

Meanwhile Will Carry on Work in Milwaukee.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 4.—Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch told today—with modesty, coupled with characteristic Irish wit—of the surprise that came to him late last night when he received word of his transfer from the Milwaukee to the Chicago archdiocese.

Chicago's new archbishop received reporters in his imposing Wisconsin avenue residence, which was still telling the Christmas story by means of great holly wreaths in all windows and still larger wreaths in doorways. The reception hall was lighted by Christmas tree with hundreds of colored electric lights.

Schoolmate to Succeed Him.

The archbishop chuckled merrily when a reporter asked if he would leave any of his archbishop's vestments for his successor, the Most Rev. Moses E. Kiley, present bishop of Trenton, N. J. The merriment was caused by the fact that Archbishop Stritch is slight of build and about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall, while his successor and former schoolmate, Bishop Kiley, stands well above 6 feet and is of athletic build.

Archbishop Stritch avoided anything but general reference to his Chicago appointment by Pope Pius XII, because, he explained, the news of his appointment thus far is only informal. Papal bulls which carry his official appointment may not arrive for days or weeks. These official notifications, he added, proceed thru ecclesiastical channels.

Grateful to Pope Pius.

"I have made no plans," the archbishop continued. "For a time I shall stay here and carry on my work. When I shall have made plans I shall publish them. Naturally I am grateful to our holy father for his great consideration of me and I shall try my utmost to prove myself worthy of such great kindness."

Ecclesiastical experts believe it unlikely that the ceremonial enthronement of the archbishop in Chicago will take place before Easter. In any event he will not use the throne of Cardinal Mundelein. Red and gold, such thrones are reserved for cardinals only, and Cardinal Mundelein's was destroyed after his death.

There is an archepiscopal chair that was used by the cardinal before his elevation to the cardinalate. It stands now in the chapel of Quigley preparatory seminary. It is possible, however, that a new one will be constructed and placed in the Holy Name cathedral for the new archbishop.

Gets Many Congratulations.

Archbishop Stritch spoke in appreciation of the telegrams of congratulation which have arrived in great numbers during the day from members of the hierarchy, distinguished persons, and, as he said, "just good folks."

"Here for more than nine years," he said, "I have been happy in my work, generously assisted by a most zealous clergy and an outstanding laity. If something has been done, the credit is due to them, and to me only in proportion to the help God has given me."

Archbishop Stritch's appearance, with his silvered hair and rimless spectacles, is that of an older man than one of 52 years. However, his look of genial wisdom, the twinkle of youthfulness in his eyes, and sprightly step, give evidence of almost tireless energy. His voice is soft and well cadenced, but it is well known here that he can speak and write with vigor and determination when the occasion demands.

The new Chicago archbishop is described as a man of "bristling Americanism" by the Rev. Msgr. Francis E. Murphy, rector of St. John's cathedral here. This description of his democratic views seemed apt when Archbishop Stritch spoke of changing social scenes in city and state.

"There is something very wonderful about Milwaukee people," he said. "They are sincerely devoted to the principles of democracy. Somehow I have been convinced that amidst admitted blunders here are being tested in the crucible of our daily life the things which will give to us in the fuller measure the blessings of our democratic institutions.

"There is a freshness of mind about our people which tells you they have not lost either the faith or the courage of the pioneers. When I go to Chicago I shall give my new ministry everything that I have to give."

In Younger Days

(Story in adjoining column.)

The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, new archbishop of Chicago, when he became a bishop 20 years ago.

MADE RECORD AS SCHOLAR

Archbishop Samuel Alphonsus Stritch, was born Aug. 18, 1887, in Nashville, Tenn., where his father, Garrett Stritch, was a business man. He was the seventh of eight children.

In his youth, he made a prodigious record as a student. At the age of 10, he had completed the eight grade work in parochial school. At 14 he was graduated from high school, and at 17 from St. Gregory's college in Cincinnati, O. When he asked his mother's permission to go to Rome to continue his studies she told him he was too young.

"Mother," his sister recalls him saying Jestingly, "don't you know it's a sin to interfere with anyone's vocation?" She gave permission. It was in Rome that he met a young priest, Eugenio Pacelli, now Pope Pius XII, and the two became close friends.

Becomes a Priest at 22.

Archbishop Stritch was graduated from the North American college in Rome when he was 22 years old. He had to get a special dispensation to become a priest, since the age limit was 23. He served in Memphis, Tenn., then Nashville, where he was chancellor of the diocese for five years before being made a monsignor in 1921.

The new archbishop has four brothers and a sister living, and also has cousins in Chicago.

The family name, Stritch, is derived from an old English or Norman word meaning street or highway, and more particularly the ancient Roman highway. In Ireland it has developed into Strete, Streate, Streete, De La Streete, Stretys, Stritch, and other variants. It is a name famous in Limerick, where there was a mayor named Nicholas Stritch in 1427, and where, in 1651, an alderman, Thomas Stritch, was refused a pardon by Ireton, an English general, when he took posession of the city in 1651. There still are Stritches in and about Limerick.

Catholic Charities to Hold National Meeting in City

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, has received word that the 14th annual convention of the National Conference of Catholic Charities will be held in Chicago this year. Bishop Sheil had wired an invitation to the Rt. Rev. John R. Mulroy, president, at Washington, D. C., saying that one of the last wishes of the late Cardinal Mundelein was that the meeting be held here. The dates of the meeting are to be fixed later.

CHURCH LEADERS UNITE IN PRAISE OF ARCHBISHOP

Mayor Calls Appointment a Wise Choice.

Leaders of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Chicago and prominent clergymen of the Protestant faiths united yesterday in praising the appointment of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch and in welcoming him to the archdiocese of Chicago.

The appointment also was commended by Mayor Kelly in a telegram from Miami, Fla., where he is vacationing. Mayor Kelly said:

"A wise choice as usual has been made in the appointment of Archbishop Stritch to the important responsibility of Catholic archbishop of Chicago. He is a spiritual leader of distinction, an eminently capable administrator, and a man of keen vision and foresight."

Leaders of Diocese Happy.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, who has served as administrator of the Chicago archdiocese since the death of Cardinal Mundelein last Oct. 2, declared that leaders of the archdiocese were very happy over Archbishop Stritch's appointment.

Bishop William D. O'Brien, president of the Catholic Church Extension society, described the new archbishop as one of the outstanding scholars of the United States hierarchy.

Comment of Bishop Stewart.

The praise of high Protestant leaders was as warm. The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, said members of his church join with other citizens in welcoming Archbishop Stritch.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident bishop of the Methodist church, said:

"I have long been familiar with the fine record of Archbishop Stritch. While among those not of his faith I rejoice at this recognition of his work in his appointment to Chicago."

What Other Leaders Say.

The comments of other church leaders follow:

The Rev. Samuel K. Wilson, president of Loyola university—"While there are many members of the American hierarchy, any one of whom could fill capably the position of archbishop of Chicago, the holy father has selected as Cardinal Mundelein's successor a man who is peculiarly prepared for his work."

The Rev. Armin George Weng, president of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church—"Judging by the excellent record made in Milwaukee by Archbishop Stritch, he must be an exceptionally able administrator and a man who will be a real addition to the Christian forces here."

The Rev. Lawrence W. Stauss, president of the Chicago Ministerial association of Evangelical churches—"We heartily welcome the appointment of Archbishop Stritch."

The Rev. Frederick W. Schroeder, president of the northern Illinois conference of Evangelical and Reformed churches—"Chicago is highly blessed in the translation of Archbishop Stritch, who has made so notable a record in the field of charity."

The Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, general director of the Chicago Congregational union—"Those of us who had the highest regard for the late Cardinal Mundelein on the basis of his past service to the church and the wider community of the nation naturally share with all who belong to the church the hope and prayer for a similar great service and influence on the part of his successor."

The Rev. Howard W. Johnston, moderator of the Chicago Presbytery and pastor of Faith Presbyterian church—"We rejoice in the appointment of so strong a man as Archbishop Stritch, who will devote his life and talents to the great task of making Chicago a better place."

The Rev. Archibald M. McDonald, superintendent of the Chicago Baptist association—"The Christian community of Chicago will warmly welcome Archbishop Stritch as the new leader of the Catholic archdiocese in Chicago. He is a man of proven ability and consecration and we rejoice in his especial interest in youth and law enforcement."

The Rev. Ralph Wakefield, president of the Chicago Church federation—"A great church will welcome a tried leader in the coming of Archbishop Stritch to head the Catholic forces of this city."

GLORIA VANDERBILT SPENDS ONLY $10 OF $25,750 ALLOWANCE

New York, Jan. 4 [Special].—Gloria Vanderbilt, heiress who will be 16 years old on Feb. 20, spent only $10 out of her $25,750 personal allowance in 1939, and her estate increased $191,484 during the year to total $4,260,077. Her sole drawing on the allowance was to purchase $10 worth of books at a Farmington, Conn., bookshop.

The annual accounting filed today by her guardian, Thomas B. Gilchrist, showed that an appendectomy and other medical fees took $2,816, but this sum did not come out of her personal allowance. Dr. Garnes Weeks charged $1,500 as operating surgeon and Dr. William St. James, who assisted him, received $770.

The largest single increase in the estate came thru sale for $148,000 some Rhode Island bonds bought in 1927 for $104,208. Legal fees for Gilchist's firm of Calwalader, Wickersham & Taft were $9,500, with Gilchrist receiving a $2,094 commission. The state received $5,932 in taxes on estate earnings.

Gloria's mother received $20,780 from the estate, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Laura K. Morgan received $3,000.

ROOSEVELT ASKS 2¼ BILLION FUND FOR U. S. DEFENSE

Requests Total Quarter of Entire Budget.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—One dollar out of every four the government will spend in the coming fiscal year, under the 8 billion 424 million dollar budget President Roosevelt submitted to congress today, will go for national defense.

Protection spending was pitched to a new high in the budget message. Mr. Roosevelt set the regular army and navy expenditures at $1,539,445,160 and emergency expenditures, necessary in the interests of preserving American neutrality, at $300,324,700.

In addition to the outright military and naval costs, which totaled $1,839,769,860, the President provided for some 400 million dollars of quasi-protective appropriations, which will bring the total for military and related activities to almost 2¼ billion dollars.

Sets Peacetime Record.

Translated without revision into appropriations by congress, the President's national defense budget would give $1 and a few cents of every $4 collected or borrowed by the government to the army, navy, or related defense units.

The huge outlay contemplated for defense and related activities surpasses the peacetime record set in the budget for the current fiscal year. It is surpassed in wartime only by the 7 billion dollar appropriation for 1918 and the 11 billion dollar appropriation for 1919.

The principal item in the defense budget is one of approximately 381 million dollars for the construction of new men of war, continuation of work on ships now building, and the modernization of ships now in service.

New Ships Requested.

In new ships the President proposed two battleships, one aircraft carrier, two light cruisers, eight destroyers, six submarines, one submarine tender, one large seaplane tender, two small seaplane tenders, and one mine sweeper.

These additions, it is believed, would give the United States more capital ships than any other naval power. This is shown in an accompanying table on the status of world navies as of Oct. 1, 1939. However, nothing is known of new building programs of the belligerent powers.

The construction funds also would go to continuing work on the vessels listed as being built in the accompanying table. In addition the budget estimates would give the navy 12½ million dollars for alterations on five of the oldest battleships in the fleet —the Tennessee, California, Colorado, Maryland, and West Virginia—and three submarines—the Argonaut, Narwhal, and Nautilus.

Highlights of Provisions.

Other highlights of the defense provisions are:

1. Appropriations to provide for an army of 227,000 officers and men, a navy of 160,911 officers and men, and a marine corps of 25,000 officers and men.

2. Emergency national defense expenditures, necessitated by the presidential proclamation establishing a limited emergency as a result of the European war. This calls for a deficiency appropriation of $159,870,300 for the current fiscal year and a $300,324,700 appropriation for the coming fiscal year.

3. Funds to continue the aircraft expansion program. The navy's air force to be pushed toward full authorization of 3,000 planes and the army air force to authorized strength of 6,000 fighting airships.

4. Continuation of the rearmament program of the war department. Expenditures for ordnance services and supplies estimated at 80 million dollars as against 70 million dollars for the current year.

Compared with Last Year.

The President's budget estimates for defense, compared with those of last year, are:

	1941 Fis. Year.	1940 Fis. Year.
Navy	$851,751,660	$723,589,092
Army	687,693,500	636,898,996
Emergency	300,324,700	159,870,300
Total	$1,839,769,860	$1,519,358,388

In the emergency expenditures are included $2,400,000 for antiespionage activities of the department of justice and $7,060,000 for increasing the coast guard for the 1941 fiscal year. For the 1940 fiscal year $1,300,000 was provided for the department of justice and $4,145,000 for the coast guard.

Related defense activities for 1941, which bring the total defense budget to approximately 2¼ billion dollars, include $223,400,000 for army PWA appropriations, $50,000,000 for navy PWA appropriations, and approximately 110 million dollars for nonmilitary activities of the war department, such as the Panama canal and rivers and harbors improvements, and reappropriations and unexpended balances made available in the war and navy departments.

Stepped Up Half Million.

In the present fiscal year the total of defense and related appropriations was approximately 1 billion 750 million dollars. In bringing them to approximately 2 billion dollars, Mr. Roosevelt made good his prediction that national defense costs would be stepped up by approximately 500 million dollars.

While the navy made known its building program in the budget estimates, the army remained silent on the number and type of weapons it plans to secure under the estimates in continuance of its rearmament program.

Army Details Withheld.

At the war department it was said that data on the type and caliber of weapons to be secured are regarded as restricted information. In defense of the order it was said that the war department is not indulging in mock secrecy to swell its own self-importance, altho it was acknowledged that foreign capitals can get an accurate idea of how much the army will be improved by looking at the total appropriation.

It was said that undoubtedly foreign nations know the extent of American unpreparedness, but the army was drawing the veil of secrecy about its activities as far as possible, because other powers are and have been doing so.

In the navy department the increase of $183,750,576 in regular defense appropriations was made up of $62,303,288 for increased personnel, aviation and general maintenance and operation and $121,447,288 for construction of new ships and modernization of old vessels. The bureau of aeronautics was given $111,117,500, as against $82,798,000 for the current year to swell the navy air force.

In the war department the increase for military activities was but $2,000,000. The budget estimates contemplated carrying forward the substantial increase in appropriations the army received in the current fiscal year.

Guard Funds Reduced.

The war department estimates provided a surprise in those concerning the National Guard. Militia funds were dropped from $53,220,645 in the current year to $47,857,881, altho the army high command had announced that to build up the country's defense it is necessary to build up the National Guard.

President Roosevelt said the Guard was being cut in the budget because nonrecurrent expenses were being dropped. The budget showed, however, that the reduction was being made principally because the item for uniforms and equipment was being cut from $21,503,952 to $15,298,965. The slash was offset somewhat by slight increases in other items.

FIGURES ON NAVIES OF SIX CHIEF POWERS BUILT AND BUILDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Following is the strength and building programs of leading world navies as of Oct. 1, 1939.

Since the European war began the British have lost the battleship Royal Oak, the aircraft carrier Courageous, and at least one submarine and three destroyers. The Germans have lost the Admiral Graf Spee and an undetermined number of submarines.

1,206 YOUNG MEN IN CCC QUIT TO GET PRIVATE JOBS

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that 1,206 young men left Civilian Conservation corps camps in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin between last Sept. 15 and Oct. 30 to take private employment. Nearly 400 of these were engaged as manufacturing workers and the rest as truck drivers, store clerks, office workers, mechanics, carpenters, painters, and electricians. Enrollments for the CCC are now being taken in the IERC certification office at 1257 North Paulina street.

LEAPS FROM BRIDGE; LIVES.

Freeport, Ill., Jan. 4 [Special].—Reported suffering from a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Henry Otto, 41 years old, jumped 15 feet from a bridge into the ice in the Pecatonica river today. She incurred fractures of the spine, lower jaw, left arm, and both heels, and was severely cut and bruised, but physicians said she probably would recover.

REAL JACKSON DAY FEAST URGED BY VANDENBERG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Altho the Republican leadership in congress has declined an invitation to the $100 a plate Democratic Jackson day dinner celebration on Jan. 8, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] informed Postmaster General James A. Farley today that he would like to attend one of these dinners and gladly pay $100 for the privilege.

The only condition stipulated by Senator Vandenberg in his letter to Farley was that the Democrats give a dinner "which is historically faithful to the original Jackson dinner."

The original Jackson day dinner, the senator explained, was held on Jan. 8, 1835, on the 20th anniversary of Andrew Jackson's victory at the battle of New Orleans and in honor of the "extinguishment of the national debt." As a souvenir for the Jackson day dinner next Monday night, Senator Vandenberg inclosed a photostat of the call as it appeared in the Washington Globe of Jan. 8, 1835.

Jackson Proposes Toast.

Senator Vandenberg reminded Mr. Farley that President Jackson proposed the following toast:

"The payment of the public debt! Let us commemorate it as an event which gives us increased power as a nation, and reflects luster on our union, of whose justice, fidelity, and wisdom it is a glorious illustration."

"Parton's history," Senator Vandenberg continued, "says of the first Jackson day dinner:

"'It was the day which Gen. Jackson esteemed the most glorious of his presidency. . . . The President had looked forward to the extinguishment of the national debt as he would have done to the deliverance of his own estate. Out of debt! The honest citizen feels the magic of the words! Out of debt! The public man of the future will be contented with little less for his country.'"

Celebrates an Increase.

The dinner next Monday night, Senator Vandenberg added, "celebrates an increase in the national debt from 21 billion dollars in 1933 to 42 billion dollars in 1940.

"I know it will be a long time before we can ever hope for another Jackson day dinner in keeping with the historic precedent from which it purloins its name. Certainly it is a far cry from zero to 42 billions in the red! But if we ever really start back even in the direction of the true Jacksonian ideal, let's have a joint Jackson day dinner which Old Hickory himself — bless his memory! — would be glad to attend. Only 'deficit spenders' will be unhappy on that glorious occasion."

JUNE TRAVIS IS BRIDE; ELOPES TO CROWN POINT

The mother of June Travis, former motion picture and now a radio actress, yesterday confirmed her elopement with Fred Friedlob to Crown Point, Ind., Wednesday night. Miss Travis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grabiner of the Shoreland hotel. Grabiner is vice president of the White Sox. The elopement was a surprise to the family, Mrs. Grabiner said, tho an early wedding had been expected.

Friedlob is the son of Mrs. Sara Friedlob, 5454 South Shore drive. He is head of the Smalley Accessories corporation, manufacturers of automobile supplies. The wedding was witnessed by a close friend of Miss Travis, Miss Virginia Penn, 7224 Jeffery avenue, and Stanley Leeser of the Windermere hotel.

PRESIDENT ASKS YEAR'S BUDGET OF 8½ BILLIONS

Estimates of Deficit Run Up to 3 Billions.

the comment on the budget message by Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], ranking minority member of the house appropriations committee. "It was an 'A' budget, with a 'B' budget to come along later and the 'B' budget will have the real sting in it."

Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.], another minority member of the appropriations committee, said that the message "is very interesting for what it fails to say rather than for what it does say. That statement is made in the light of experience on the appropriations committee. There are already four deficiency appropriation bills in for this year."

Estimates and Deficits.

President Roosevelt's budget estimates of the deficit during the fiscal years he has been in office and actual deficits for those years are shown in the following table [in millions of dollars]:

Fiscal Year	President's Estimate.	Actual Net Deficit.	Under Estimate.
1933	1,200	1,784	584
1934	1,000	2,895	1,895
1935	2,000	3,210	1,210
1936	3,892	4,550	658
1937	518	3,148	2,630
1938	None	1,384	1,384
1939	*950	3,542	2,592
1940	3,326	*3,933	607
Total	12,886	24,446	11,560
1941	2,876
Est. total	15,762

*Latest revision.

Mr. Roosevelt presented the following summary of the budget for 1941:

National defense	$1,800,000,000
Work relief programs	1,300,000,000
Agricultural programs	900,000,000
Public works and investments	1,100,000,000
Pensions, retirements, assist.	1,200,000,000
Interest on public debt	1,100,000,000
Regular operating	1,000,000,000
Total	$8,400,000,000

"This table," said Mr. Roosevelt, "presents in a simple form which any layman can understand, the principal divisions into which government expenditures fall. I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to 'balance the budget.' It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences."

Tries to Erplain Deficits.

The President devoted considerable space to an effort to explain away the public debt, now standing at 42 billions. Deducting the government's "7 billion dollars of cash," the President got the debt down to 35 billions, only 19 of which has been contracted since he took office. And of that 19 billions 17 were expended in taking over the unemployment relief burden from states and municipalities while another 1 billion went for local highways.

That left only 1 billion dollars of the debt under the Roosevelt régime unaccounted for. But while knocking 7 billions of assets off the public debt the President made no mention of 6 billion 776 million of contingent liabilities on June 30 last, an increase of 613 millions in a year.

Bond's Stage Great January Clothing Sale

History has proven four things about every Bond sale [1] that the reductions, which is another way of saying values, is worth every man's time and attention, [2] that all merchandise offered is typical, regular Bond stock containing no merchandise whatsoever bought merely for sale purposes, [3] that the service, if anything, is even better than ordinary, and service at Bond's means a full range of sizes and "builds" along with careful and courteous attention to every customer, [4] that because of all these things you can buy at a Bond sale with the utmost confidence.

Bond's Name Worthy.

A sale at Bond's is doubly reassuring to all men from students up who appreciate finer wearing apparel at low costs, because of years of dependability and growth. Right from the start, over a decade ago, Bond's have increased in popularity to a chain of national importance, known country-wide for better tailored clothes, fair treatment and prices that save many dollars annually to thrift-minded men. Sales such as you can read about below have become events which men all over the country wait for in anticipation of stocking up on a famous brand of merchandise at decidedly easy-on-the-budget savings.

Bigger and Better.

This year's great January sale is no exception in its many advantages. Make it a point to stop in today at Bond's big clearance and get first choice at the cream of the crop in two trouser suits and overcoats, all overcoats Rochester Tailored and all regular Bond stock. Styles and patterns cover the entire fashion front for the current season and they're available in practically every size for every man whether he is stout, short, tall or slender. Most any suit or overcoat you can pick is of expensive imported wool and tailored according to the dictates of the world's finest designers from conservative business models up to the smartest drapes and in smooth, sleek unfinished worsteds and rough loungy tweeds and Chevviots. And, remember, two trousers with every suit which is a boon to the man with a limited wardrobe.

Two Way Savings.

Suits and coats, with the distinguished quality of Rochester Tailored craftsmanship, formerly up to $30 are now down to $22.85 for this discount sale. At $27.85 you can choose from suits and overcoats regularly up to $35. And here is the climax—at $19.85 — an almost unbelievably low price for Bond quality, you can choose from an amazing selection of broken lots of Bond overcoats—skillfully tailored and sewn—overcoats that will not only carry you through the balance of this season but will see you through next winter in warmth and style. On top of the regular sale reductions buying NOW is almost certain to bring you additional savings because of the fact that wool prices are up over 60% and future prices are forecasted to rise sharply.

Student Lane Line Included.

If you have a young man in your home who wears sizes anywhere between 15 and 22 you had better bring or send him to any one of Bond's five conveniently located stores at once. For there he will see clothes to gladden his heart at savings that will gladden your purse. Here's a chance to get him set with smart clothing for a long time. He'll appreciate these chesty, broad-shouldered clothes that Bond makes for young men who expect to go places. And these clothes will go places during this sale at $18.85 and $21.85.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S 1941 FISCAL YEAR BUDGET MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—Here is the text of President Roosevelt's budget message to congress:

"I transmit herewith the budget of the United States government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941. Estimated expenditures at $8,424,000,000 are down $675,000,000 from the fiscal year 1940. Estimated normal receipts at $5,548,000,000 are up $382,000,000 from the fiscal year 1940. Recovery of excess capital funds from government corporations is estimated at $700,000,000.

"The net deficit is estimated at $2,176,000,000 as compared with an estimated $3,933,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940. If the tax recommendations totaling $460,000,000 herein made are adopted, the deficit will be further decreased to $1,716,000,000. Appropriations, excluding those for debt retirement, as distinguished from actual expenditures, are estimated at $8,101,000,000, as contrasted with $8,889,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940.

REVIEW OF FISCAL POLICY.

"The budget of the United States government is a statement that reflects in money terms what the government does for the people and what the people contribute to the government.

"In these figures over a course of years are mirrored the changing attitudes of the people toward the growing needs which they expect their government to meet. The relatively low and constant level of expenditures thruout the 1920s accurately reflected the relatively minor rôle played by the government in those years. The substantial increase in the past decade is a reflection of the degree to which the country, in response to changing economic and international conditions and changing attitudes, has turned to the government to meet social needs recognized by our citizenship. Nowhere are our democratic processes so faithfully depicted.

Previous Policy Called Simple.

"In the early thirties—prior to 1933—fiscal policy was exceedingly simple in theory and extraordinarily disastrous in practice. It consisted in trying to keep expenditures as low as possible in the face of shrinking national income. Persistence in this attempt came near to bankrupting both our people and our government.

"Following 1933 the fiscal policy of the government was more realistically adapted to the needs of the people. All about were idle men, idle factories, and idle funds, and yet the people were in desperate need of more goods than they had the purchasing power to acquire. The government deliberately set itself to correct these conditons by borrowing idle funds to put idle men and idle factories to work.

"The deliberate use of government funds and of government credit to energize private enterprise—to put purchasing power in the hands of those who urgently needed it and to create a demand for the products of factory and farm—had a profound effect both on government and private incomes. The national income in four years rose 69 per cent, from 42 billion dollars in 1933 to 72 billion dollars in 1937, the largest absolute rise for any four year period in our history, not even excepting the rise during the world war.

Outgo Exceeds Income.

"Tax revenues rose from 2 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1933 to over 5 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1937, primarily because the people had more income out of which to pay taxes. The people paid 3 billion dollars more in taxes, but they had nearly 10 times more than that, or 30 billion dollars, to spend on other things. This statement deserves a headline.

"Rapid progress was made toward a balanced budget. By the calendar year 1937 excess of government cash outgo over government cash income had dropped to 331 million dollars.

"Unfortunately, just at the time when it seemed that the federal government would be able safely to balance its budget on the basis of a national income of approximately 75 billion dollars, maladjustments in the economic system began to appear and caused a recession in economical activity. The recession was due to a variety of causes stemming in the main from overoptimism, which led the government to curtail its net expenditures too sharply for consumers' purchasing power to keep pace. A large volume of unsold goods piled up.

More Credit Recommended.

"If the recession were not to feed on itself and become another depression, the buying power of the people, which constitutes the market for the products of industry and agriculture, had to be maintained. To this end, in the spring of 1938, I recommended a further use of government credit and the congress acted on my recommendation.

"The soundness of this realistic approach to a fiscal policy related to economic need was again strikingly demonstrated. In place of the 42 billion dollar decline in national income that occurred from 1929 to 1932, the decline from 1937 to 1938 scarcely exceeded 8 billion dollars. In place of a four year period of liquidation and deflation, productive activity turned up within nine months. By 1939, in terms of dollars, the national income closely approached and, in terms of real production and consumption, making allowance for the lower level of prices, was equal to that of 1937.

"The experience of 1938-'39 should remove any doubt as to the effectiveness of a fiscal policy related to economic need. The wise exercise of such a fiscal policy imposes grave responsibility on the government. Government must have the wisdom to use its credit to sustain economic activity in periods of economic recession and the courage to withhold it and retire debt in periods of economic prosperity. And let us not forget that the withholding of government credits in time of need for political advantage is no less reprehensible than its profligate use at any time.

Unemployment Still Lags.

"In approaching the budget for the fiscal year 1941 I have sought, as in the past, to relate fiscal policy to probable economic necessities. As the budget is being prepared we are achieving the highest levels of production and consumption in our history. The extent to which recovery has progressed, and the degree to which speculation and price increases have, on the whole, been kept in check, have made it possible for us to consider a substantial lessening of government expenditures on activities not immediately essential for national defense.

"On the other hand employment still lags considerably below the levels of 1929. Many of our younger workers have not found employment, and many others have been displaced by the machine. We must not only guard the gains we have made, but we must press on to attain full employment for those who have been displaced by machines as well as for the 5,000,000 net addition to the labor force since 1929. We must, therefore, avoid the danger of too drastic or too sudden a curtailment of government support.

Asks Special Tax Receipts.

"Against this background of aims substantially but not fully attained, I propose in the field of fiscal policy that we adopt the following course: We should count upon a natural increase in receipts from current taxes and a decrease in emergency expenditures, and we should try to offset the unavoidable increase in expenditures for national defense by special tax receipts, and thus hope to secure, for the overall picture, a gradual tapering off, rather than an abrupt cessation, of the deficit.

"In the proposed budget I have tried to interpret the wishes of the people. They want to strengthen our national defenses and are prepared to pay additional taxes for this purpose. They wish to attain, if possible, an overall decrease in expenditures. They would like to see a reduction in the deficit, but not of a magnitude that would imperil the progress of recovery.

EXPENDITURES.

"To translate the consideration of the budget from forensics to national needs, I submit a summary for the fiscal year 1941 of approximate expenditures required to meet these needs:

National defense	$1,800,000,000
Work relief programs	1,300,000,000
Agricultural programs	900,000,000
Public works and investments	1,100,000,000
Pensions, retirements, and assistance	1,200,000,000
Interest on the public debt	1,100,000,000
Regular operating	1,000,000,000
Total	$8,400,000,000

"This table presents in a simple form which any layman can understand, the principal divisions into which government expenditures fall. I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to balance the budget. It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences.

"But it is the old, old story of the man who loves to utter generalities and changes the subject abruptly when he is pinned down to hard facts.

"In these headings, for example, I do not believe that the majority of the people in this country want to reduce the budgeted estimate of $1,800,000,000 for national defense. This is an increase, of course, over the current year, but it is far less than many experts on national defense think should be spent, tho it is in my judgment a sufficient amount for the coming year.

Soil Operations Cited.

"I do not believe that the majority of the people in this country want to see the work relief programs for the coming year reduced below $1,300,000,000. This sum, in itself, covering the activities of the Work Projects administration, the National Youth administration, the Civilian Conservation corps, and grants of the Farm Security administration, represents a large—perhaps too large—reduction of current expenditures.

"I do not believe that the majority of people feel that the agricultural programs should be reduced below the figure of $900,000,000 because this figure, in itself a large reduction below the current year, will be barely sufficient to carry out soil production and surplus removal operations.

"I do not believe that the majority of people think the item for public works and investments of $1,100,000,000 can be further reduced because this amount contains practically no money for new projects in any part of the country.

Interest Item Over a Billion.

"I do not believe that the majority of people feel that the government can possibly reduce, by any substantial sum, the figure of $1,200,000,000 for pensions, retirements, and assistance of many kinds, including public health work, aid for dependent children and the blind, and veterans' benefits.

"The item of $1,100,000,000 for interest on the public debt cannot, of course, be reduced at all, and we should remember that the rate of interest paid by the government is today one-third lower than it was in 1929.

"All of these items amounted to estimated expenditures of $7,400,000,000 and there remains only one other item of $1,000,000,000—12 per cent of the total—for the operating costs of the regular departments of the government. These are down to the bedrock of the activities and functions ordered by congress. If further savings are to be made in these operating costs, the congress will have to direct by statute the elimination of many functions. And even if they should do so, the amount saved in this budget could only be a small percentage of the total.

"Therefore, those who call for further cuts should have the courage and the honesty to specify where they should be made.

Emergency Military Expenses.

"NATIONAL DEFENSE—These estimates represent expenditures needed to develop and maintain our normal defense preparations. They also include, in view of the current world situation, the emergency expenditures required for the war and navy departments, the coast guard, department of justice, and the Panama canal.

"In order that these emergency requirements may be clearly shown I have segregated them for both the fiscal years 1940 and 1941. They call for supplemental appropriations of $272,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940, and appropriations of $302,000,000 in the fiscal year 1941. Expenditures are estimated at $160,000,000 and $300,000,000 in these two years. This segregation will, I hope, help to focus attention on our emergency defense expenditures and the problem of financing them. It will also facilitate the return to a normal defense program when the current emergency has passed.

Business Upturn Considered.

"WORK RELIEF PROGRAMS—For the purpose of this summary I have included the activities of the Work Projects administration, the National Youth administration, the Civilian Conservation corps, and the grants of the Farm Security administration.

"In submitting estimates for these agencies I have taken into consideration the current improvement in business conditions. The first effects of increased business activity have not resulted in a proportionate reduction in relief needs. This is because the increase in employment has affected principally those who have had casual or part time work. But there is reason to hope that a continued expansion of business would diminish relief requirements substantially.

"While the estimates are appreciably less than those for the current year, I am hopeful that they will prove adequate. The Work Projects administration will be able to provide employment for an average of 1,350,000 persons. The National Youth administration can employ an average of nearly 600,000 American youths, and the Civilian Conservation corps will operate 1,227 camps and provide for a monthly average of 230,000 enrollees. The Farm Security administration will operate about 80 per cent of its 1940 level. Relief expenditures should be closely geared to actual needs. If conditions fail to meet our hopes additional funds may be necessary. I may, therefore, submit revised estimates later in the session.

Would Continue Farm Program.

"AGRICULTURAL PROGRAMS—Under the broad heading of agricultural programs I have included agricultural adjustment benefits, the surplus removal program and parity payments arising from 1940 appropriations.

"Despite a gratifying general increase in farm income, agriculture is still not receiving its proper share of the national income. I am, therefore, proposing to continue substantially undiminished the various agricultural programs.

"I have not, however, included estimates for new appropriations for parity payments in 1941. I am influenced by the hope that next year's crops can be sold by their producers for at least 75 per cent of parity. I do not suggest in any way abandonment of the policy of parity payments heretofore adopted, and future events may call for some appropriation to this end. I note, however, in passing, that the congress has failed to make any provision for the financing of these payments already made or obligated for 1938 and 1939 crops.

Works Outlay Still Large.

"PUBLIC WORKS AND INVESTMENTS—This broad class of expenditure represents the use of federal capital for investment in useful public works, for ship construction, and for loans largely for aid to agriculture.

"While the expenditures for these purposes in 1941 remain large, a substantial portion of them arises from existing appropriations or takes the form of reimbursable loans.

"The estimated expenditure for the general public works program is $641,000,000, but the proposed new appropriation for this item to carry on already authorized projects is only $498,000,000. To obtain this relatively low figure, the starting of important new projects has had to be postponed and the purchase of additional land has had to be limited rigidly. This action brings the public works program down to the minimum goal of $500,000,000 a year suggested by me on several previous occasions, and conserves the reservoir of public projects for a time when private construction declines.

"Last year, in the interests of more accurate and intelligible statements of the financial operations of the government, I invited the attention of the congress to the desirability of capitalizing certain capital expenditures of the government that have proved to be self-liquidating. I renew that recommendation at this time.

"As before, I would confine this principle to projects that are definitely capable of yielding revenues sufficient to defray, with interest, their cost of construction. In accordance with this principle I propose that the requirements for new self-liquidating loans of the Rural Electrification administration be met thru funds advanced by the Reconstruction Finance corporation instead of by direct appropriation.

Pensions and Interest.

"PENSIONS, RETIREMENTS, AND ASSISTANCE — This category includes grants to the states under the social security act for old-age assistance, for maternal and child welfare, for public health work, and for aid to dependent children and the blind, as well as veterans' benefits, railroad retirement benefits, and contributions to federal employé retirement funds. It does not include insurance benefits paid out of the old age and unemployment trust funds. This general category affects the individual security and health of millions of citizens. Its growth reflects mainly the beginning of a comprehensive social security program.

"INTEREST ON THE PUBLIC DEBT — Obviously no reduction in this item can be made in the next year. The average interest rate on the public debt for the fiscal year 1929 was 3.9 per cent. The present computed rate is 2.6 per cent.

"REGULAR OPERATING EXPENSES—This item represents the basic financial requirements of the government. Blue pencil inroads are not easy to make. In the face of large and appealing requests for increases I have held appropriations and estimates of expenditures generally to the 1940 level or below. Where legislation has added new activities, I have offset the cost by reductions in old activities.

"I have carefully checked the individual estimates under these broad categories, and I am satisfied that no lower figures can be attained except at the expense of impairing the efficiency with which laws are administered or of working undue hardship on individuals and economic groups. I refuse to accept the responsibility of adoptin~ either alternative.

OTHER SIDE OF THE BUDGET.

"REVENUE ESTIMATES — Total tax revenues are estimated at $6,151,000,000. Tax revenues, after deducting appropriations to the old age security fund, are estimated at $5,548,000,000. Altho net revenue collections for the fiscal year 1941 are estimated to exceed by $382,000,000 the estimated collections for the fiscal year 1940, the increase is not as large as some might have expected. This is owing partly to the inevitable lag of tax collections behind increasing incomes, and also partly, it is feared, to an impairment of the productiveness of the tax base arising from the revisions in 1938 and 1939 of corporate and individual income and capital gains taxes.

"RETURN OF SURPLUS FUNDS FROM GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS—At various times in the past as emergencies have arisen, the federal government has established credit corporations and has invested substantial amounts in their capital structures. Atho these expenditures were nonrecurring and extraordinary costs, they were reflected in the annual budgets as charges against current receipts and increased the deficits of prior years.

Forecasts Cut in Capital.

"With the lessening need for loans in some cases and the growing surpluses in other cases, it appears that some of these corporations will have excess capital funds. Currently, in response to senate resolution 150, seventy-sixth congress, a comprehensive survey and appraisal of assets of government corporations is being carried out. On the basis of preliminary studies, I estimate that it will prove feasible to reduce the capital funds of some of these corporations by an aggregate figure of $700,000,000, without in any way impeding their operations.

"In the case of certain lending agencies, any funds received from the retirement of stock will be credited to revolving funds in the treasury and will be available for new subscriptions of stock when, as, and if needed. In these cases payments to the treasury will appear as credits under certain expenditure items. In other cases, payments will be reflected in miscellaneous receipts.

Makes Tax Recommendation.

"NATIONAL DEFENSE TAXES—I am convinced that specific tax legislation should be enacted to finance the emergency national defense expenditures. Altho these expenditures appear unavoidable, they will not increase the permanent wealth producing capacity of our citizens. I believe that it is the general sense of the country that this type of emergency expenditure be met by a special tax or taxes. Moreover, this course will make for greater assurance that such expenditures will cease when the emergency has passed.

"I strongly recommend to the congress, therefore, that additional taxes be imposed to yield in the fiscal year 1941 at least enough to cover the emergency national defense expenditures in the fiscal years 1940 and 1941. In seeking additional sources of revenue, I hope that the congress will follow the accepted principle of good taxation of taxing according to ability to pay and will avoid taxes which decrease consumer buying power.

Deficit More Than 2 Billion.

"THE DEFICIT—The deficit for the fiscal year 1941 is estimated at $2,176,000,000, as contrasted with $3,933,000,000 for the fiscal year 1940. It is expected that these deficits will be met in normal course partly by additional tax collections, partly by carrying lower balances, and partly by borrowing. If the congress adopts my recommendations with reference to taxes, the deficit for 1941 will be reduced to $1,716,000,000.

"FINANCING THE MAINTENANCE COST OF CERTAIN SERVICES—I have always believed that many facilities made available to our citizens by the government should be paid for, at least in part, by those who use them. For example, I believe that in the case of parks, national forests, historic monuments, and so forth, small fees, as low as 5 or 10 cents per person, should be charged to those who enjoy them. A start on this policy has been made.

"In such a way a substantial part of the annual cost of maintenance of roads, trails, and grounds in forests and parks will come back to the treasury and reduce the annual cost of government. Another example is the $50,000,000 the government spends annually in the maintenance of dredged channels, buoys, lighthouses, life-saving stations and so forth. It would seem reasonable that some portion of these annual expenditures should come back in the form of small fees from the users of our lakes channels, harbors and coasts. If the congress would make a special study of the further possibilities along these lines I will be glad to make available for such a study material from various departments.

FEDERAL ADMINISTRATION.

"Effective execution of the federal program for the fiscal year 1941 and the prospect of economies to be reflected in the estimates for future years is directly related to the quality of federal administration. The economies reflected in the 1941 estimates are the result of the cooperative effort of the entire administrative service.

"Generally, we are prepared to move forward on reduced rations. In several management agencies I have recognized a condition of definite undernourishment. I have, for example, provided increases for the bureau of the budget and the civil service commission. I believe in each we will be making a modest investment which will in future years pay large dividends. Furthermore, as I have suggested in my annual message, it is important for good administration that large numbers of positions now exempt should be placed under the requirements of the civil service.

"Reorganization has proceeded in accordance with Plans I and II. As a result, $11,000,000 of savings already have been impounded this year and deducted from the estimate base for 1941. With further readjustment in the machinery and business practices of the government, additional savings will be realized.

"Reorganization has also brought the bureau of the budget into the executive office. With the additional appropriation for this bureau, our budgetary procedure can be greatly strengthened. We are beginning to get more effective review of estimates. With the help of congress we can make further progress in improving our accounting and appropriation procedures. This is a necessary prelude to better budgetary control. The bureau of the budget is preparing itself to be increasingly helpful in the supplying of information to the appropriation committees of the congress.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

"There has been so much discussion about the public debt that I feel that some concluding observations thereon would be very appropriate at this time.

"There is no subject on which there is more conscious or unconscious deception than the public debt. People who would never dream of assessing their own position solely in terms of their liabilities do so continually in discussing the government's position.

"Those who state baldly that the government's debt is 42 billion dollars—and stop there—are stating a deceptive half truth calculated to make our people apprehensive.

"For one thing it would clarify the public mind if it were pointed out that of the 42 billion dollar figure the amount incurred between June 30, 1933, and Dec. 31, 1939, is just 19 billion dollars. For another thing it would be more honest and more honorable for them to say that while one line in the national budget shows a national debt of 42 billion dollars other lines indicate that the government has 7 billion dollars of cash, gold available for debt redemption, and proprietary interest in government corporations, which reduces the net debt to 35 billion dollars.

Billions in Loans.

"In addition, of course, there are the billions of dollars worth of durable, tangible assets constructed or purchased by the government that are a real offset to the debt, tho never listed as such.

"During the period between June 30, 1933, and June 30, 1940, nearly 14 billion dollars of federal funds have gone into recoverable loans and investments and durable improvements.

"Furthermore, during the same period, the burden of the combined total of public and private debts has decreased. The interest on the public debt alone in the calendar year 1939 constituted only 1.45 per cent of the national income as contrasted with a corresponding percentage of 1.62 per cent for the year 1933. The increase in the national income over 1932 for the year 1939 alone is far in excess of the total increase in the debt for the whole period since 1933. The credit of the federal government has never been higher.

"The debt accumulated since 1933 represents a far more prudent and productive use of our people's savings than much of the enormous private debts piled up in the 20s. The billions that were borrowed for speculation, for foreign loans, for second and third mortgages on overproduced commercial construction, hardly represented the most prudent use of our people's savings.

Refers to Private Debts.

"It is true that isolated debts can be defaulted without great harm to the general economy. But this is not true when, as in 1933, a large part of our private debt was in danger of default, and the savings of the whole community, as well as the general credit of industry and agriculture, were imperiled.

"A part of the existing public debt and of agency loans is in fact accounted for by the necessary assumption by the government—thru the familiar 'bailing out' process—of private debts on the verge of default.

"In considering the growth of the federal debt, it must finally be borne in mind that in recent years the federal government has had to take over some of the burdens which had heretofore fallen upon our states and municipalities. By 1933 the strain of the depression upon the finances of local governments had become unbearable. From June, 1929, to June, 1933, states and municipalities had to increase their net debt by over 4 billion dollars and their credit in many cases had approached the breaking point. By 1933 there was an insistent demand that the national government come to the financial aid of local governments.

Roads Grants Increased.

"Consequently, between June, 1933, and June, 1940, the federal government will have made available for local relief, work relief, and local public works the sum of 17 billion dollars. In addition, during this same period, the federal government increased its grants for public roads by 1 billion dollars over the preceding seven years.

"By reason of these federal expenditures it became possible for the states and municipalities during this period to rehabilitate their credit, and even to reduce slightly their aggregate indebtedness. If they had continued to discharge the responsibilities that were formerly theirs to a degree commensurate with the federal government's effort, the aggregate indebtedness of our states and municipalities would have been increased by not less than 18 billion dollars and their taxes would have been enormously increased.

"Debt, whether individual, corporate, or governmental, cannot be judged in a vacuum; it must be considered in light of earnings, assets, and credit standing. When the increase in the national debt is viewed against the background of what was accomplished by the growth of useful physical assets, and of effective national earning power, and by the strengthening of the nation's credit and morale, there is no economic ground for anxiety, so far as the national debt is concerned, as to the nation's future. And if our citizens understand the capacity of the nation to produce increased national income and act thereon with all possible faith and practical energy, they will be in a position to anticipate a balanced budget without curtailing essential social programs."

NOTE: To reflect an accurate comparison for the fiscal year 1941 with the other fiscal years shown on the foregoing statement, the expenditures for the old age reserve account have been eliminated; these amounted to 503 million dollars in 1939 and an estimated 537 millions in 1940.

11 Years of Deficits

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—The eleventh consecutive federal deficit was forecast by President Roosevelt today for the next fiscal year. Here's how his expenditure, deficit, and debt figures for fiscal 1941 stack up with the other 10 years:

Fiscal year ended June 30.	Expenditures.	Gross deficit.	Gross debt on July 1.
1931	$4,091,508,000	$ 901,959,000	$16,801,485,000
1932	5,153,645,000	3,147,919,000	19,487,010,000
1933	5,142,954,000	3,063,257,000	22,538,672,000
1934	7,105,050,000	3,989,496,000	27,053,686,000
1935	7,375,825,000	3,575,358,000	28,701,167,000
1936	8,879,798,000	4,763,842,000	33,545,385,000
1937	8,105,159,000	2,811,318,000	36,427,091,000
1938	7,691,287,000	1,449,625,000	37,164,740,000
1939	9,268,338,000	3,600,514,000	40,439,532,000
*1940	9,199,253,000	4,032,813,000	43,222,346,000
*1941	8,524,191,000	1,816,231,000	44,938,577,000

*As estimated in today's budget message.

In the estimates for 1940 and 1941 fiscal years the President deducted social security tax revenues from both the revenue and expenditure totals. This makes the expenditure totals somewhat smaller than they appeared in former years, but does not affect the deficit. The 1941 deficit and debt estimates are based on the assumption that congress votes $460,000,000 extra taxes for defense costs. The 1941 deficit estimate given here includes $100,000,000 for debt retirement, not included in the President's net deficit estimate of $1,716,231,000.

Summary of Federal Budget

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Following is an official tabulation, or general summary, of the 1941 federal budget sent to congress by the President today. It covers general and special accounts for three fiscal years. The 1941 fiscal year starts next July 1:

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE OSTRICH AND THE CAKE.

Mr. Roosevelt believes that the ostrich buries his head in the sand when alarmed. He also says that you cannot eat your cake and have it. From these observations he draws the conclusion that united we stand and divided we fall. The ostrich has been trying to deny the legend of this foolishness, but without success. Now that his head is not only in the sand but is imbedded in a state paper, he might as well give up and let it stay there.

The New Deal ostrich, being a bird of fable and not required to hustle its own living, has had its head in the ground as a protective measure for five or six years. In this position it hides from its sight the approaching dangers for which it is responsible. With its head in the sand it sees that the problems of the country have been solved. The promises of 1933 are the facts of 1940. The white rabbits jump out of the hat.

The New Deal cake eaters have confounded the cake maxim. They profess, and Mr. Roosevelt heretofore has supported them, that you can eat your cake and have it. They have eaten 21 billion dollars worth and they say that it is still in the cake box. Was Mr. Roosevelt thoughtful in renouncing this basic principle of the New Deal economic faith which holds that a deficit is an asset, that debt is an addition to the capital wealth, that it is an illusion to think that money which has been borrowed and spent has been borrowed and spent? The cake can be cut and passed around and it remains intact. It's eaten, but it's there.

In general, Mr. Roosevelt in his message on the state of the Union conveyed the impression that his is the best of all possible administrations, that it has led the country into green pastures, and that the only thing remaining for the people to do is to rally round the flag and give three cheers. All that can be said of this is that nobody but an ostrich which would stick its head in the sand—or in the cake—would believe it.

EIGHT YEARS TOO LATE.

The projected foreclosure and sale of the Southmoor hotel for delinquent taxes furnishes some significant symptoms of Chicago's tax troubles. The full value of the property as last fixed by the assessor is $1,058,000. Taxes, unpaid since 1928, are $311,711. Penalties and costs will boost the county's judgment to more than $400,000.

The foreclosure suit was not started until the owners of the equity in the hotel had guaranteed to make a minimum bid of $265,000 at the foreclosure sale. The state's attorney was wise in getting this bid before starting the suit; a tax foreclosure sale of some vacant property in Park Ridge a few years ago failed to produce the costs of the proceeding.

There are several reasons why no one is likely to offer more than $265,000 for eventual title to a property that the assessor, at least, thinks is worth more than $1,000,000. One reason is that Chicago has so much tax delinquent property that it gluts the market. A second is that the buyer, under the state constitution, does not get title for two years. The courts have held that he does not get possession, either. For two years the equity holders would get the revenue from the property. They would pay no taxes, which would add another $60,000 to $75,000 to the buyer's cost.

Until a few years ago the equity owners could virtually dismantle the property while it remained in their possession. Following tax foreclosure sales, it was not unusual for owners of land to cut the timber off it, or for owners of buildings to sell the windows and plumbing, surrendering only a skeleton to the buyer at the end of the redemption period. Only recently was such a buyer empowered to ask for a receiver when property that he has purchased subject to redemption was being allowed to go to ruin.

Regardless of whether the offer by the equity owners is a sufficient one, the foreclosure deal seems on the whole, to be advantageous to the county. A substantial sum in back taxes will be received and, what is even more important, the property from now on may be expected to meet its current tax bills. Obviously, the hundreds of thousands of taxpayers who have been paying their bills as they came due are treated unfairly when delinquent taxes are settled at less than 100 cents on the dollar, with no provision for penalties. However, it has not been the present owners of the hotel, but the county officials charged with the duty of collecting taxes, who have perpetrated this injustice.

The Southmoor hotel was in a state court receivership from 1927 until 1934. At any time after 1932, and perhaps earlier, it could have been foreclosed as it is being foreclosed now. A sale at that time very probably would have yielded enough to pay the taxes and penalties then due. It would almost certainly, by delivering a debt-free property, have made it possible for it to meet current tax payments.

THE DIES COMMITTEE REPORT.

The Dies committee has made a report to congress covering its year and a half of investigation and will ask authority and an appropriation to continue. The investigation was begun when even superficial evidence indicated that communist doctrines had made a great penetration into many activities of American governmental, economic, and industrial life. There was much on the surface to show that a powerful force was influencing political thought and directing the trend of public policy.

The Dies committee cannot be accused of conducting a witch hunt. It has not been assumed by it that the activities into which it inquired were illegal or immoral. It has sought to ascertain to what extent various organizations and persons engaged in public affairs and political activity wanted to change the American form of economic, political, and social order from one of free enterprise to one of collectivism, state socialism, or Marxian communism, and how they were proposing to do it.

The Dies committee has not impaired any one's privileges or rights and has not put any one in peril, except as might come from a violation of law, if such should be the decision against Mr. Browder and other members of the communist party accused of passport frauds. The persons who have been examined have been treated respectfully.

Whereas other forms of what are called un-American activities were found in organizations which seem to disclose their own puerility and imbecility, the communist movement had shrewd and vigorous leadership. Its success was to be attributed chiefly to the development of influences sympathetic with a revolutionary change in American national economy. The New Deal itself was, as its principal spokesmen disclose, in the main based upon a conception of control of capital, investment, and production along Marxist lines.

The communist vanguard would not have become very important or penetrated very deeply into the educational, the governmental, and the industrial systems, or gone far with organized labor without sympathetic aid. But when the New Deal economists all offered a plan of governmental controls hostile to private investment and congenial to state management of capital, the communists perceived that the program of the government was their own. The association of soviet Russia with Nazi Germany has made a break in the friendly relations of the New Deal and the American communist party, proving, as the Dies committee report shows, that the party itself is merely an agent of the Russian government in this country.

The break, however, is purely defensive so far as the New Deal is concerned and does not indicate change in radical ideas. The New Deal cannot support the invasion of Finland, but it has not broken with the invasion of Marxist ideas into American economy. The Dies committee has traced the ramifications of these doctrines into numerous American organizations, most of which have no acknowledged connection with the communist party, but which have promoted the growth of collectivist ideas.

The Dies committee asks for renewed authority. It has already defined a number of political issues as no other public agency could have done. It should go on with its work.

WHEN THE QUINTS WAKE UP.

When a new house has been built for the Dionne family in Callander, Ontario, the famous children will become home girls. They will live with the family. Dr. Dafoe is to give up his guardianship and the quints will be taken out of the sheltered nursery where they have been unaware that they have crowded the surrounding region with tourists from afar eager to have a peek at them at play.

The five girls will be between 6 and 7 years old when they enter their new environment, where in the nature of things they will be much more in contact with the world about them than they have been thus far. And this will be about the time when they will be able to comprehend that they are famous, that they are known around the world, and why. That awakening will be interesting. Its effect upon developing character and its influence upon life may be great or little. One girl may be affected one way and another differently.

It is natural to assume that when they are of an age to decide for themselves they will be influenced in the direction of what people call careers—the stage or screen. They'll not need for money. A fair sized fortune is already in trust for them. Their future ordeal is to grow up in the consciousness that wherever they appear, singly or together, they are the objects of attention and curiosity. They will never be able to escape that. The effect of it might drive one person to a hermitage and lure another to life in the forum.

Editorial of the Day

ACREAGE CONTROL.
[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

The charge made by a former American Farm bureau official at Des Moines that "it is foolish to attempt to control yield thru acreage curtailment" deserves a good deal more consideration than it is likely to get. The shift by farmers to high yielding hybrid corn in the last few years points clearly to the need for greater emphasis on productive yield and less emphasis on acreage in the formula by which allotments under the crop control laws are fixed, if these laws are to be retained.

It would be unfair to say that use of hybrid corn alone has been responsible for failure of the acreage control program to cut the corn crop. We have had some exceptionally good corn weather in the last year or so. A bad year probably would bring the surplus down in a hurry.

But that is beside the point. The point is that what the AAA planners ostensibly are trying to control is the available supply of corn. The supply necessarily depends on the amount of grain produced by the land planted to corn, not by the geographical amount of land in corn. This factor is given insufficient weight in the present crop control formula.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

THE HIERARCHY OF BOTTLES.

Since numerous bottles of wines and spirits have been opened lately, to the enjoyment or confusion of holiday celebrants, it might be interesting to glance at the lore of these containers. How many kinds of bottles can you identify at a glance? Pints and quarts, of course, and maybe magnums, if you know your way around. But the hierarchy of bottles is much more impressive than that, so let's get it straight.

In the first place, the pints and quarts are misnamed, for they do not contain those amounts of liquid. The so-called quart [of wine] should be described as a standard bottle, and it contains one-sixth of a gallon. The so-called pint is a half bottle.

Now for the hierarchy, starting at the top:
Rehoboam or imperial [eight standard bottles].
Jeroboam [six standard bottles].
Double magnum [four standard bottles].
Tappit hen [three standard bottles].
Magnum [two standard bottles].
Standard bottle [about 26 ounces].
Imperial pint.
Alleged or reputed pint [one-half standard bottle].
Quarter bottle [sometimes called "nip," "baby," and other pet names].

You will not find all of these words in Webster's Dictionary, but they are in use, nevertheless, especially among the mighty and learned drinkers of England. The rehoboam was named after Solomon's successor, a king of Israel with a bad reputation. The jeroboam inherits from another Israelite king, "a mighty man of valor." The tappit hen is Scotch of name and usage; it is so called because a knob on the stopper was thought to resemble a crested moor hen.

Our authority for all this: "Notes on a Cellar Book," by George Saintsbury, a savant in English literature as well as in bottled goods.

YOU WILL COME BACK.

(A prophecy for the University of Chicago football teams.)

You know what it is
To lead the pack;
So never fear,
You will come back!

And we will be waiting—
Once again,
We will shake your hand,
As fighting men

Right gladly do
When they must meet
A foe who is fair
And hard to beat.

Forget the attempts
At rough edged wit
When things went wrong;
Back of it

Was no real spite;
It was, let us say,
Just the customary
American way.

A heritage
Belongs to you;
And you are so many,
And they are so few

Who would erase it—
Yes, you will come back;
You who so often
Led the pack.

Review of a Major Industry.

Reviews of activities in various fields of business and amusement during 1939 have not included the crime novel industry. Here are the statistics: Two hundred and thirty-three books of this type were published in the United States; 400 principal characters were killed in them [minor homicides uncounted]; 151 were written by American authors; 82 by English authors; none by French, German, Scandinavian, or other continental authors; 64 were written by women; in only 20 of the grand total was the murder committed by a woman. [Thank you, Saturday Review of Literature.]

Court Ruling on the 48 Hour Day.

"The 28th and 29th of February, in the bissextile year, are to be reckoned as one day. Commercially, there are but 28 days in February."—7th Indiana, page 219, Craft vs. State Bank of Indiana, Nov. Term, 1855, Supreme court.

See below.

THE BISSEXTILE JUDGE.

When Henry Third
Announced that "28th and 29th of February,
In all bissextile years, should be Considered as one day,"
Little did he know that old Justice Gookin,
Speaking for the High Court of Indiana, in 1855,
Would save the hide of old man Craft,
By holding that "the bank had prematurely Demanded payment on a promissory note."

THOUGHT FOR A NEW YEAR.

Leave tarnished sorrow, disappointment, doubt,
Old worry, prejudice, defeat, and fear
Heaped like a cast-off, weary load outside
The shining portal of another year.

Untraveled hills and valleys gleam beyond
That wayfarers attain with mounting zest.
Who bears no useless burden from the past
Will find the miles ahead are always best.

More About "The Pure Quill."

Many years ago and up to 1900 along both State and Clark streets, mostly in basements, Chinese opium joints flourished. The pipe smokers, to indicate the quality of the pill they were hitting, would say, "This is the pure quill," meaning it was unadulterated.

Race track followers of the day were quick to absorb the expression. In those days dope was a prerequisite for some horses and many horse players. F. R. F. 1881.

MAINTAIN RESISTANCE AND ELUDE GERMS.

MOST of us are fearful of dangers that we cannot see or explain. Caution leads us to shun a spot that may conceal a marauder ready to strike without warning. In other words, we can prepare for risks that we can face and recognize.

For centuries mysterious contagious afflictions filled the minds and hearts of mankind with forebodings—they were not understood. From Daniel Defoe's story of the plague of London we are able to envision the panic-like response of the multitude to a hidden menace. Only later—when the discovery was made that the disease was transmitted by infected rat fleas—could we laugh such fears to scorn. Were this scourge encountered today we would increase our war on pestiferous rodents and thus eradicate the carriers.

All of us tote around germs much of the time. They abound on the skin and within the mouths and throats of perfectly healthy individuals. We who act as hosts are not disturbed because we know that we probably have sufficient immunity to render them harmless. All we need to do is to keep the body resistance high enough to prevent their growth. Under conditions of sound health should they attempt to propagate in great numbers they would be destroyed promptly.

Good housekeeping has come to be almost a religion because we realize that dust particles offer streamline transportation for microbes. Dirt blown into living rooms from the street or fields may carry the species responsible for lockjaw, gas gangrene, or anthrax. Should this material come into contact with the unbroken cuticle we will suffer no untoward effects. But let these microorganisms find their way inside via a wound or an abrasion [a splinter or puncture from a tack or a nail] and trouble may ensue.

We are taught also that we must be careful of what we eat and drink because when sewage contaminates our food, bacteria—such as those that bring on typhoid fever, dysentery, etc.—may be swallowed. We insist upon pasteurized milk, otherwise scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis, and many other ailments may be spread by this liquid.

As a rule, pneumonia does not occur in epidemics altho it may follow the widespread occurrence of influenza. Many pneumococci [the causative organisms], however, are found routinely in the throats and saliva of some who are perfectly well. These persons can act as carriers and thus convey the invaders to others who may not be quite so well fortified against them. We should recall also that sputum which is kept away from sunlight may harbor live germs for several days. One who has recovered from pneumonia, therefore, should be careful to cleanse thoroly the mouth and teeth at frequent intervals so that intermittent coughing will not disseminate the cocci to others in the home or the office.

Diphtheria usually comes from one who is ill with the disease or who is a spreader. Before we had antitoxin for cure or toxoid for prevention, this disorder could strike rapidly one child after another in a family.

Probably our most contagious malady is measles. One reason is that but few have the slightest resistance to it. During the early stage—when the child is suffering from what appears to be a cold—it is most infectious. Coughing, sneezing, and proximity, therefore, may scatter the "bugs." When peeling of the epidermis comes on, there is little or no hazard.

When a child falls ill the wisest plan is to isolate the youngster and keep others away until the nature of the ailment has been determined. It should be kept in mind, however, that the same source may infect two or more children in the household at about the same time, one developing symptoms sooner than the other.

There are many insurance measures. First is the maintenance of vigor. Then come the use of toxoid which will protect against diphtheria, toxin injections against scarlet fever, vaccine to ward off whooping cough, and smallpox immunization. We must depend upon the maintenance of a generous reserve to aid us in averting tuberculosis and influenza.

U. S. P. UNIT.

A. D. writes: What is the explanation of the various names given to "units" in connection with cod liver oil? I refer to "U. S. P." Also, what does "U. S. P." mean?

REPLY.

The United States Pharmacopeia [U. S. P.] insists that each gram [approximately ¼ teaspoonful] of cod liver oil must contain at least 600 U. S. P. units of vitamin A and 85 of D. The unit is an arbitrarily fixed standard employed by the several groups of investigators. The U. S. P. establishes standards for the purity of the oil as well as its vitamin content.

THERE ARE MANY CAUSES.

J. C. writes: A friend, who is 40 years old, has a very rapid heart. The tones are normal and he has no organic trouble. Would digitalis help him?

REPLY.

There are many causes for tachycardia [rapid heart beat]. The most common are: fatigue, nervousness, and certain stimulants, such as coffee, tea, and alcohol. Then, too, infection may be responsible. I have known many individuals to lower the heart rate to normal by reducing the consumption of tobacco. Only the physician who has examined the patient should prescribe digitalis or any other drug.

CALL AN EXTERMINATOR.

P. C. writes: Will burning a sulfur candle in a room kill bedbugs, roaches, and mice?

REPLY.

Not effective, as a rule, because the proportion of sulfur dioxide is rarely high enough. Cyanide gas will do the job, but only an experi [professional exterminator] should employ this deadly poison. A few traps will reduce the rodent population.

MOUTH BREATHING THE CAUSE.

S. B. writes: What causes the throat to be dry on arising in the morning?

REPLY.

Usually mouth breathing. Other causes are chronic infections and excessive smoking.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—The frequent occasions on which stranded crews from torpedoed ships have been brought into Irish ports constantly remind the Irish that they are in the midst of the battle area at sea. Within a week no fewer than 100 sailors have been put ashore, but censorship prohibits the publication of details.

This applies mainly to southern Ireland, which is neutral. The northern area, which is at war and subject to the regulations affecting Britain, is different. In one respect the north is different from Britain: Its man power is not conscripted for the British army. For this exemption some claim that the premier of Ireland, Eamon de Valera, is responsible. Under the new constitution, it is held, Britain is precluded from conscripting for war Irish citizens residing in the northern area. Whether this is true or not, conscription has not been applied. But this is not to say that the north is not contributing to the fighting forces. The North Irish Horse, which was founded for the South African war in 1899 and fought in the world war, is being reorganized on a voluntary basis to go to the front. It will be mechanized, however.

In the British forces at the front there is a considerable proportion of Southern Irishmen. Irish names have appeared in the casualty lists, and a major exploit reported by the British air force was led by an Irishman—Flaherty from Tipperary. For more than a year a stream of Irish youths has gone to English towns and into Northern Ireland to enlist in the British army. The old Irish determination to be in the fight somehow probably is the reason.

Internally, the position in Southern Ireland has not been noticeably affected by the war. The life of the ordinary citizen goes on as usual. But no one expects that this will continue if the war goes on. With the isolation of the country when the sea blockade becomes more effective the Irish will be thrown more and more on their own resources.

Supplies of imported foods will become scarcer. Tea is a case in point. This country is probably the most addicted to tea drinking of any in the world. In other respects, particularly in regard to industrial raw materials, iron and steel, and timber for building, we should suffer severely. But we shall manage to struggle on. Our farmers can produce every essential. Our production of wheat has not yet reached anything like the normal demands, but a new order by the government making tillage compulsory will increase next year's harvest to cover needs. Existing stores are expected to be adequate until then. There will also be a big increase in other cereals, as well as potatoes and all other vegetables. Beef and mutton and other forms of meat are produced much in excess of the home needs.

The compulsory tillage order has excited some criticism. Farmers who usually devote themselves to cattle raising are annoyed at the prospect of changing their system of farming. They lack equipment, seeds and fertilizers.

Ireland is unable to supply its need for coal and Britain is the only available source of supply. An attempt once was made to get supplies from Germany, but now that is impossible. America as a supplier of coal is out of the question because of the heavy freight. Already the price of British coal is up by seven shillings [about $1.40] a ton, and probably will go higher. Fortunately the supply of Irish peat is plentiful.

Altho there is little real fear of air raids, it is clear the government feels precautions are necessary. In Dublin and other important cities for several weeks there have been blackouts every night. Even householders have been urged to screen their windows. The theaters, as well as cinemas, are still open. It is feared that supplies for the theaters will not be available much longer, and Irish entertainers have been urged to prepare to keep the houses of entertainment going with home productions.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Jan. 5, 1915.

[161st day of the world war; 127th day of the present war.]

BERLIN—The German command admitted the capture of Steinbach, scene of hard fighting in the Alsace, by the French following an overwhelming bombardment.

WASHINGTON—The Wilson administration decided to certify to the exact makeup of cargoes before they leave United States ports, in the hope of ending British seizures in search of contraband.

NAIROBI, British East Africa—The British battleship Goliath and the light cruiser Fox bombarded Dar-Es-Salaam, capital of German East Africa, disabling all German vessels in the harbor.

CHRISTIANA, Norway—Peace prayers were offered thruout the Scandinavian countries in united services which attracted an estimated 5,000,000 persons.

PARIS—Not only the capture of Steinbach, but substantial advances in the region of Perthes, held by the Germans, were claimed by the French.

"PRESERVING THE GOOD FEATURES."

Sumter, S. C., Dec. 28.—Certain Republican politicians imagine they can gain the support of the so-called liberal voters by what they term "preserving the good features of the New Deal." Has it ever occurred to them to analyze these alleged "good features"?

The following partial list of New Deal accomplishments may be of interest to these politicians:

1. Recognition of soviet Russia in 1933, which opened the United States to the activities of communist secret agents and propagandists.

2. Encouragement of radicals [including communists] to infiltrate the government service and work to undermine the American system.

3. The disruption of American agriculture, including attempts to buy the farm votes and make government wards of independent American farmers.

4. Permitting labor racketeers to virtually blackmail business under the guise of strikes, thus prolonging the depression and unemployment.

5. The deliberate stirring up of group and class hatred by New Deal officials.

6. The appointing of subservient federal judges, some of them with inadequate trial experience.

7. Constant attacks by the government on business and business men, including punitive and crippling taxes, all following the communist plans for destroying our economic system.

8. The hamstringing of the securities and commodity markets by excessive government regulation.

9. The gigantic share the wealth scheme and poor man's income tax subterfuge called social security [with the government spending the taxes as soon as received] and designed by the radicals to eventually bankrupt the government.

10. Lack of any serious action by New Deal government to compel socialistic Mexico to restore to the owners or adequately compensate them for property seized from Americans.

11. Adoption of business and labor policies which have maintained unemployment at a high level.

12. The destruction of the moral fiber of millions of self-respecting Americans, who have been forced onto relief by unsound government policies, and the despicable attempt to control the votes of those on relief.

13. Reckless spending and criminal waste, which have raised the national debt to a record figure of over 40 billion dollars.

These are just a few of the New Deal accomplishments. Which of these would the Republican politicians like to designate and retain as "good features"?

THE RUSSIAN STEAM ROLLER.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Would it not be better to have less of a buildup on the Finnish victories? The Russian steam roller has not come into full operation and the available man power of the Russians is enormous. By getting too much of a boost now the Finns might get blamed if they fail to perform miracles later. JULIUS MADISON.

A DIARY FOR WHAT AILS YOU.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Did you ever keep a diary? Then start one this year and keep it up. It will be worth your little daily effort. If you don't want to write a lot, buy a small diary. But write in it each day. It need never be too personal. It should be meant only to picture the years against which you have moved.

I started my first diary in 1929 and have never missed since. When you read over those entries of the past year or other years [especially other years], you will be struck by two things: The vivid beauty of occasional lines in which you can almost smell the mountain flowers again or hear the children shouting as they played in the mud puddles after that hard rain. And the smallness of some of the things that, at the time, filled your horizon with annoyance and weariness. "Who was she, anyway?" you will wonder as you study one entry. "I can't even remember her name now, so why should I have been so upset?"

Then reading a little further you will say, "Why, it was beautiful in those mountains! I could have had a much better time. I guess I let the small annoyances gobble up all the scenery and all the opportunities."

You close the book smiling now. This year, you say, it will be different. You'll use your better perspective as you go along. CHICAGOAN.

A JANITOR'S FEELINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Now that Christmas has come and gone, how many of you tenants thought of the janitor?

I am janitor of a building that has tenants in all stations of life. A little woman in one of my basement flats [she has been taking unemployment relief] gave my wife a dollar to give me. I hated to take the money but if I refused it would have hurt her pride. But if I can repay the kindness a hundredfold, I will do it. Other tenants I have, where the man and his wife are both working. Lots of them don't have the decency to wish you a Merry Christmas. The average janitor is not looking for your money, but he does appreciate your telling him how you appreciate his loyalty. It does not cost you anything. Sure, he gets paid for his services. But the average tenant just thinks of him as a lesser human being. E. CAMPBELL.

IS THIS A FACT?

Chicago, Dec. 31.—If the building trades workers receive a relatively high wage, why is it that, with the possible exception of civil service employés, none of these workers are able to secure an FHA loan for home building? They are not considered a safe risk. This surely indicates that this department of the federal government considers their earnings insufficient to warrant a loan; hence, their yearly wage must be relatively low. Think it over. G. A. H.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 28 [Legal Friend of the People].—In Illinois is it compulsory to file a will should the heirs wish to comply with it without going to the expense of probating it? The estate is small. If it needs to be filed, is there a time limit? If there is a time limit, what is it? And if there is a penalty, what are its terms as to time and amounts? E. R.

Illinois Revised Statutes, chapter 148, section 14, provides that "any person . . . who may have in his or her possession any last will . . . shall immediately upon the death of the testator . . . deliver up said will to the County Court of the proper County . . . and the person . . . withholding any such will . . . shall forfeit and pay $20 per month."

While we know of no cases in which the penalty has been assessed where the parties are in agreement, we advise, in general, that the will be filed regardless of whether subsequent probate proceedings are contemplated. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RIGHT TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 28 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. My father died in 1927 leaving everything to my mother. The old homestead, he said, when she died, was to be willed to the two sons, leaving me [daughter] out.

2. Now my one brother has died; a world war veteran; never married. Now, what I want to know, as I am the daughter, [3], am I a next heir with other brother?

4. Can I demand my share of homestead if sold? MRS. L. H.

1. You do not say whether the property belonged outright to your father. If so, he had the power to disinherit you.

2. The question whether you would inherit a part of his share would depend on whether the will was so worded that his share was vested.

3. It seems probable that you are.

4. If you wish to be sure, you should submit the wording of the will to an attorney in a personal interview. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ABOLISH LABOR BOARD, HOFFMAN URGES CONGRESS

Seeks Law Which Court Can't Misinterpret.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—The first major controversy of the 1940 congressional session was aired on the floor of the house today when Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] called for abolition of the National Labor Relations board and immediate amendments to the labor relations act.

Clare E. Hoffman.

There was no dissent to Hoffman's violent criticism of the board. New Dealers sat silent. The attitude of conservative Democrats was evidenced in the remarks of Representative Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.], who agreed that congressional action was necessary and expressed the opinion that it should await conclusion of the investigation of the administration of the labor act by the Smith committee.

The Smith inquiry, to be resumed tomorrow, already has uncovered much evidence indicating maladministration of the law in favor of the C. I. O. of John L. Lewis.

Murphy's Misfeasance Told.

The appointment of Attorney General Frank Murphy to the Supreme court also figured in the debate. Hoffman said the appointment was another reason for early action on amendments to the labor relations act.

"In view of the fact that Mr. Murphy disregarded his oath of office as governor of Michigan when the sit-down strikes were in progress there—and we hope he will observe his oath on the bench to which he has been appointed—we should amend the law immediately," Hoffman said. "We should make it so plain that there will be no opportunity for the Supreme or any other court to misinterpret it.

"The labor board has been revealed as aiding in the destruction of more than one industrial enterprise. It has helped in bringing hundreds of thousands of men under the monopolistic yoke and tribute-levying jurisdiction of John L. Lewis and his C. I. O.

Lewis Levies 3 Millions.

"It may be that the New Deal urgently needs for its 1940 campaign fund the contributions collected from C. I. O. members thru fraud, coercion, intimidation, and violence by Lewis and his goon squads. Lewis has already announced a 3 million dollar levy on employés for his 1940 campaign.

"Why wait for the report of the Smith committee? Continued hearings will only show further evidence of unfairness, of bias, of prejudice, of acts depriving citizens of their civil liberties. That committee has already spread upon the record from the files of the board evidence sufficient to utterly destroy all confidence in the present board and to show that the law must be amended."

110 MORE CALLED IN U. S. PROBE OF BUILDING TRADES

The government's investigation of the building trades industry was widened yesterday when assistants to Leo F. Tierney, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the prosecution, obtained 110 new subpenas from Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe. These will require 75 individuals and 35 organizations and corporations in the stone division of the industry to produce books and records before the federal grand jury on Jan. 15.

This action was taken after the government was balked Wednesday in its attempt to obtain testimony concerning the records of the Ceramic, Mosaic, and Encoustic Tile Layers' union. Robert E. Shepherd, secretary of the union, produced the records in response to one of 75 subpenas issued for persons and corporations in the tile division, but he refused to testify on his lawyer's advice.

Late yesterday the government obtained an order from Judge Igoe requiring Shepherd to appear before him at 10:30 a. m. today to show cause why he should not testify before the grand jury.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D.

V.

Below are questions for a man to ask himself and answer about his wife. Each question has a maximum score—indicated in parenthesis. However, any number of points less than the maximum may be noted:

DEMERITS.	MERITS.
1. Insists on driving the car when husband is along. [6 points.]	1. Is just in settling her children's quarrels with other youngsters. [6 points.]
2. Walks about the house in her stocking feet. [6 points.]	2. Is an active member of some women's organization. [6 points.]
3. A chronic borrower—doesn't keep stocked up. [6 points.]	3. Keeps snacks in refrigerator for late eating. [6 points.]
4. Tells risqué or vulgar stories in public. [30 points.]	4. Reacts with ardent enthusiasm to husband's affection. [30 points.]
5. Gambles at cards or on the horses. [30 points.]	5. Laughs at husband's jokes and his clowning. [6 points.]
6. Uses profanity. [30 points.]	6. Good seamstress—makes own clothes. [6 points.]
7. Eats onions, garlic, or radishes before a date or going to bed. [6 points.]	7. Tries to become acquainted with husband's business problems. [6 points.]
8. Wants to sample husband's food at restaurant, often eating part of it. [6 points.]	8. Often comments on husband's strength or helpfulness around the house. [6 points.]
9. Wears sleeping pajamas while cooking. [6 points.]	9. Has minor children to care for. [30 points.]
10. Objects to husband's hobbies. [6 points.]	10. Unselfish and kind hearted. [6 points.]
Total demerits.....	Total merits.....

Now subtract total demerits from total merits and interpret score as follows: 0 to 27, very poor [failure]; 28 to 43, poor; 44 to 61, average; 62 to 80, superior; 81 and up, very superior.

DEWEY DECLARES THE PRESIDENT ADMITS FAILURE

Brands His Message a Confession.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 4.—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, returning from a short stay in the south, today called President Roosevelt's message to congress "a tragic confession of failure."

Dewey has been in Augusta, Ga., working on three speeches he will make this winter in furtherance of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination. In addition, he played a little golf with fair success and did a lot of resting. He didn't listen to the Roosevelt speech, but read it in newspaper accounts, he said.

Calls Problems Unsolved.

"The President's message," Dewey said, "was an attempt to defend seven years in which there has been no success in solving either of the two national problems—unemployment and an increasing unbalanced budget.

"It was an attempt to defend a situation where we cannot pay ordinary expenses of government and the reasonable expenses of national defense without going deeper into debt. The President asks unity behind a domestic program which has failed and has brought about these results."

Dewey's Georgia golf game was in his usual stride, he said, his scores ranging from 97 to 108. He said he has received a number of requests for speeches, but only three have been scheduled to date. The first of these will be on Jan. 20, when he will speak at a luncheon of the Women's National Republican club here in New York. On Jan. 24 he will speak in Boston, and he will next journey to Portland, Ore., for an address on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12.

Other Appearances Sought.

Later Dewey may decide to extend his stay in New England, in connection with the Boston speech, to meet some of the invitations for appearances there which have reached his office.

It also is possible that on his way to or from Portland, he will stop off elsewhere in the west or northwest. Requests from Seattle, Wash., and Los Angeles, Cal., are among those from cities where organizations have been urging Dewey to appear.

LOCKED IN ICEBOX; ROBBED.

Sam Dolce, operator of a food market at 3703 Chicago avenue, was robbed of $223 yesterday by two bandits who locked him in the refrigerator.

HARDING FACTION BACKS LYONS IN GOVERNOR RACE

Further Union with Brooks' Candidacy Marked.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Further unification of the Republican forces backing C. Wayland Brooks for United States senator and those supporting Richard J. Lyons for governor was made public yesterday by an announcement that the old Harding south side group had indorsed Lyons.

Twelve ward committeemen who for years followed the leadership of the late George F. Harding, national committeeman, signed a resolution recommending the Lake county man to Republican primary voters. Brooks was indorsed earlier by the group, but the resolution commended him for disregarding his personal preference and running for the senatorship.

This welding of Brooks and Lyons forces means that the two will have almost solid regular organization support on the south side. Several other committeemen from this section already have given these two candidates their individual indorsements.

Similar Backing Expected.

Similar amalgamations in other parts of Chicago and its suburbs are expected next week and the same movement, which started in Kane county last week, is said to be spreading downstate. Spokesmen for the two assert that before Feb. 1 between 70 and 75 of the 80 members of the Cook county central committee and a substantial majority of downstate county organizations will be supporting the Lyons-Brooks team.

The south siders who signed the resolution went in a body to Lyons' personal headquarters in the Otis building and presented it to him. They had held several meetings in recent weeks, and both Lyons and Dwight H. Green, his chief opponent, had appeared before them to present their own cases before a choice was made.

In talking with Lyons they predicted that on primary day the regular organization captains and workers in 4,000 of the 4,376 precincts in Cook county will be supporting him and Brooks.

List of Signers.

In numerical order, the signers of the resolution and the wards they represent were the following: William E. King [2d], Oscar De Priest [3d], Charles Krutckoff [4th], John Leonard East [5th], Patrick Sheridan Smith [6th], Andrew C. Metzger [8th], John C. Fiddelke [9th], Henry J. Samuels [10th], William S. Finucane [12th], James W. Breen [14th], William H. Reid [16th], and George M. Fisher [18th].

Other south side committeemen who lined up earlier with Brooks and Lyons were Felix Kucharski [12th], Michael A. Ruddy [15th], and Robert C. Rohn [19th].

SMITTY—HE'S NOT SMART—HE'S CLEVER

By the Gallon

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Nancy Palazzo, 2642 North Marmora avenue, receiving gallon jug of milk from Joe Gimino. Sale of milk in the larger containers starts today.

The Chicago board of health yesterday approved the applications of nine dairies to distribute milk in two quart and one gallon glass containers. The bulk sales will reduce the cost of home delivered milk from 13 cents for the single quart to 11 cents when purchased in the two-quart size and 9½ cents in the four-quart containers.

The Borden-Weiland and Bowman Dairy companies will begin delivery of the large containers in eight residential districts of the city today. The seven smaller companies—Dairy Specialties, McVeigh, Ogden, Marquette, Lake Valley Farm, Western United, and Hunding—will also begin today or soon after.

The areas in which the large containers will be available are Edison Park, Norwood Park, Dunning, Galewood, Mont Clare, Beverly Hills, Morgan Park, and West Rogers Park.

CURRENT REALTY TAXES RISE, BUT DELINQUENTS LAG

Study Shows Income Barely Tops Levy.

Collections of current real estate taxes continued to improve in Cook county in 1939, but receipts of delinquent taxes fell sharply from the preceding year, a study by the citizens' committee on tax collections showed yesterday.

In the first eleven months of 1939 the county treasurer collected $124,263,352 of the real estate taxes falling due last year, the study showed. This was 84.9 per cent of the realty taxes billed. In the full year 1938 collections of current taxes totaled $115,362,020, or only 81 per cent of the amount billed.

Back Tax Collections Drop.

Tax collections on delinquent bills in the first 11 months of 1939 dropped to $22,921,109, compared with $39,657,714 in all of 1938. Altho the figures for December, 1939, are not yet available, they are not expected to make any substantial change in this 16 million dollar decline.

Total 1939 tax receipts, current and delinquent, will barely exceed the tax levy for 1938 which totaled $147,206,201, the committee reported. By contrast, total collections in 1938 were $155,020,000, or 15 millions in excess of the 1937 levy.

Cream Skimmed Off.

George O. Fairweather, director of the bureau, said the decline in back tax payments indicates the cream has been skimmed off the unpaid taxes for most prior years, particularly 1928 to 1931. Records show, he said, that the combined payments of realty taxes, current and delinquent, exceeded the total tax levy for a number of years prior to 1939.

A large part of the back taxes now remaining on the books cannot be fully collected, however, and so receipts must be obtained from further improvement in current collections, he said.

Because of the pickup in current tax receipts in 1939, the aggregate realty tax delinquency for taxes billed since 1928 was reduced, the study showed. Unpaid taxes on Nov. 30, 1939, totaled $144,936,000 or 8.36 per cent of the total real estate tax bill of $1,733,800,000 for the previous ten years. Unpaid bills at the end of 1938 were 9.17 per cent of the total tax bill of $1,586,595,000 for the previous nine years.

Laura Ingalls Gets Back Commercial Flying License

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4 (AP).—Laura Ingalls, woman flyer, said here today the Civil Aeronautics authority had given back the commercial license it took from her because she flew over the White House dropping pamphlets against arms embargo repeal. She said she regained the license in a written examination in Los Angeles Tuesday. The CAA had held her flight Sept. 26 in violation of its regulations and ordered her to familiarize herself with the rules.

CUTTEN KIN MUST RETURN TRUST FUND PRINCIPAL

Judge John J. Lupe yesterday ordered Dr. Paul C. Boomer to surrender approximately $250,000 in securities to a trust fund established by Dr. Boomer's brother-in-law, the late Arthur W. Cutten, grain speculator. The order upheld a recommendation by John J. Kelly, master in chancery.

Kelly found that Cutten created the trust fund to insure a life income for Dr. Boomer and his wife, who live at 1448 Lake Shore drive. They were to have the income and the principal was to go, after both had died, to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children at 1653 Maypole avenue. The securities constitute the principal.

Robert F. Carr, trustee for the fund, brought suit to force Dr. Boomer to turn the securities over to the fund. It was alleged that Dr. Boomer, a physician, had held them since the death of Cutten in 1936. Cutten's widow is a sister of Dr. Boomer. Under the court order the Boomers will continue to receive the income from the trust.

R. C. CANTERBURY, BUILDER AND WAR VETERAN, IS DEAD

Richard C. Canterbury, a building contractor with offices at 19 South La Salle street, died yesterday in his home at 765 South Green Bay road, Highland Park. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the home.

Mr. Canterbury was born in Franklin Grove, Ill. He was graduated from the old Chicago Manual Training school and Purdue university, and in 1906 took charge of a farm mortgage business founded by his father, expanding it into the home building field. During the world war he was commissioned a major in the army quartermaster corps and aided in construction of the Hog Island shipbuilding project on the east coast.

He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the University Club of Chicago, and the Exmoor Country club. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Greek Miller Canterbury, and two sisters, Mrs. George West Wilson of Glencoe, and Mrs. Maurice Mandeville of Lake Bluff.

IGOE DISMISSES SUIT OVER SHAW TRACTION FEES

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday dismissed an objection filed last week to the payment of salary and expenses to Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to the federal court.

The court ruled that the four bondholders who raised the objection could not legally do so, because they were not an interested party in the traction reorganization proceedings. Bondholders' protective committees have been permitted to take part in the proceedings, but not individual bondholders.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON POINTS WAY TO G. O. P. VICTORY

Urges Common Sense in Government.

George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney, outlined policies yesterday which he said would bring the Republican party a victory in 1940. He spoke at a luncheon of Hamilton club members in the La Salle hotel.

Johnson advocated a return to the balanced budget, to thrift, and to common sense in government.

"The present administration," he said, "is committed so deeply and the Democratic party is so accustomed to wild extravagance in federal expenditures that the people can hope for no return to safe and sound standards from the New Deal.

Warns: Keep Out of Europe.

"For its foreign policy, America must reaffirm its resolve not to meddle in European affairs. It would be a great tragedy if the Russian bear should snuff out the lights of liberty represented by Finland and the other Scandinavian countries. But even if that were to happen, America would have no business in Europe."

Johnson asserted that America needs to reëducate its youth to a spirit of self-reliance.

"The idea that government owes young people a living should be eradicated," he said, "and in its place should be substituted the old-fashioned doctrine that citizens should serve the state. The Republican party must find a road that leads toward security and decent standards of living; that restores private employment and reasonable standards of contentment to the mass of American people."

Must Name Real State's Attorney.

Touching on the local campaign Johnson warned that unless an outstanding candidate is named for state's attorney the Republican party will be doing little to restore local confidence in it. Johnson, who obtained the conviction of Al Capone in 1932, asserted that labor murders and old time gang assassinations are appearing with almost the same regularity as they did in the '20s.

With the advent of a political year, Johnson said, he wished to call attention to the fact that the problem of law enforcement is still pressing. He continued:

"If you are in earnest about destroying the alliance between crime and corrupt politics the method of attack is simple—destroy the sources which produce the money, for nobody cares for a hoodlum who is broke. The alliance between crime and politics is a great reflection on law enforcement."

At the conclusion of his address Johnson, replying to questions, said that a suitable candidate for state's attorney remained to be found.

"This job can only be done by a man who cannot be intimidated. He must have unflinching courage, legal experience, and a firm character."

JAMES THORNTON DIES; BRAKEMAN ON GRANT TRAIN

James Thornton, 90 years old, a railroad man who served as brakeman on President Ulysses S. Grant's campaign train, died yesterday at his home in Wilmington, Will county, where he had resided since 1852. Mr. Thornton began his railroad career at the age of 12 when he obtained a job as a water boy in the Chicago yards of the Chicago and Sangamon railroad. Later he was an engineer on the Chicago and Alton railroad for many years. Surviving are two sisters, Margaret and Mrs. Mary Brennan, both of Wilmington. Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in Wilmington.

LEGION PARADE ADDS TO COLOR OF SHRINE SHOW

Two thousand marchers—members of 21 American Legion posts and their sons and daughters—paraded in the sawdust arena of the Shrine Winter circus last night in the International amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets.

Bands and drum and bugle corps took part in the Legion Night program. Miss Ida May Jones, national champion drum majorette, led the band of the Charles Roth post of Oak Park.

The circus is being given for the benefit of the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children, 2211 North Oak Park avenue. Performances will continue afternoon and night thru Jan. 14.

Omaha Hotel Burns.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4 [Special].—Flames destroyed the eight story Henshaw hotel in the heart of Omaha's business district early today, injured 15 persons, and caused damage estimated at more than $200,000.

OBITUARIES

Albert C. French.

Services for Albert C. French, teacher, author, and composer, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the home at 517 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park. Mr. French died in his home Wednesday at the age of 87. He had been retired for several years, and devoted himself to music, poetry, and painting. He was born near Sandwich, Ill., a ninth generation American. Mr. French was graduated from Monmouth college. He became a teacher of English and history and author of various local histories. He leaves three daughters, Miss Jennie French, Mrs. Lula A. Breyer, and Mrs. Marguerite W. Gray, and two sons, Rensselaer and Robert G. French.

Mme. Maia Bang Hohn.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Mme. Maia Bang Hohn, 60 years old, concert violinist, author of 20 books on music, and lecturer on the masters, died today. Norwegian by birth, she was known in many European countries and many parts of the United States. She was the daughter of Anton Christian Bang, a former premier of Norway. She fled with Leopold Auer from the bolshevist revolution in Russia to the United States in 1919.

Paul E. Holcombe.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Poland, N. Y., for Paul E. Holcombe, a former Chicagoan, who died Wednesday in his home in Bloomington, Ill. Until 1935 he was on the staff of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers in Chicago. He was 39 years old. His widow, Mary, survives.

FLORA FINCH OF SILENT MOVIE COMEDIES DIES

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 4 (AP).—Flora Finch, one of the silent films' outstanding comediennes, died today at Good Samaritan hospital from blood poisoning. Miss Finch was taken to the hospital last Saturday after a streptococcus infection followed an accidental cut on her arm. The screen's original "ugly duckling," Miss Finch determined even as a girl to make capital of her thin, angular face and figure. Teamed with the contrastingly fat and jovial John Bunny, she evoked howls of mirth with her every appearance on the primitively flickering screens of filmland's precolossal days.

When she died Miss Finch was a stock player at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, drawing a regular salary for bit, extra, and atmosphere rôles. Few of the stars on her sets knew who she was. Most of her fellow workers had been children when she was famous. Since the death of her partner, Bunny, in 1915, the actress had known good times and bad.

G. F. BATCHELDER, BROKER, IS DEAD; ORDER INQUEST

George Franklin Batchelder, representative of a La Salle street brokerage firm, died in the Evanston hospital yesterday. Because his illness was a brief one, a coroner's inquest was begun.

Dr. William E. O'Neil, who attended him, testified that Batchelder had taken large quantities of medicine to cure a headache with which he was stricken Dec. 30. The inquest was continued until Jan. 18 for further investigation.

Batchelder was 48 years old. He lived at 1413 Wesley avenue, Evanston. Surviving are his widow, Esther, two daughters, Elizabeth and Shirley, and a son, Tilden.

The funeral of Charles E. McKeough, a brother of Congressman Raymond S. McKeough, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in Our Lady of Peace church, 79th street and Jeffery avenue, with burial in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mr. McKeough died yesterday at the age of 54 in Hines hospital, where he had been confined as the result of world war injuries. He served in France for the duration of the war. After the war he became personal bailiff to the late Judge Joseph Kelly in Superior court. Two sisters, Mrs. Charles Papik and Miss Mary McKeough, and another brother, Timothy, all of Chicago, also survive.

Mrs. Margaret Allen Hutcheon.

Mrs. Margaret Allen Hutcheon, a former Chicagoan, died yesterday in Kingston, Ont. She was the wife of Dr. Robert James Hutcheon, a retired professor of the Meadville Theological school, which is associated with the University of Chicago. The Hutcheons had recently lived in Orlando, Fla., where Dr. Hutcheon had a pastorate, but had been at Kingston since Mrs. Hutcheon became ill last September. Services will be in Kingston tomorrow.

The Rev. Martin P. Weidner.

Funeral services for the Rev. Martin P. Weidner, pastor of St. Liborius Roman Catholic church in Steger, will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in the church. The Rev. Mr. Weider died of a heart attack Wednesday in the office of the Catholic bishop of Chicago, 719 North Wabash avenue. He was born in Buffalo Grove, Ill., 55 years ago. He had been pastor of the Steger church since June, 1936, going there from St. Francis Xavier church, 2840 Warsaw street.

Mrs. Mabel Hammond Tefet.

The funeral of Mrs. Mabel Hammond Tefet, widow of Dr. Frank A. Tefet and member of a pioneer Elgin family, will be conducted at 2 p. m. today in Elgin. Mrs. Tefet's father, the late Eugene H. Hammond, was a pioneer in the gravel industry in northeastern Illinois. The Chicago Gravel company occupies most of the original Hammond farm. Mrs. Tefet died Wednesday in her home in Elgin.

5 PLANS OFFERED FOR NORTHWEST SUPERROAD LINK

County Board to Consider Substitute Programs.

BY HAL FOUST.

Four possible substitutes have been developed by Cook county engineers for the plan they recommend for two automobile tunnels to connect Lake Shore drive with the northwest superhighway and for a system of four one way streets to assemble and handle traffic to and from the loop.

Daniel Ryan.

"The county board," Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, said yesterday, "will consider all five plans, altho the recommendation of the board's engineers will bear a strong influence with the commissioners."

In the four substitute plans a single structure—elevated, depressed, tunneled, or combining these general design types—would perform both of the terminal functions. A single structure would serve both as a traffic distributor for loop travel and as a connection between Lake Shore drive and the main northwest trunk. Different locations are proposed.

One Way Streets Planned.

In the plan recommended by the county engineers the connection with Lake Shore drive would be made immediately north of Oak street by means of tunnels to Clybourn avenue at Division street and Hudson avenue. Loop traffic would be received and distributed from the superhighway, between Hudson avenue and Sedgwick streets, by converting Ontario, Erie, Huron, and Superior streets into one way thorofares. The cost is estimated at $9,400,000.

For the convenience of readers in making comparisons the substitutes hereafter will be numbered, each with a brief description of its location, its type of design, and its estimated cost. Such comparisons will be made by the county commissioners before their official adoption of a plan to submit to the Illinois department of public works before a statutory deadline of March 1.

Other Programs Listed.

The engineers' preference might be called No. 1 and the others would be as follows:

PLAN NO. 2—A depressed highway south from Chicago avenue between Hudson avenue and Sedgwick street, curving to the east to parallel Illinois street immediately south of Illinois to Rush street. Thereafter east the superhighway would be in a tunnel under Illinois street to Fairbanks court. Thence it would be depressed eastward, bearing slightly to the north for a grade separation connection with Lake Shore drive between Illinois street and Grand avenue.

A similar ramp connection would be made at La Salle street and at State street. West of Michigan avenue, Illinois and Hubbard streets at grade would assemble and distribute superhighway traffic. There would be four express lanes in each direction as far east as Clark street. Thereafter eastward there would be three lanes in each direction. The cost is estimated at $9,000,000.

Cost Put at 11 Million.

PLAN NO. 3—This calls for two one-way tunnels in Erie street and in Ontario street, between Orleans street and Fairbanks court. Thence east the express lanes would be depressed to a grade separation connection with Lake Shore drive. Six ramp connections with surface streets would be distributed between Orleans street and Michigan avenue. Ohio, Ontario, Erie, and Huron streets would serve as approaches. The cost is estimated at $11,800,000.

PLAN NO. 4.—This provides for an elevated highway south and east from a depressed highway north of Chicago avenue between Hudson avenue and Sedgwick street. A right of way 108 feet wide would be acquired to parallel Erie street, on its north side from Orleans street to Wabash avenue, and thence east on its south side to Lake Shore drive. Exit and entrance to express lanes would be by means of seven ramps distributed between Franklin street and Fairbanks court. Superior, Huron, Erie, and Ontario streets would be approaches. The cost is estimated at $10,600,000.

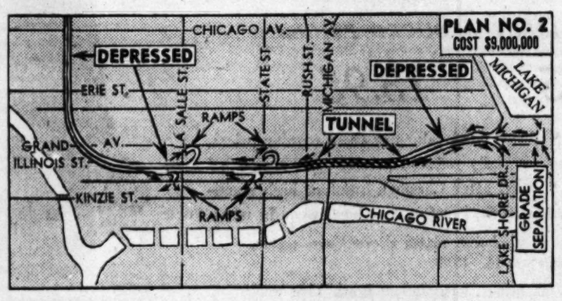
Advantages cited for this route include the preference of motorists for riding in the open air rather than in a tunnel or a depression. Snow removal would be easier than in a depression.

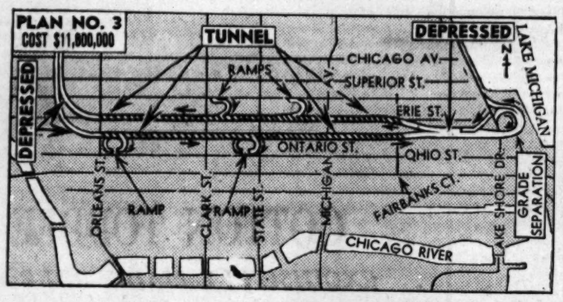
PLAN NO. 5.—This provides a depressed highway between Erie and Ontario streets from Orleans street to Lake Shore drive. Between Franklin street and Wabash avenue six depressed lanes would be bordered by two pavements at grade, each for one way traffic to and from the express lanes. The cost is estimated at $12,700,000.

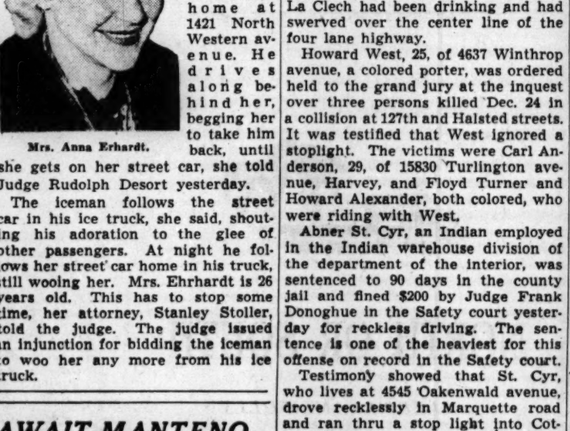
Offer Superroad Terminal Plans

(Story in adjoining column.)

Maps below illustrate four substitute plans developed by county engineers to connect the loop and Lake Shore drive with the proposed northwest highway. The plans are numbered to correspond with descriptions in the accompanying story. The recommended plan is called No. 1, but is not shown below.







CAR LIGHT TRAPS HIT-RUN DRIVER IN DEATH CRASH

Motorist Found After Study of License Numbers

Walter Tyrcha, 4532 North Meade avenue was held on a charge of manslaughter by the Des Plaines street police yesterday after persistent investigation by Detectives Henry Decker and Henry Galanter had solved the city's first hit and run driver case of the year.

Tyrcha, who is 21 years old, admitted fleeing after a fatal accident at Ashland and Ogden avenues early Jan. 1. The victim was Thomas Richard, 74, of 36 South Ashland avenue. Police obtained a license number from a witness after the accident, but the owner of that number proved his innocence. They tried various combinations of the same numbers, and then reasoned that the witness might have missed a figure "1" at the front of the number.

Admits Being Driver.

Working on this theory they traced Tyrcha. They found that his car was dented and a headlight was missing. A headlight taken from the scene of the accident fitted Tyrcha's car and he confessed.

James Stokes, 53, of 10420 Walden parkway, caretaker for the Morgan Park Methodist Episcopal church, was killed by an automobile last night in 118th street near Western avenue. The driver was Edward Charlton, colored, 11461 Davol street.

Vincent Lubersky, 60, of 1620 South 48th court, Cicero, a tailor, was injured fatally when he was struck by an automobile at 16th street and 48th court in the suburb. He died in the Loretta hospital. The driver was John Stob Jr., 22, of 1322 South 61st avenue, Cicero.

Woman, 86, Killed by Car.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman, 86, colored, of 3003 Dearborn street, was killed by an automobile at Michigan avenue and 32d street. The driver was Robert Stewart, also colored, of 467 East 31st street.

John Ehlers, 82, of 2320 North Harding avenue, a retired clerk, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Dec. 28 when he was struck by an automobile at Avers and Fullerton avenues. Henry Charney, 3556 Mc Lean avenue, was the driver.

William Letourneaux, 55, of 8824 South Marshfield avenue, a railroad switchman, died in County hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 18 when his automobile struck a light post in front of 1042 West 46th street.

Dies After Arizona Crash.

Edmund P. Touhy, 43, of Oak Park, died in Globe, Ariz., of injuries incurred Sunday when the car in which he was riding skidded on icy pavement and overturned 27 miles southeast of Globe. Harry Wilson, 52, also of Oak Park, driver of the car, was injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 11 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, of these 8 were killed in Chicago, where 241 were injured in the same period.

$5,000 IN CASH PRIZES!

PRINTED above is Puzzle Picture No. 5 in the Chicago Tribune's new $5,000 Cash Prize contest. Can you identify the popular orchestra leader it represents?

If you haven't started this new series get the first pictures from previous issues of the Chicago Daily Tribune. Then continue with the puzzle picture appearing each day.

THE RULES:

WHO CAN ENTER? This offer is open free to men, women, boys and girls everywhere—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families. No person may submit more than one entry.

WHAT TO DO? Each week day a puzzle picture representing the name of a popular orchestra leader will be printed in the Daily Tribune until 42 have appeared. Solve the puzzle pictures and write the names in the space provided, or on a facsimile. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 42. Do not send them in separately. It is not necessary to solve ALL correctly to win. Prizes will be paid for entries ranking highest.

WHERE TO SEND? Mail your entry by First Class Mail to "Rhythm Kings," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. A ballot will be printed with Puzzle Picture No. 42. Each contestant must vote for the orchestra he or she likes best and state the reason for such choice in 25 words or less. Contestants may use the printed ballot or a facsimile. Ballots will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzle pictures; in which event, judgment will be based on sincerity and originality. Entries must be in by midnight, February 24, 1940.

JUDGMENT: Entries will be judged by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree that the judges' decisions will be final. 430 cash awards totaling $5,000 will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved, complete sets of puzzle pictures. Elaborate entries will receive no more consideration than simple ones. In case of ties duplicate awards will be paid.

CHILLY, ISN'T IT? BUT HEART OF ICEMAN'S WIFE IS EVEN COLDER

Mrs. Anna Erhardt tries to be cool to the iceman. He's her husband, Ernest, and she's suing him for divorce. But when she leaves for her office in the morning, there he is, in front of her home at 1421 North Western avenue. He drives along behind her, begging her to take him back, until she gets on her street car, she told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday.

Mrs. Anna Erhardt.

The iceman follows the street car in his ice truck, she said, shouting his adoration to the glee of other passengers. At night he follows her street car home in his truck, still wooing her. Mrs. Ehrhardt is 26 years old. This has to stop some time, her attorney, Stanley Stoller, told the judge. The judge issued an injunction for bidding the iceman to woo her any more from his ice truck.

AWAIT MANTENO FOOD TEST; NEW MALADY ENDED

State health department tests to determine the cause of gastro-intestinal illness which affected 100 patients at the Manteno State hospital early this week are expected to be completed today or tomorrow. Dr. Walter Baer, acting managing officer of the institution, yesterday said that nearly all those stricken had recovered and none was seriously ill. The health department was testing samples of the food served Monday and Tuesday in the hospital.

Dr. Baer said also that 21 patients were still under treatment for typhoid, a disease which killed 53 persons at the hospital during an epidemic last fall.

2 DRIVERS HELD TO GRAND JURIES IN CRASH DEATHS

Two automobile drivers were charged with manslaughter yesterday after fatal collisions in which their cars were involved.

Peter La Clech, 45 years old, Glen Ellyn, was held to the Du Page county grand jury on recommendation of a coroner's jury in Wheaton. La Clech's auto collided Tuesday with that of Mrs. Ethel Fishbain Modell, 44, of 3549 Douglas boulevard, on Roosevelt road in Glen Ellyn. Mrs. Modell was killed. Evidence presented at the inquest indicated that La Clech had been drinking and had swerved over the center line of the four lane highway.

Howard West, 25, of 4637 Winthrop avenue, a colored porter, was ordered held to the grand jury at the inquest over three persons killed Dec. 24 in a collision at 127th and Halsted streets. It was testified that West ignored a stoplight. The victims were Carl Anderson, 29, of 15830 Turlington avenue, Harvey, and Floyd Turner and Howard Alexander, both colored, who were riding with West.

Abner St. Cyr, an Indian employed in the Indian warehouse division of the department of the interior, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and fined $200 by Judge Frank Donoghue in the Safety court yesterday for reckless driving. The sentence is one of the heaviest for this offense on record in the Safety court.

Testimony showed that St. Cyr, who lives at 4545 Oakenwald avenue, drove recklessly in Marquette road and ran thru a stop light into Cottage Grove avenue just before his car was hit by a street car Oct. 17. Mrs. Gladys White Eagle, 26 years old, 669 Wrightwood avenue, also an Indian, who was riding with him, was killed.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Gullible's Travels.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 4 [Special].—The gullibles of Hollywood would include a vast army of stars who have been clipped and gypped and fleeced . . . Most recent exhibits would be Frank Morgan, Reginald Owen, and Ralph Bellamy, who are suing to recover over $100,000 from an oil stock promoter.

Included, too, would be superstitious Lupe Velez, who gave a gypsy woman $2,500 to wrap in a handkerchief, and then complained to the police because the handkerchief the gypsy returned contained nothing but a wad of paper. . . . If Lupe had known Jack Sheehan, "king of the gypsies," she wouldn't have been "taken," and 16 gypsies would not be in the Los Angeles bastille where the coppers chucked them.

Lupe Velez falls for old one.

Jack Sheehan, who looks like George M. Cohan's stand-in, is a detective in the New York police department and his royal title was bestowed because he handles all cases in which gypsies are accused of petty and grand larceny.

Undoubtedly, from what Sheehan has taught me down thru the years, Miss Velez was clipped by a member of the "Much-Twier" clan of gypsies.

There are four broad gypsy clans or classifications in this country. . . . the "Much-Twiers" operate the handkerchief switch which beat her out of $2,500, but I imagine that first Lupe was built up for a kill by the egg trick.

"All of your troubles trace back to an evil hair," the "Much-Twiers" tell the victim. . . . "Go out in the market place and bring me back a white egg." . . . In the meantime the gypsy has prepared her own white egg and by puncturing a hole in the shell has inserted a horse hair.

While the gypsy apparently is praying over the egg she switches the one the victim has brought back, substitutes the doctored egg and tells her to crack it open. . . . Sure enough, the victim finds a horse hair in the egg and is now thunderstruck at such clairvoyance.

Once this has been accomplished, the victim [in this case Lupe] is almost ready for the killing. . . . "Give me a $5 bill," says the gypsy, and wraps it in a handkerchief. . . . "Turn behind you and get me the needle and thread," advises the gypsy, and as the victim's back is turned the gypsy switches handkerchiefs. . . . So the prepared handkerchief is sewed up and the gypsy directs the victim to wear it next to her body for the next 24 hours.

"I will go to the cemetery tonight at midnight and talk to the spirits," says the gypsy, "but if you tell any one that you have this handkerchief the spirits will avenge themselves. Remember this warning—and meet me here at this hour tomorrow." . . . The next day Lupe must have been on hand for the appointment. . . . To her amazement, the handkerchief in which she put a $5 bill now revealed a $10 bill, because that is the way the "Much-Twiers" operate.

The second stage of the buildup having been completed, the victim now is ready for any hocus-pocus that will double money over night via a trip to the cemetery. . . . The gypsy now demands a far greater sum of money. . . . Lupe evidently was asked for $5,000, but refused to go for more than $2,500. . . . This time, when she was told to turn around and reach for the needle and thread, the handkerchief-switch was different. . . . The "Much-Twier" fleecer this time substituted a handkerchief filled with carefully cut newspapers, to resemble the size of currency.

"Come back in six days," warns the gypsy, "and tell nobody that you have this magic handkerchief on your body; otherwise the spirits will not double your money." . . . This is the same recipe that worked before, so the victim complies and the six day clause gives the "Much-Twiers" a six day lead on the coppers.

The "Much-Twiers," evidently the clan that clipped Lupe, are the big league burglars of the gypsy nations, and no pikers. . . . They are Serbian gypsies. . . . Ranking next to them, in gypsy heirarchy, are the Kalderish clan, made up of Argentine and Serbian gypsies, the top pickpockets of the Tziganes. . . . The next in ranking is the Boy-ish group, whose women specialize in house to house thievery of mean proportions. . . . The lowest group are the Russian gypsies, penny and nickel thieves, but greatest of the gypsy musicians and singers.

Sheehan has told me that the gypsies have a legend they MUST steal. . . . The legend is that there were four nails set aside for the crucifixion, one to pierce each hand, one to pierce the crossed feet, and one to pierce the heart of the Son of God. . . . A gypsy stole the fourth nail, and from that time on they were forced to steal because they prolonged His agony. . . . All gypsies believe this firmly and will show you pictures of the crucifixion to prove that a nail was stolen.

If the Los Angeles gendarmes will contact Sheehan, at New York headquarters, and give him a description of the gypsy handkerchief switcher who clipped Lupe, I guarantee that Sheehan will name her within 5 minutes, because he has his own "rogues' gallery" of gypsies and knows all of them from old acquaintance.

Women Opera Backers Will Have Tea Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

GALLONS of tea and coffee—and perhaps stronger beverages—will be consumed this afternoon, for, in spite of the fact that the holidays are over and life is supposed to be moving at a more normal tempo, there are a number of tea parties scheduled.

The women's committee of the Opera Foundation fund will meet at Mrs. Howard W. Fenton's apartment, 1420 Lake Shore drive, to report on the progress made in the last week toward completing the $200,000 foundation fund necessary to keep opera in Chicago.

Miss Clara Lake is giving a small tea at her home, 2000 Lincoln Park West, for Mme. Augusto Rosso, wife of the Italian ambassador to Russia. Mme. Rosso is spending January with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkinson, in Evanston.

Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be the especial guest of the College club following his concert in Orchestra hall this afternoon.

Mrs. Charles H. Hamill will be the hostess for the Cliff Dwellers' tea following the concert. Assisting her will be Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Hans Lange, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher.

An exhibition of paintings by Maud Moore Bond and Matilda Vanderpoel will be opened at the Cordon's after the concert tea today. It will hang until Jan. 31.

Last of Debutante Parties to Be Tonight.

Last but not least of the debutante parties this season is one Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins are giving for Miss Marie Louise Hulburd this evening. The buds and their escorts will be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, and then will go to the Arena for skating with Mr. and Mrs. Garfield King as chaperons.

Toward the end of the month the Hopkinses will leave for the Ojai valley in California. They expect to be away for six weeks or two months.

Mrs. William George Lee is entertaining at dinner and dancing at the Drake hotel tonight for Miss Jane Parker, a bud of last year, who will be returning to Bryn Mawr. Mrs. Lee's three young daughters probably all will go to the same college. Roxa Lee is attending the Milton academy now. Her younger sisters go to the Girls' Latin school. Mrs. Lee and other Bryn Mawr alumnæ are selling tickets to a lecture by Mlle. Eve Curie on Feb. 9 in Winnetka.

Committee to Hold Buttery Party Tonight.

The high spot of The Committee's bimonthly party tonight at the Buttery in the Ambassador hotel will be a rope dodging dancing contest, to be judged by Paul Draper. A heavy rope will be held across the dance floor and gradually lowered, while the dancers attempt to continue dancing under it, even if they have to crawl. Mr. Draper also will judge the smoothest dancing couple of the evening from steps he will name.

The Robert Harveys, the Nathaniel Lanes, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Shambaugh, Miss Sally Perry, Sangston Hettler Jr., Miss Denyse Root, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III. are among those who have made reservations for the party.

Due to the sudden death of her father, Wallace E. Pierce, in Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, Mrs. Albert O. Snite has withdrawn as a bridesmaid for Miss Welthyn Harmon when she is married to John C. Brydon Jr. tomorrow. Mrs. Snite flew east yesterday. Her father, who was a representative in congress from Plattsburg, N. Y., will be buried in Plattsburg on Sunday.

Miss Lane Roby Sets Feb. 3 Wedding Date.

The date for the marriage of Miss Lane Abbott Roby to Francis Alonzo Hardy II., has been set for Saturday, Feb. 3. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, with a small reception following for relatives and intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paige Roby, in Evanston.

Miss Eleanor Paige Roby will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Faith Hardy, the bridegroom's sister, will be the bridesmaid. Edward K. Hardy Jr., will be his brother's best man, and little Edward Hardy III., will be the ringbearer. Ushering will be George Nevin Beecher Jr., Jack Hill, Albert Miller of Moorsetown, N. J., and Neil B. Dawes.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will give a reception and dance for their future daughter-in-law on Jan. 27 at their home, Meadow Hill farm, near Barrington. Mr. Hardy and his bride will live on the south side.

Miss Jean Husted, who returned to her studies at Wells on Tuesday, is the ninth member of her family to attend the college. Her mother, Mrs. John C. Husted, is an alumna.

Mr. and Mrs. Husted, who have been at the Orrington hotel in Evanston, left yesterday for Florida for the remainder of the winter. A younger daughter, Holly, has gone back to the Emma Willard school.

Cook county council of the American Legion auxiliary will hear Mrs. Grace H. Harte, an attorney, discuss "The Functioning of the Women Jury Laws" at its meeting at 1:30 o'clock today at the La Salle hotel.

For Resort or Home Wear

The new daytime dress of a soft new crepe fabric is topped with a rib hugging short sleeved jacket made of rows and rows of angora yarn in loops. Down the front closing are buttons covered with the material of the dress. From the resort showings of new dresses in pastels or bright color that can also be worn under winter coats.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Last summer one of the beauty houses brought out a summer scenting lotion that was a great success. It was rather like a toilet lotion, in a fragrance that was perfectly adapted to the tastes of most women for hot, muggy weather—light and perky.

Their success with that is responsible for the advent of what they call their "winter" fragrance. This is a pungent, lasting scent—entirely unlike the summery perfume that made the first one a classic. Basically this winter fragrance is of the exotic school, but it is not at all vulgar or oppressively heavy.

This fragrant liquid is almost astonishingly inexpensive. The triangular shaped bottle, quite stunning and generous in size, costs very little. The scent can be used as a body rub, or even as a perfume.

You'll be pleasantly surprised at how lasting this winter fragrance is. Used in the morning as a pleasant climax to the bath or shower it endows the skin with a fragrance that clings the whole day long. It's never too strong, but you're always pleasantly conscious of it and in some indefinable fashion it contributes to your sense of grooming and well being thru the day.

It can be used directly on fur or heavy fabric; it is not an actual perfume, but the perfume used in it is the kind that blends well with the natural scent of fur and appeals to the senses in cold weather.

Something like this is extremely pleasant to have in midwinter. Wearing heavy clothing—and the same coat every day, as most of us do—is rather tedious business. A touch of this lightens the winter mood.

Chicago Gives Warm Greeting to Lord Lothian

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, has been in Chicago several times since his first visit in 1912, but probably he never has experienced a warmer welcome than this time. This is the first visit he has paid since he became the representative of his empire in America. Consequently, the English Speaking union and the Council on Foreign Relations each entertained yesterday in its most formal and gracious style for the distinguished visitor. The English union started with a reception in the late afternoon at the Casino.

The fashionable little Casino club was cozy and cheery and every one, including the guest of honor, had a delightful time.

The ambassador had tea with Rufus C. Dawes, the president of the union; Mrs. Dawes; the British consul, Lewis Bernays; Mrs. Bernays, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, and Andrew Montgomery, who had come down from Milwaukee for the day.

After finishing his tea, the ambassador spoke informally to the guests, all of whom were members of the union or their immediate families, which kept the crowd from being too large for comfort. Presiding at the long tea table, decorated with Easter lilies and lighted candles, were Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and Mrs. Potter Palmer III.

Mr. McPherson, president of the council, introduced Lord Lothian at the dinner of the Council on Foreign Relations, given in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. His wife headed the receiving line that formed to greet the guests invited to have cocktails with the ambassador in a private room. Also receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Bernays, Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, and, of course, the guest of honor.

It was not a cocktail, however, that Lord Lothian drank, for he is a teetotaler. The balcony, in which about 500 listened to Lord Lothian's talk, but did not dine, was filled long before the 1,000 diners had assembled at the tables. When they were seated they made a brilliant picture, every woman in her smartest dinner gown and every man in tails and white tie. Lord Lothian wore but one decoration, the Companion of Honor, on a red ribbon around his neck.

The women who had checked their wraps, and practically all of them had done so, were sorry when the speaking started, for then the ventilating system started working with a vengeance, and napkins were used as scarves, to little avail. To list those well known in social circles who were not at the dinner would take less space than to list those who were there, for literally every one was present.

Lord Lothian is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bernays while he is in Chicago. James T. Winston entertained at luncheon privately for the ambassador yesterday and today Ira Nelson Morris will entertain similarly. Tonight after a small tea at Mr. and Mrs. Bernays' home Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick will give a small dinner party at their Lake View avenue home for Lord Lothian and Leander McCormick-Goodhart, who is honorary commercial attaché at the British embassy in Washington. He is a second cousin of Chauncey McCormick and a grandson of the first Leander McCormick.

William McCormick Blair and his wife and sister, Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mr. Linn will be among Mr. McCormick-Goodhart's relatives at the small dinner tonight.

Chauncey McCormick, as vice president of the Art institute and the person instrumental in bringing the Italian masterpieces to Chicago, will be one of those on hand at the institute this morning at 9:30 o'clock to welcome the ambassador when he visits the galleries in which the works of art are on view.

Front Views and Profiles

Cuff Notes.

Clifton Webb is writing his autobiography. Bennett Cerf will publish it. His firm is also publishing the story of Helen Hayes' life as told by her mother. Webb's current rôle as The Man Who Came to Dinner ought to offer a nice chapter, and we hope he includes the telegram from a friend, "Don't just sit there; say something," sent when he opened in Chicago in his loquacious, wheel chair rôle. . . . The great Nijinsky, recently released from a sanatorium in Switzerland, will be brought to America shortly. . . . Edouard Kulikowski, former Polish vice consul in Chicago, reported dead from a German bomb in Poland, but who recently arrived in New York with his sister, Jancia, is writing the story of his escape for a national weekly. . . . Soprano Janet Fairbank's portrait has been painted by Stokeley Webster, son of the late Henry Kitchell Webster. . . . One of the first things Allan Jones did upon arriving in Chicago for personal appearances at the Chicago was to go backstage at the Grand, the theater where he played long runs in Student Prince and Blossom Time, and take all the employés out for champagne. . . . Ballet Dancer Chris Volkoff as the Knight of Death in Bacchanale did not carry a black umbrella but was inside of one, a place Mr. Chamberlain probably would have liked to be often, cracks Eliza M. Hickok.

Answered Call?

Most amusing newspaper headline occurrence of the new year: The eight column line on an edition of an afternoon daily: Roosevelt Calls for Unity, and directly underneath it, in the center of the page, the photograph of Unity Freeman-Mitford, captioned "Unity Arrives."

Epicurean Triumph?

Then there was the one over an A. P. dispatch:

French Toast Victory.

Call Out the Gods.

If you want an idea as to what kind of a headdress to wear to the Call Out the Gods masque ball the Chicago architects are giving Jan. 12, there is a whole window devoted to them in a State street department store. There is a kind of Medusa headdress of snakelike protuberances of feathers; a lovely Ceres head adornment of wheat, fruit, and berries; diadems such as Astarte might have worn, fantastic head ornamentations for, perhaps, gods of the future.

Some State street pedestrians who stopped to look at the window didn't notice the smallish card identifying the headdresses as mythological ones for the ball. One of them, looking at the Medusalike headdress, said to her companion: "Honestly, I don't know what the milliners will try to make us wear next."

Paraphrase.

The small daughter of the Richard Sampsons apparently has heard mother mention her social activities. Anyway, the little girl sings it: "Luncheon bridge is fall-down."

Remembered Yarn.

The late Orson C. Wells, whose large bequest to the University of Chicago recently was made public, was a Chicago newspaper reporter before his brilliant career as a stock broker. One of his assignments was an interview with a famous politician. Dale of Dundee relates the tale: Altho he was down to his last dollar of expense money, Wells started things off by asking the senator to have a cigar. At the counter the senator selected a cigar of a three for a dollar brand. Wells told about the incident to a group of fellow reporters afterward.

"So I bought three," he added. "The senator smoked one and I smoked one."

"What did you do with the third," asked one of the group. "O," said Wells, "the next morning I ate that one for breakfast."

Fresh Social Terminology.

(At the University of Chicago.)

Rat race—public dance.

Convulsion — cabaret dance, small floor, plenty people.

Squidge—drug store sandwich.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I was North, the declarer. East opened a small heart and I played dummy's ace, then cashed the ace-king of spades, discarding my losing heart. Next I led a small heart which I ruffed, then led the queen of trumps thru East. West won with the king and now I had to take every trick which, at first glance, appeared a certainty. But West returned a small spade and I, not knowing the position of the ten of trumps, was in a dilemma as to whether to ruff low and risk an overruff by East, or to ruff with the jack and then depend on the ten dropping on a lead to dummy's ace. After much thought I played my jack of trumps, figuring that if East were out of spades it was quite likely he had one or both of the other trumps. Naturally, after my play I was down one. The argument is that I should have figured out why West led a small spade. The only reason I could think of was that he had no other lead, but my partner feels that he played it to try to force me up with the jack of trumps, thus automatically establishing his ten. I could have made my contract, but I still maintain that this was not the correct way to play the hand.

"Incidentally, if I had not been so greedy in trying to make every trick I could have given the opponents the king of trumps on the second lead of trumps and made a small slam without any finesse. R. L. T., Canada."

There somebody goes stealing my thunder again! I was all set to give declarer the devil for getting himself into a jam when all he had to do was lead the ace and another diamond, disdaining the finesse. To my disgust he himself made this point clear in his last paragraph.

Nevertheless, the point is so important that I am publishing the hand and shall insist on my pound of flesh. Here was a case in which an argument arose over a completely inconsequential point, a point that never should have arisen in a rubber bridge game. The declarer was playing a small slam contract which was worth 1,370 points to him. He risked these points—and lost them—because he wanted to make an extra 30 points! In other words, he laid approximately 46 to 1 that he could catch the K-10 of diamonds!

Even at duplicate bridge, in which an extra 30 points may result in a substantially better match-point score, it would be absurd to take the diamond finesse in this hand. For one thing, the chance of catching the king and ten is not very good and, for another, the risk is all out of proportion to the gain. The proper play was to win the opening heart lead in dummy, cash the trump ace [perhaps the king would drop singleton], then cash the A-K of spades, discarding a heart, and then lead a second diamond toward the closed hand. Obviously, this conservative and logical line of play would have left no defense. West could capture the second diamond with the king and, as before, return a spade, but now, with only one trump at large, and with that situated in the West hand, North would be in absolutely no danger.

An 'If Girl' Is 'Sour Grapes' and Disliked

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Are you, by any unfortunate chance, an "If Girl"?

Almost any large gathering, party or dance is certain to be plagued with at least one "If Girl," Orchestra Leader Bob Chester observes, and, speaking for his fellow man, regrets her presence exceedingly. She's such a bore.

The female of the species is likely to have an "if" for almost everything, Bob finds. "For everything—past, present, and future."

You know this If Girl for her expression: "If I had the money to spend on clothes that that one has I could out glamor her all right."

When a man hears that rolling off the tongue, he may be sure he is in for a wonderful evening. An evening punctured and frazzled and frayed as only the green eyed monster's appearance can make it. Envy, that's what it is, as men interpret it, girls. Envy, with no ambition whatever to have the money to buy the clothes that make the other girl look her part.

Opportunity is another factor that begets the If one's envy. "If I had her opportunity"—and so on. "If I'd had the chance to go to college as she had, things would have been mighty different with me!"

"If I had a nice home I'd throw a better party myself," may be another version.

The If Girls just don't realize that the victims of their envious aspersions would have men friends if they lived in igloos.

Yes, says Bob Chester, the If Girls run the gamut of human emotions and failings to find reasons for their own shortcomings and for other girls' successes. Luck, fate, sickness, slight physical imperfections serve to stud the endless list of grievances cited for unpopularity or nonsuccess.

"No dice," concludes the maestro. "It's not only good policy but good sportsmanship to take the "breaks" as they come, and give a great, big hand to the other person."

Symphony Pays Annual Tribute to Its Founder

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Yesterday was the 35th anniversary of the death of Theodore Thomas, who founded the Chicago orchestra in 1891 and served as its conductor until the very end of 1904. Orchestra hall marked the day by a wreath laying ceremony in the afternoon and a memorial concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra at night.

Participating in the wreath laying ceremony, which took place before the portrait of the founder in Orchestra hall's foyer, were Frederick Stock, Thomas' successor as conductor, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Orchestral association, and a group of men and women closely identified with past and present orchestral activities.

In the evening Mr. Stock, who had played for years in the viola section of the orchestra before assuming the conductorship in 1905, presented in honor of his old chief a program drawn almost entirely from the music which Thomas performed frequently in the Chicago orchestra's early concerts. One could have gone to the Auditorium 45 years ago and heard substantially the same program. [Orchestra hall was not completed until 1904. The Auditorium was the home of the Chicago orchestra from 1891 to 1904.]

First came Beethoven's "Coriolanus" overture, which was performed in the orchestra's 1891 season and frequently during the succeeding years. The Brahms third symphony, which followed the Beethoven overture last night, has a similar performance record. The concert's postintermission period was given over to excerpts from Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs," music which Thomas labored mightily [and successfully] to popularize.

And the manner of performance, as well as the répertoire, was in the Thomas tradition. Here were impressive sonorities, cleanly textured tonal effects, simple and forthright rhythms. Thomas' hatred for the meretricious was passed on to his successor and constitutes perhaps the most valuable part of Chicago's musical legacy.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo last night ended its ten day stay at the Auditorium theater. The ballets presented at this final performance were "Rouge et Noir," "Ghost Town," "Bacchanale," and "Gaité Parisienne."

SANITARY BOARD TO INCREASE '40 OPERATING FUND

Total Budget for Year Is Decreased $1,471,495.

Operating expenses of the sanitary district will be $1,316,168 higher this year than in 1939, according to the 1940 budget presented at a public hearing yesterday by Ross A. Woodhull, president of the board. Total appropriations of $36,121,722, however, are $1,471,495 lower than in 1939.

In 1939 the district's operating expenditures were $6,536,138. Estimates for this year call for $7,852,306. Woodhull said the primary reason for the increase is the full operation of the new $22,000,000 southwest side sewage treatment plant and new sewer systems.

More Electric Power Needed.

Another factor in the increase is the $100,000 needed to purchase additional electric power. The district's hydroelectric plant in Lockport is unable to produce sufficient current with the flow from Lake Michigan cut from 5,000 to 1,500 cubic feet per second. Restoration of the reduction, made in compliance with a United States Supreme court order, is being sought by Attorney General John E. Cassidy.

Reductions in construction costs and other funds account for the decrease in total expenditures. Estimated total revenues are $36,166,781, with $7,902,500 anticipated for the operating fund.

Union Scale Urged.

Several union representatives and leaders of civic groups appeared before the board yesterday. The union delegates asked that wage scales be maintained at union levels.

Graham Aldis, president of the civic federation and bureau of public efficiency, said all local governments must attempt to eliminate avoidable expenditures. In a prepared statement he recommended that the number of district trustees be reduced from nine to three, thus saving approximately $45,000 annually. In his talk, however, he omitted this suggestion.

The final budget probably will be passed in two weeks.

Battles Robber

MISS HELEN HOVORKA.

Miss Helen Hovorka, 21 years old, 596 Hawthorne place, put up such a courageous battle yesterday when a robber attacked her at 943 Rush street that he fled without the $445 she was carrying.

The man first struck Miss Hovorka on the head, knocking her to the ground. She screamed and he kicked her. She continued to fight and scream. Passers-by went to her assistance and the bandit, who had seized the envelope containing the money, dropped it and ran.

Miss Hovorka, an employé of the B. & G. Sandwich shop at 31 West Division street, was on her way to a bank at the time.

FATHER FINED $50 FOR ATTACKING RAPIST IN COURT

John J. Rickey, 32 years old, was on trial yesterday in Criminal court. The jury filed out to consider its verdict. Rickey stood chatting with his lawyers in the courtroom. Lieut. Albert E. Jenner of the Kensington police station stepped up. He brushed the lawyers aside and with one quick punch knocked Rickey to the floor.

The charge against Rickey was rape. His victim was Mrs. Hazel Braud, 31, of 6031 South Winchester avenue. Mrs. Braud is Lieut. Jenner's daughter.

Bailiffs seized the lieutenant, a man of 55, and Judge John Sbarbaro ordered him held for contempt of court.

After less than two hours the jury found Rickey, a cab driver, guilty and fixed his punishment at five years in the penitentiary. Judge Sbarbaro sentenced him immediately. Then Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine interceded for Lieut. Jenner. He told of his 27 years on the force and his record, which includes 10 creditable mentions. Albert E. Jenner Jr., secretary of the Chicago Bar association, defended his father.

Judge Sbarbaro, remarking that the dignity of the court must be upheld and that he could not overlook the attack, fined Lieut. Jenner $50.

MOB OF 100 BENT ON A LYNCHING; TROOPS RUSHED

Meadville, Miss., Jan. 4 [Special].—National Guardsmen arrived here tonight in an attempt to prevent the lynching of a Negro trapped by a mob of 100 men in a nearby woods.

The hunted man, Red Williams, was one of two Negroes who escaped Monday night after a gun fight with a group of men who attacked them in a Meadville house. One white man was killed and two others were wounded in the fight.

The Negroes, who had been blamed for church robberies, escaped. Today armed men converged on a wood outside of Meadville after Williams was reported seen there.

THE CRIME CLOCK

Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1

"Half of all the crimes in Cook county are committed by repeaters."—The Chicago Crime Commission.

ROBBER'S BRAVE, SAD TALE TURNS OUT TO BE FALSE

Last September Ira Lee Brown, 22 years old, won sympathy in Criminal court when he declared he was innocent of a robbery charge, had no record, but was ready to go to prison rather than reveal his true name and worry his sick mother. An investigation was ordered, with a view to leniency for Brown.

Yesterday most of Brown's story collapsed. Probation officials found he has a record in Joneboro, Union county, for thievery and troubles starting when he was 12 years old. He served a term on the Vandalia prison farm. His mother, Mrs. Mary Brown, 2950 Lake Park avenue, is ill with heart disease. That was the only truth in his story.

"I had everything to gain if I could get away with the story," Brown told Judge Michael Feinberg. The judge sentenced him to terms of 1 to 20 and 1 to 10 years in prison on two charges of larceny, the sentences to run concurrently.

STUDY UPHOLDING HERMES' CONDUCT APPROVED BY BAR

A report of the Chicago Bar association's judiciary committee upholding the conduct of Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes in the trial last July of George Henneman, boss of the painters' union who was charged with carrying concealed weapons, was approved yesterday by the association's board of managers.

Judge Hermes had asked the committee to investigate the case after the Chicago Crime commission had accused him in a bulletin of seemingly improper conduct in the trial. R. W. Dvorak, assistant operating director of the commission, said yesterday that the commission's observer had noted what seemed to be statements of undue friendliness made by Judge Hermes to Henneman's counsel.

The judiciary committee reported that Judge Hermes' conduct "showed no interest, bias, or prejudice." Henneman later was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $300 in a bench trial before Judge John A. Sbarbaro of the Criminal court. An appeal has been filed with the Illinois Supreme court.

FARM HAND SENTENCED FOR ARSON.

Coldwater, Mich., Jan. 4 [Special].—Lyle McDowell, 29 years old, farm hand employed by Lloyd Auer, farmer near here, was sentenced to serve from 9 to 10 years in Jackson prison by Judge Blaine B. Hatch at Marshall today, where he pleaded guilty to arson. McDowell confessed setting fire to five barns on Auer's farm several days ago when he was refused the loan of $2 by his employer. Auer's loss will total $15,000.

4 SEE GAMBLER FINED; DECIDE ON JURY TRIALS

Gamblers who have been arraigned in the Racket court in recent weeks have asked for jury trials, admittedly because they feared conviction by a "tough" judge.

Then last Tuesday Judge John V. McCormick was assigned to that court for the first time. And yesterday Clarence Gillespie, colored, was brought into court on a charge of operating a policy game on the south side. He waived a jury trial. After hearing evidence of police officers Judge McCormick fined him $50 and costs.

Four persons charged with operating handbooks, who followed Gillespie, asked for jury trials and continuances. They said later that they were not taking chances.

AN OUTLAW'S FINISH.

Leonard was clutching the stair rails, he was breathing heavily. Papago regarded him sidelong, beneath lowered lids.

"Mebbe," the latter said, "he didn't hear them. They could of fetched her to her room while he was working in the kitchen."

They went on in the same order as they had crossed the lobby: Leonard first, Papago and the prisoner following. The room was empty.

Leonard's face was gray, his lips were twitching, he leaned against the wall, looking around the little room. The sunlight was streaming thru the two windows, it fell upon the worn carpet leaving a rectangle of brightness wherein the faded pattern stood out plainly. There were some colored pictures on the walls. They had been cut from current magazines: pictures of girls in highly colored sport dresses.

As he looked at them, he remembered what Pat had told him last night while they were driving out across the wide flats: her longing for other places. And now, when she was about to attain the riches which would enable her to leave this lonely spot where she had been waiting so long, perhaps death had come to her.

He said thickly, "The doctor's house. It's there they took her." He started toward the door, but Papago pulled him back.

"If we go looking for her across the line, we got to get help. You're wanted there, remember. Sit down, man, we'll talk it over."

The minutes passed all too swiftly while Leonard told him of Louis Mestres and Plutarcho, and of the Casa Verdi where they had taken shelter. They had forgotten Collins. His face had lost its apathy, it was alive with little crafty lines that squirmed like worms. Suddenly he bolted thru the open door. Sang uttered a shrill cry; the other two raced after the fugitive. He dived down the stairway, and there came from the lobby below the sound of many voices. Papago had gained the stair head when the walls were shaken by the heavy report of a shot gun. He saw Collins pitch forward on his face.

Papago leaped back into the hallway in time to block Leonard. The body on the stairs twitched and became still.

"Got one of 'em," the man with the rabbit chin told his companion.

The street door opened as he was speaking. The chief of police had already seized him by the arm when a voice behind them said:

"As you are, all of you. Nobody move."

The sun was getting down to its day's work. The heat waves shimmered on the long flats and the ragged mountains in the west were beginning to take on a mantle whose color can be nearest described as ashes of roses. The purple and blue shadows had retreated into the deep gashes between the ridges, where they were to lurk until, with the approach of the next evening, they would come forth again. A big dust devil sprang from the road, which wound back and forth across the international border. It grew toward the pale sky as swiftly as Jack's fabled beanstalk, twined like a snake that is standing on its tail, and swept away to join several others which were moving back and forth on a dried lake bed like silent dancers in a ghostly minuet.

The aluminum paint on the store at Copper City gleamed like burnished silver, and the cream colored, two door sedan in front of the building shone almost as brightly as if it had just come from the factory. In the rear of the long room there was grateful dimness, the cool air was laden with odors of soap and cheese and spices and leather. Mrs. Sebastian had reached that confidential stage which was, with her, luxurious. She was about to tell her right name.

She was sitting on the same chair where Leonard had found her less than twenty-four hours before. But the brief interval had been accompanied by several material changes, not the least of which was her appearance. The lawn dress and the pink ribbons were gone, so were the high heeled shoes with rhinestone buckles and the pink stockings. She was clad in quiet gray, and altho her figure had not shrunk in the slightest, it had somehow a more efficient look.

The storekeeper was perched on the edge of the counter, regarding her with considerable admiration thru thick lensed glasses. And, accompanying the admiration, there was a feeling of comradeship. After all, when one has been lending his establishment to a lady to use as a rendezvous, keeping a tight mouth concerning the various gentlemen who met her in secret conference, and her various long distance telephone conversations, the last of which had taken place at an unearthly hour that same morning, it was natural enough that he should feel himself entitled to learn who she really was.

"You'd never guess it," Mrs. Sebastian said. "It's Riley." She saw the look of bewilderment which the announcement had produced and she smiled.

"Really," the storekeeper told her, "it's marvelous. You know, the way you manage to carry it off. Now anybody would think—"

"They'd think," Mrs. Sebastian, whose real name was Riley, interrupted placidly, "that I was Mexican. Well, they'd be half right. My mother was born in Guadalajara. It's simple enough. Her people came to New York when she was a little girl, they lived in a Spanish neighborhood close to Death avenue. And then they moved to the Bronx. It was there my father met her. He was a patrolman then, he was a lieutenant of detectives when he retired."

"I see." the storekeeper beamed at her thru his glasses. "So you came by it naturally."

"By my dark skin, yes. And by my Spanish. And also by my liking for this work, you understand. I was a police matron when I wasn't much more than a girl—still in my twenties. I was always big, you see, and for that matter I'm pretty strong yet. Even if I am fat."

"It must be interesting," the storekeeper murmured.

"More so," she told him, "since I came to do undercover work. It takes you all sorts of places. You see the world." She laughed musically. "And sometimes, when things are breaking fast, it's exciting too," She rose from her chair.

"Well, I must go. There are a few things to settle up before I say goodby to San Ilario. It's nice to get back into my own clothes and to be driving my own car once more. And, by the way, the Casa Verdi has paid all expenses. When I lock up this afternoon and turn it over to the landlord, the narcotic bureau will break even on that item." She held out her hand, and as the other took it, she smiled again. "Goodby. And my thanks. You've done your bit. I'll see that you get credit for it in the proper quarters."

The storekeeper went with her as far as the door. She got into the cream colored car and drove away. The morning was still young, there was but little travel on the road to San Ilario. The only car she met was one of the Golconda Mining company's trucks. Until she was tooling across the wide mesa approaching the low flatlands a few miles from the village, where she had been separating the miners from their monthly pay checks —and gathering such information as dropped from the lips of night birds, male and female information which she had sorted out, relaying the essential items to El Paso and Tucson and Nogales.

It was another job. And it was done. She was thinking over what had been accomplished when she saw the car that was approaching from the town. It was, she reflected, usually the case that these affairs came to a head quite unexpectedly. Some complication which had not been foreseen, some unknown factor, tying with the others at the last moment. Then the dénouement. It had been so last night.

And this time there were two unknown factors entering the case: the claim jumping and the pay car holdup. Neither of them had anything to do with drug smuggling in themselves, only, because the man who had engineered the narcotic trade had happened to embark on these side issues, they had ensnared him. That was the way with such men as Kent; they always overreached themselves.

By this time the sheriff's car must have arrived in Golconda and the officers had probably finished their work, the Mexican constabulary would have completed the raid in San Ilario. She hoped it had been altogether successful. If any one slipped thru at the last minute it would, she told herself, be just too bad. She was wishing she had been there. It would be a pleasant task to handle that woman in the doctor's house.

Salmon Wrapped in Rice

Just for variety salmon comes to the table wrapped up in a blanket of rice. To make the dish, add ¼ cup bread crumbs, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, and salt and pepper to taste to 1 cup of salmon. Place in a greased mold which has been lined with 2 cups of cooked rice. Steam, covered, for 30 minutes. Garnish with parsley and an additional cup of salmon which has been heated with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice. This is extra good with a tomato or mushroom sauce.

BOOKLET ON MAID SERVICE WILL HELP SERVANT, EMPLOYER

When your maid doesn't show enough initiative, can't get things organized, and doesn't manage to do the work you think you have a right to expect of her, present her with a copy of our little booklet, "Maid Service for the Average Household" [5 cents, 7 cents postpaid]. Studying this booklet will help a girl put some system into her work and make her more valuable. That in turn will improve her earning power.

If you employ domestic help, or if you yourself are a domestic, write for a copy of the booklet by addressing your request to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Remember, 5 cents, 7 cents postpaid.

In addition to organization tips, there are pages on table setting and serving which are among the most punctilious tasks exacted of a maid.

A MINTY FLAVOR MAKES TAPIOCA TRULY DIFFERENT

The refreshing flavor of after-dinner mints is the perfect addition to this fluffy tapioca cream dessert. Tiny white mints may be used, or the crushed stick candy which gives it a delicate pink tint to the dessert. Top it with chocolate sauce and just listen to the exclamations of your bridge guests!

PEPPERMINT TAPIOCA CREAM.

1 egg yolk
4 cups milk
⅓ cup quick cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup crushed peppermint candy
1 egg white

Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add remaining milk, quick cooking tapioca, salt, and candy. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 10 to 12 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Chill and serve in sherbet glasses with chocolate sauce.

CHOCOLATE CHIP BREAD PUDDING A TASTY DESSERT

Grandma may have been an expert at turning out light, fluffy bread puddings, but she probably never attempted anything so deliciously different as chocolate chip bread pudding. Either fresh or dry bread may be used, but the dessert is most attractive when the bread is cut up into cubes.

The modern cook should remember that bread pudding is a custard mixture, and slow baking is important.

CHOCOLATE CHIP BREAD PUDDING.
[Serves 6-8.]

2 cups bread [3 slices] cubes
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups evaporated milk
1 cup boiling water
2 squares sweet chocolate, grated
½ teaspoon vanilla

Place bread in buttered baking dish. Beat eggs, add sugar, salt, and milk. Stir in the water. Add chocolate and vanilla. Pour over bread. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] until set, about 45 minutes.

Birds Basted with Jelly Acquire a Nice Glaze

To give roast turkey or other fowl that shiny, glazed appearance, simply brush its surface with jelly which has been beaten until soft with a little hot water, half an hour before the bird is done. Baste twice with this liquid during the remaining cooking period. The flavors of currant, grape, or crabapple jelly combine especially well with the roast meat.

Lima Beans Leftovers Form Basis of Tempting Salad

If you're fortunate enough to have lima beans left over from the family dinner it will be easy to toss together this tempting salad. Simply combine equal amounts of cooked limas, shredded cabbage, and chopped pickles. Moisten with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves topped with grated American cheese.

Pear Halves with Berries Tasty Addition to Ham

Fresh pear halves filled with canned berries or cooked cranberries are a savory accompaniment to baked ham and meat roasts. If pears are slightly under ripe they may be baked in the roaster during the last 45 minutes of the cooking period, basted with the drippings, and sprinkled with brown sugar and cinnamon. Another delicious way of combining winter pears with meats is to fry the peeled halves with pork chops or other chops, sprinkling the fruit with brown sugar. Ripe pears require only a few minutes to fry this way.

Here Is a Neat Trick That's No Trick at All

It's no trick to make gingerbread men for the kiddies this new, jiffy way: Simply add ½ cup cold water to contents of a package of gingerbread mix; stir vigorously until smooth. Spread batter ⅛ inch thick into oiled and paper-lined pan. Bake in moderate oven [350 degrees] for 25 to 30 minutes or until browned. Remove from pan immediately. When still warm, place sheet on flat surface and cut gingerbread men with cutter, or cut around a cardboard pattern. Make eyes, nose and mouth with raisins or pieces of dates.

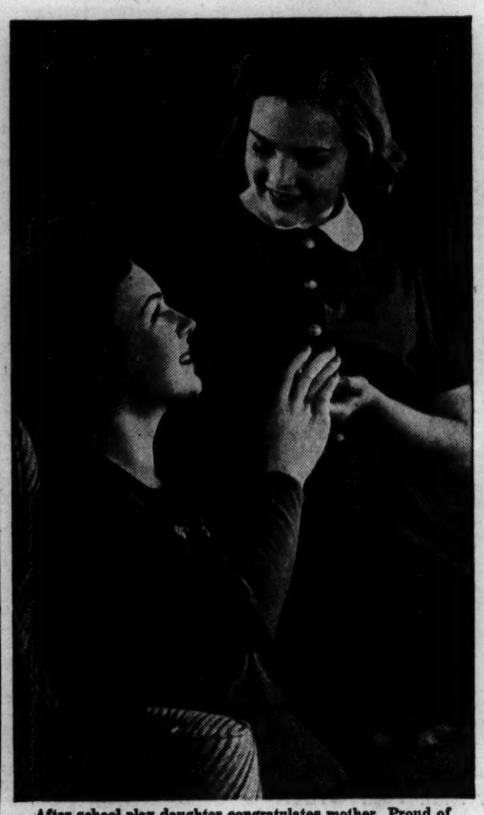
MOTHER WINS



After school play daughter congratulates mother. Proud of mother's smooth hands when she introduced her to classmates.

Battle with "Dishpan Hands" Ended

DAUGHTER PROUD

"No more strong soap in my dishpan," says Mrs. B.

What a shock—when her daughter asked her to wear gloves to the high school play. "The other girls' mothers have such nice smooth hands," said Betty, wistfully . . . Mother took the hint! Decided to try gentle Ivory Soap instead of the strong soap she'd been using for washing dishes. And after 2 weeks of washing dishes with Ivory Soap she was surprised! Her hands looked so much better—felt so much smoother! . . . A hint for you! Instead of strong soaps, try Ivory for dishes for just 2 weeks. See your hands improve. Ivory's so gentle that doctors advise it for a baby's skin—yet it costs less than 1¢ a day for all your dishwashing. Get "Large-Size" Ivory today.

Nipping cold it may be, but the first Florida strawberries are here. And there are plenty of other green growing things from the south to remind you of summer. All fruits and vegetables have been reasonable in price this winter. You can have many of them to brighten your midwinter meals for not much more than in summer.

Vegetables available at reasonable prices for the season are green beans, bunch beets, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, bunch carrots, cauliflower, green peppers, greens of all kinds [including collards, mustard greens, turnip tops, and kale], lettuce, onions, parsnips, peas, old and new potatoes, radishes, spinach, scallions, and turnips.

Vegetables of Good Quality.

Also available, but somewhat high priced are cauliflower, cucumbers, and tomatoes.

Most vegetables are of good quality this winter. Green peas are only fair now and the best quality peas are high priced. There is also a wide range in the quality and price of green beans.

Best vegetable buys this week-end from both quality and price standpoint are broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, lettuce, spinach, and green peppers.

Now is the time to serve plenty of citrus fruits. The fruit is juicy, full flavored, and low priced. Grapefruit, most of which is coming from Texas at present, is somewhat cheaper this week. Orange prices haven't changed much, but they're an excellent buy whether it's Florida, California, Texas, or Arizona fruit you select. Tangerines will be available for the rest of the month and this fruit is particularly nice this winter.

Cranberries, Pears Available.

Cranberries and winter pears are both available and both are wearing reasonable price tags. Hothouse rhubarb from Michigan, of a quality to inspire pie baking, is an excellent buy. Western grapes will soon be gone.

Fresh produce isn't the only good buy for homemakers. Many stores are holding clearance sales of canned goods. Among them you'll find a few extra good bargains on discontinued items.

Over at the meat counter it's beef that gets the special sale attention this week-end. Stores are featuring pot and rib roasts, and steaks of all kinds. Pork loin roasts are still an excellent buy, and some stores are featuring ham and smoked butts. Lamb shoulder roasts and legs of lamb are featured here and there. Meats have all gone up a little on the wholesale market, but the price rise is not great in most cases.

HERE'S PAMPHLET WITH HINTS FOR TOUR WARDROBE

For Friday food page readers who are taking a vacation this winter, getting away from household tasks and the kitchen stove for a couple of weeks, we have a pamphlet entitled "Vacation Wardrobes." It will help you know what kind of clothes and how many to take to Bermuda, Haiti, or the north woods. It contains also a little chart of the temperatures to expect at various popular winter resorts during January and February. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

CORNSTARCH CAN BE MADE EASILY INTO A PUDDING

Molded cornstarch puddings are one of those light, easy to make desserts that every homemaker likes to serve. They can be served again and again without any one tiring of them if the garnish is sufficiently varied. Here is a basic recipe for the pudding with suggested garnishes:

MOLDED CORNSTARCH PUDDING.
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine cornstarch, salt, and sugar with one-half cup of the milk and heat remaining milk to scalding. Stir cornstarch mixture slowly into the scalded milk. Cook in top of double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. When thick and smooth, cover and cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Add vanilla and turn into individual molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold, garnish, and serve.

GARNISHES.

Graham Cracker Topping: Combine one-half cup graham cracker crumbs with one-quarter cup brown sugar and two tablespoons butter. Place in saucepan and stir constantly over very low heat until sugar is dissolved and butter melted. Cool, break into small pieces with rolling pin, and sprinkle over the unmolded pudding.

Mincemeat Upside Down Pudding: Place one tablespoon of prepared mincemeat in bottom of each pudding mold. Cover with pudding and chill. Unmold and serve with brandy sauce.

Coconut-Orange Topping: Sprinkle unmolded pudding generously with shredded coconut. Arrange orange sections around each pudding and serve with orange sauce.

Caramel Nut Topping: Sprinkle generously with toasted, slivered almonds and serve with caramel sauce.

Carving Lessons

1

1. Boneless cushion lamb shoulder is easy to carve. Slices are cut from the top down thru both meat and dressing. Each slice should be about ⅜ of an inch thick.

2

2. The carver begins slicing beef tongue from the large end which is placed to the right of the platter. By continuing with even parallel slices the slices cut from the tip of the tongue will be lengthwise. This will give the largest possible number of good sized servings.

3

3. Beef brisket is sliced very thinly and at a slight angle. To get more uniform size the slices are cut in rotation from three sizes of the meat. The brisket should be placed on the platter with the rounded side away from the carver.

EVERY ROAST IS A NEW PROBLEM TO THE CARVER

Here Are Hints About Inexpensive Cuts.

When the head of the house sharpens the carving knife this week-end he probably will not be preparing to carve a festive turkey, ham or expensive roast. One of the less expensive meat cuts more than likely will be served to ease the strain on a holiday taxed food budget.

The fact that many of the economy cuts are boned at the market or are already boneless does make them easier to carve. But each cut still presents its individual carving problem. It is sometimes difficult to slice the meat in such a way that it will be cut across the grain. And there is always the problem of getting attractive even slices. Since these cuts are easy, they make good practice material for the beginning carver.

Carving a Rolled Roast.

Boned veal and lamb shoulder roasts are attractive enough to be used frequently for Sunday and company dinners. These cuts are often rolled to make a neat compact roast. Sometimes they are simply boned and sewed up on two sides, leaving a pocket which is stuffed with dressing. Such a roast is called a cushion shoulder.

Stuffed or rolled, the boned shoulder roast is brought to the table with the cut surface toward the carver who slices the meat parallel to the cut surface. Slices are generally cut about ⅜ of an inch thick thru both meat and dressing. Strings should be removed from the cushion shoulder before it is brought to the table.

How to Slice Beef Tongue.

The only difficulty a carver should experience in slicing beef tongue lies in the irregular shape of the cut. Tongue should be trimmed of all excess tissue and cartilage before it is brought to the table. It is placed on the platter with the rounded side toward the carver and with the large end to the right. Beginning at the right the carver cuts thin slices straight down across the grain. If slices are kept parallel this will give lengthwise slices from the small end of the tongue.

Beef brisket must be cut with somewhat slantwise slices in order that the meat may be cut across the grain without too narrow servings. The boned brisket is placed on the platter flat side down with rounded side away from the carver. The general direction of the muscle fibers then will be parallel to the length of the platter. Thin slices about ⅛ of an inch in thickness are made beginning at the right. To prevent slices being too narrow, they should be cut at an angle. These slices will be quite long and must be cut in half. Or the carver may cut the second and third slices from the two right hand corners, thus making three uniform slices.

PREPARE LIVER IN CASSEROLE FOR A CHANGE

Beef or pork liver can form the basis for many an economical and nutritious family meal, if it's prepared in a variety of ways. This tasty casserole dish will be a welcome change from the usual broiled or braised liver, which probably is served too frequently for any appetite appeal.

LIVER EN CASSEROLE.
2 pounds beef or pork liver
4 slices bacon
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons ketchup
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 onion, sliced
Salt and pepper

Have beef or pork liver left in a chunky piece. Place it in a greased baking dish. Lay bacon slices over the top. Slice onion over the meat, add Worcestershire sauce, ketchup, green pepper, salt and pepper, and enough hot water to almost cover. Put in a slow oven [300 degrees] and cook until liver is done, about 1½ hours. Remove the cover for the last 15 minutes of cooking to brown the bacon slices.

EVEN UNSKILLED CAN BAKE ROLLS IN THIS RECIPE

It doesn't require the skill of an experienced breadmaker to produce these delicious lemon clover rolls, for they're quickly and easily made, even by an amateur.

LEMON CLOVER ROLLS.
[16-20 Rolls.]
2 cups flour, sifted
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
¼ cup milk
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Sift dry ingredients and work in shortening. Add milk which has been soured by combining with lemon juice. Knead slightly. Form dough into small, walnut sized balls. Place three balls in each cup of a greased muffin tin. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven [450 degrees] for 20 minutes.

DRIED APRICOTS AND GINGER MAKE EXCELLENT JAM

Now, when the jelly shelf is somewhat depleted, is the time to make a dried fruit jam. Apricots and crystalized ginger are a good jam combination.

GINGER APRICOT JAM.
¼ pound dried apricots
5 cups water
½ to 1 cup chopped crystalized or preserved ginger
7 cups sugar
1 bottle pectin

Add water to apricots, cover, and let stand four hours or overnight. Drain, grind or chop fine, and mix with juice. Measure four cups. Chop ginger fine; add to apricots with sugar, mixing well. Bring to full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil hard for one minute. Remove from heat and add pectin. Pour quickly into hot, sterilized glasses and seal at once.

Does Your Child Include You in Confidence?

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

And you can't understand why it is that your daughter doesn't tell you things, tho you have discovered that she does open up to her Aunt Margaret? Or it troubles you, and makes you a little jealous, too, that your son is like a clam as far as letting you into his confidence is concerned, but doesn't shut out his father.

If either of these things is true, the chances are that it's because of something you do or are, even allowing for the fact that your son or daughter may be by nature a rather reticent young person. Quite unconsciously you've done something to block their confidence, to choke off the spontaneous imparting of personal delights, or thoughts, or even misdemeanors. Let's look at it on terms of your ordinary attitude toward other grownups.

If you did something you weren't proud of, and confided it to one of your family, and your confidant "lit into" you for it, wouldn't you avoid giving that person another opening for "dressing you down"? I should, and it wouldn't matter how much I deserved it, either.

No matter how much inclined your children are to tell you things and to confide in you when they've done something they think they shouldn't, they're not going to keep on doing so if you jump on them, if you explode, if you scold and punish. If they did, they would hardly be human.

But it is necessary for your children to be able to tell you things. In order to be of most service to them, in order to be the best kind of mother, you must know as much about them as possible. And you can't know much about what they do and feel and think unless they can talk freely to you about everything under the sun. The line of communication must always be open.

How you receive a confidence depends entirely upon what it is. But three things you must be: You must be interested, ready to give your attention, and, as a rule, rather matter-of-fact. Especially must you be careful if the story you're hearing is one that is about some child or happening which shocks you. Be quiet and casual.

The same holds true if your child divulges something that he himself has done of which you disapprove. "Did you, dear? How come?" will pave the way for your hearing all the ins and outs of the matter, which will in turn pave the way for your talking things over with him if you think it necessary, or meeting the situation in some other adequate way, tho sometimes all you need to do is to listen.

But, above all, don't be in a hurry to scold, or punish, or call a thing right or wrong. "Hold your claws, kitty," some one in our family used to say in training our new kittens. So I say, "Hold back your comments when the children tell you things if you think your comments will block their confidences."

Pattern with Quaint Charm

BY NANCY CABOT.

Old friends, old songs and old samplers, like the old homestead, never lose their charm. They may be employed as wall pictures or pillow tops, and are effective motifs in home decoration. The transfer pattern contains an illustrated color chart and detailed instructions.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. X-623, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 8th avenue, New York City.

Weddings Announced

Miss Rita Pool, daughter of W. Cloyd Pool of Evanston, will become the bride of William A. Cornish, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cornish of McAlester, Okla., at 11 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's church in Evanston. A breakfast will follow at the Shawnee Country club. After a three weeks' wedding trip to Mexico City Mr. Cornish and his bride will be at home in McAlester.

Mrs. Leo Wenk of 6930 South Shore drive announces the marriage on Dec. 25 of her daughter, Lois Helen, to Willard L. Cohodas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohodas of Hancock, Mich. After a wedding trip east Mr. Cohodas and his bride will be at home in Appleton, Wis.

The marriage of Miss Molly Sheras, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sheras of Manistee, Mich., to Richard J. Schiff took place on New Year's day at the Ambassador East hotel. Mr. Schiff and his bride will live at 443 Wrightwood avenue. Mr. Schiff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Schiff of 3740 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Louis Rosenbluth of 1380 Hyde Park boulevard announces the marriage on Dec. 23 of her daughter, Jean Carolyn, to Stanley David Levy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David R. Levy.

Haste Really Makes Waste of Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We wish we might be in a position to check up on the beauty fatalities due to our common habit of rushing. Some of us have the "disease" so well established we even rush right past the hairdresser's door when his attention is woefully needed. And what does that get us? What does any of this mad rushing of ours get us? Nerves and bad dispositions, tightly set jaws and hard expressions, and estranged families, to mention a few of the casualties.

Marcella Denya, one of the most beautiful and popular celebrities of Paris and star of the Paris Grand Opera company, now on an American tour, confided her deep confusion over the American woman's "frightful rush."

"French women," Mme. Denya states, "are supposed to display too much of the Gallic temperament. And being an opera star, well, temperamental outbursts are the prima donna's prerogative! But I was taught very early that to get excited, to lose one's temper and always be in a mad rush takes its toll on one's health, sense of humor and personal appearance."

No matter how lively looking a girl or woman may be, if she talks too fast, uses nervous gestures all the time, is a chain-smoker and doesn't know how to sit quietly for a single moment, Mme. Denya thinks her charm is completely destroyed. She makes her companion uncomfortable and nervous, too. And men, she reminds women, admire poise and composure in the women they meet, either socially or in business.

Three rules this French star offers for charming composure:

1. Never try to save time by rushing, doing things too quickly. It is time wasted and temper lost.
2. Keep the upper hand over your nerves. Don't let them rule you.
3. Always be conscious of the way you walk, talk, and carry yourself. Thus, you'll curb the habit of running and rushing about, talking too much and too fast.

Producers of Lincoln Play Seek to Enjoin Movie

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Robert Sherwood, author of the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and its producing company are seeking an injunction to prevent further distribution of the motion picture "Young Mr. Lincoln" and damages for alleged unfair advertising. The suit claims 20th Century-Fox Film corporation changed the name of the movie from "The Lawyer in the West" to "Young Mr. Lincoln" after the stage production became a success.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

Two New Color Schemes Win Style Approval

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Color promotion of different and distinctive projects for dramatizing midwinter wardrobes stresses two ideas, Quaker gray, a demure and subtle shade, and fascinating magnolia accents. There are unquestionably more lovely shades of flattering gray in the stores and shops than any one could think possible.

Yards of beautiful thin woolens from a real deep gun-metal to a most sophisticated pearl gray are ready for the homework of the "sew your own" crowd.

Clever two-piece wool suits consisting of flared skirt and fitted jacket top are featured in several shades of gray and these have modest price tags, too. These are the smoothly fashioned wool suits that can be worn as a suit or as a daytime dress, the neckline of the jacket being high enough to pass as a daytime jacket top effect. Both short and long sleeves are plentiful.

The materials are of the nonscratch textures. Silver, gold, or decorative buttons in contrast color complete the duets ready for wear under fur coats or tweed topcoats with a fur collar.

The magnolia color promotion is sensationally effective. The exquisite dull creamy white, the contrast of deep green waxy leaves, the pale soft pinks and blues are featured in suits and simple daytime dresses of silk crêpe, wool and novelty mixtures. Gloves, soft swathed turbans, belts, bags, separate blouses, jackets, separate skirts, and material by the yard make this delicately flattering color scheme the most eloquent new way of acquiring a fashion interest during the postholiday shopping doldrums.

The loveliest of silk chiffons is here with large magnolia blossoms with the deep green leaves for a contrast in a realistic design against a choice of backgrounds, white, blue, and pink. Some exciting new costume jewelry unpacked for the Quaker gray costumes is made of clear yellow combined with old silver . . . bracelets, chokers, clips, and earrings.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Gullible's Travels.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 4 [Special].—The gullibles of Hollywood would include a vast army of stars who have been clipped and gypped and fleeced . . . Most recent exhibits would be Frank Morgan, Reginald Owen, and Ralph Bellamy, who are suing to recover over $100,000 from an oil stock promoter.

Included, too, would be superstitious Lupe Velez, who gave a gypsy woman $2,500 to wrap in a handkerchief, and then complained to the police because the handkerchief the gypsy returned contained nothing but a wad of paper. . . . If Lupe had known Jack Sheehan, "king of the gypsies," she wouldn't have been "taken," and 16 gypsies would not be in the Los Angeles bastille where the coppers chucked them.

Lupe Velez falls for old one.

Jack Sheehan, who looks like George M. Cohan's stand-in, is a detective in the New York police department and his royal title was bestowed because he handles all cases in which gypsies are accused of petty and grand larceny.

Undoubtedly, from what Sheehan has taught me down thru the years, Miss Velez was clipped by a member of the "Much-Twier" clan of gypsies.

There are four broad gypsy clans or classifications in this country. . . . the "Much-Twiers" operate the handkerchief switch which beat her out of $2,500, but I imagine that first Lupe was built up for a kill by the egg trick.

"All of your troubles trace back to an evil hair," the "Much-Twiers" tell the victim. . . . "Go out in the market place and bring me back a white egg." . . . In the meantime the gypsy has prepared her own white egg and by puncturing a hole in the shell has inserted a horse hair.

While the gypsy apparently is praying over the egg she switches the one the victim has brought back, substitutes the doctored egg and tells her to crack it open. . . . Sure enough, the victim finds a horse hair in the egg and is now thunderstruck at such clairvoyance.

Once this has been accomplished, the victim [in this case Lupe] is almost ready for the killing. . . . "Give me a $5 bill," says the gypsy, and wraps it in a handkerchief. . . . "Turn behind you and get me the needle and thread," advises the gypsy, and as the victim's back is turned the gypsy switches handkerchiefs. . . . So the prepared handkerchief is sewed up and the gypsy directs the victim to wear it next to her body for the next 24 hours.

"I will go to the cemetery tonight at midnight and talk to the spirits," says the gypsy, "but if you tell any one that you have this handkerchief the spirits will avenge themselves. Remember this warning—and meet me here at this hour tomorrow." . . . The next day Lupe must have been on hand for the appointment. . . . To her amazement, the handkerchief in which she put a $5 bill now revealed a $10 bill, because that is the way the "Much-Twiers" operate.

The second stage of the buildup having been completed, the victim now is ready for any hocus-pocus that will double money over night via a trip to the cemetery. . . . The gypsy now demands a far greater sum of money. . . . Lupe evidently was asked for $5,000, but refused to go for more than $2,500. . . . This time, when she was told to turn around and reach for the needle and thread, the handkerchief-switch was different. . . . The "Much-Twier" fleecer this time substituted a handkerchief filled with carefully cut newspapers, to resemble the size of currency.

"Come back in six days," warns the gypsy, "and tell nobody that you have this magic handkerchief on your body; otherwise the spirits will not double your money." . . . This is the same recipe that worked before, so the victim complies and the six day clause gives the "Much-Twiers" a six day lead on the coppers.

The "Much-Twiers," evidently the clan that clipped Lupe, are the big league burglars of the gypsy nations, and no pikers. . . . They are Serbian gypsies. . . . Ranking next to them, in gypsy heirarchy, are the Kalderish clan, made up of Argentine and Serbian gypsies, the top pickpockets of the Tziganes. . . . The next in ranking is the Boy-ish group, whose women specialize in house to house thievery of mean proportions. . . . The lowest group are the Russian gypsies, penny and nickel thieves, but greatest of the gypsy musicians and singers.

Sheehan has told me that the gypsies have a legend they MUST steal. . . . The legend is that there were four nails set aside for the crucifixion, one to pierce each hand, one to pierce the crossed feet, and one to pierce the heart of the Son of God. . . . A gypsy stole the fourth nail, and from that time on they were forced to steal because they prolonged His agony. . . . All gypsies believe this firmly and will show you pictures of the crucifixion to prove that a nail was stolen.

If the Los Angeles gendarmes will contact Sheehan, at New York headquarters, and give him a description of the gypsy handkerchief switcher who clipped Lupe, I guarantee that Sheehan will name her within 5 minutes, because he has his own "rogues' gallery" of gypsies and knows all of them from old acquaintance.

Women Opera Backers Will Have Tea Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

GALLONS of tea and coffee—and perhaps stronger beverages—will be consumed this afternoon, for, in spite of the fact that the holidays are over and life is supposed to be moving at a more normal tempo, there are a number of tea parties scheduled.

The women's committee of the Opera Foundation fund will meet at Mrs. Howard W. Fenton's apartment, 1420 Lake Shore drive, to report on the progress made in the last week toward completing the $200,000 foundation fund necessary to keep opera in Chicago.

Miss Clara Lake is giving a small tea at her home, 2000 Lincoln Park West, for Mme. Augusto Rosso, wife of the Italian ambassador to Russia. Mme. Rosso is spending January with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkinson, in Evanston.

Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be the especial guest of the College club following his concert in Orchestra hall this afternoon.

Mrs. Charles H. Hamill will be the hostess for the Cliff Dwellers' tea following the concert. Assisting her will be Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Hans Lange, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher.

An exhibition of paintings by Maud Moore Bond and Matilda Vanderpoel will be opened at the Cordon's after the concert tea today. It will hang until Jan. 31.

Last of Debutante Parties to Be Tonight.

Last but not least of the debutante parties this season is one Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins are giving for Miss Marie Louise Hulburd this evening. The buds and their escorts will be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, and then will go to the Arena for skating with Mr. and Mrs. Garfield King as chaperons.

Toward the end of the month the Hopkinses will leave for the Ojai valley in California. They expect to be away for six weeks or two months.

Mrs. William George Lee is entertaining at dinner and dancing at the Drake hotel tonight for Miss Jane Parker, a bud of last year, who will be returning to Bryn Mawr. Mrs. Lee's three young daughters probably all will go to the same college. Roxa Lee is attending the Milton academy now. Her younger sisters go to the Girls' Latin school. Mrs. Lee and other Bryn Mawr alumnæ are selling tickets to a lecture by Mlle. Eve Curie on Feb. 9 in Winnetka.

Committee to Hold Buttery Party Tonight.

The high spot of The Committee's bimonthly party tonight at the Buttery in the Ambassador hotel will be a rope dodging dancing contest, to be judged by Paul Draper. A heavy rope will be held across the dance floor and gradually lowered, while the dancers attempt to continue dancing under it, even if they have to crawl. Mr. Draper also will judge the smoothest dancing couple of the evening from steps he will name.

The Robert Harveys, the Nathaniel Lanes, Dr. and Mrs. Philip Shambaugh, Miss Sally Perry, Sangston Hettler Jr., Miss Denyse Root, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III. are among those who have made reservations for the party.

Due to the sudden death of her father, Wallace E. Pierce, in Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, Mrs. Albert O. Snite has withdrawn as a bridesmaid for Miss Welthyn Harmon when she is married to John C. Brydon Jr. tomorrow. Mrs. Snite flew east yesterday. Her father, who was a representative in congress from Plattsburg, N. Y., will be buried in Plattsburg on Sunday.

Miss Lane Roby Sets Feb. 3 Wedding Date.

The date for the marriage of Miss Lane Abbott Roby to Francis Alonzo Hardy II., has been set for Saturday, Feb. 3. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, with a small reception following for relatives and intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Paige Roby, in Evanston.

Miss Eleanor Paige Roby will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Faith Hardy, the bridegroom's sister, will be the bridesmaid. Edward K. Hardy Jr., will be his brother's best man, and little Edward Hardy III., will be the ringbearer. Ushering will be George Nevin Beecher Jr., Jack Hill, Albert Miller of Moorsetown, N. J., and Neil B. Dawes.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will give a reception and dance for their future daughter-in-law on Jan. 27 at their home, Meadow Hill farm, near Barrington. Mr. Hardy and his bride will live on the south side.

Miss Jean Husted, who returned to her studies at Wells on Tuesday, is the ninth member of her family to attend the college. Her mother, Mrs. John C. Husted, is an alumna.

Mr. and Mrs. Husted, who have been at the Orrington hotel in Evanston, left yesterday for Florida for the remainder of the winter. A younger daughter, Holly, has gone back to the Emma Willard school.

Cook county council of the American Legion auxiliary will hear Mrs. Grace H. Harte, an attorney, discuss "The Functioning of the Women Jury Laws" at its meeting at 1:30 o'clock today at the La Salle hotel.

For Resort or Home Wear

The new daytime dress of a soft new crepe fabric is topped with a rib hugging short sleeved jacket made of rows and rows of angora yarn in loops. Down the front closing are buttons covered with the material of the dress. From the resort showings of new dresses in pastels or bright color that can also be worn under winter coats.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Last summer one of the beauty houses brought out a summer scenting lotion that was a great success. It was rather like a toilet lotion, in a fragrance that was perfectly adapted to the tastes of most women for hot, muggy weather—light and perky.

Their success with that is responsible for the advent of what they call their "winter" fragrance. This is a pungent, lasting scent—entirely unlike the summery perfume that made the first one a classic. Basically this winter fragrance is of the exotic school, but it is not at all vulgar or oppressively heavy.

This fragrant liquid is almost astonishingly inexpensive. The triangular shaped bottle, quite stunning and generous in size, costs very little. The scent can be used as a body rub, or even as a perfume.

You'll be pleasantly surprised at how lasting this winter fragrance is. Used in the morning as a pleasant climax to the bath or shower it endows the skin with a fragrance that clings the whole day long. It's never too strong, but you're always pleasantly conscious of it and in some indefinable fashion it contributes to your sense of grooming and well being thru the day.

It can be used directly on fur or heavy fabric; it is not an actual perfume, but the perfume used in it is the kind that blends well with the natural scent of fur and appeals to the senses in cold weather.

Something like this is extremely pleasant to have in midwinter. Wearing heavy clothing—and the same coat every day, as most of us do—is rather tedious business. A touch of this lightens the winter mood.

Chicago Gives Warm Greeting to Lord Lothian

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, has been in Chicago several times since his first visit in 1912, but probably he never has experienced a warmer welcome than this time. This is the first visit he has paid since he became the representative of his empire in America. Consequently, the English Speaking union and the Council on Foreign Relations each entertained yesterday in its most formal and gracious style for the distinguished visitor. The English union started with a reception in the late afternoon at the Casino.

The fashionable little Casino club was cozy and cheery and every one, including the guest of honor, had a delightful time.

The ambassador had tea with Rufus C. Dawes, the president of the union; Mrs. Dawes; the British consul, Lewis Bernays; Mrs. Bernays, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, and Andrew Montgomery, who had come down from Milwaukee for the day.

After finishing his tea, the ambassador spoke informally to the guests, all of whom were members of the union or their immediate families, which kept the crowd from being too large for comfort. Presiding at the long tea table, decorated with Easter lilies and lighted candles, were Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and Mrs. Potter Palmer III.

Mr. McPherson, president of the council, introduced Lord Lothian at the dinner of the Council on Foreign Relations, given in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. His wife headed the receiving line that formed to greet the guests invited to have cocktails with the ambassador in a private room. Also receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Bernays, Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, and, of course, the guest of honor.

It was not a cocktail, however, that Lord Lothian drank, for he is a teetotaler. The balcony, in which about 500 listened to Lord Lothian's talk, but did not dine, was filled long before the 1,000 diners had assembled at the tables. When they were seated they made a brilliant picture, every woman in her smartest dinner gown and every man in tails and white tie. Lord Lothian wore but one decoration, the Companion of Honor, on a red ribbon around his neck.

The women who had checked their wraps, and practically all of them had done so, were sorry when the speaking started, for then the ventilating system started working with a vengeance, and napkins were used as scarves, to little avail. To list those well known in social circles who were not at the dinner would take less space than to list those who were there, for literally every one was present.

Lord Lothian is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bernays while he is in Chicago. James T. Winston entertained at luncheon privately for the ambassador yesterday and today Ira Nelson Morris will entertain similarly. Tonight after a small tea at Mr. and Mrs. Bernays' home Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick will give a small dinner party at their Lake View avenue home for Lord Lothian and Leander McCormick-Goodhart, who is honorary commercial attaché at the British embassy in Washington. He is a second cousin of Chauncey McCormick and a grandson of the first Leander McCormick.

William McCormick Blair and his wife and sister, Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mr. Linn will be among Mr. McCormick-Goodhart's relatives at the small dinner tonight.

Chauncey McCormick, as vice president of the Art institute and the person instrumental in bringing the Italian masterpieces to Chicago, will be one of those on hand at the institute this morning at 9:30 o'clock to welcome the ambassador when he visits the galleries in which the works of art are on view.

Cuff Notes.

Clifton Webb is writing his autobiography. Bennett Cerf will publish it. His firm is also publishing the story of Helen Hayes' life as told by her mother. Webb's current rôle as The Man Who Came to Dinner ought to offer a nice chapter, and we hope he includes the telegram from a friend, "Don't just sit there; say something," sent when he opened in Chicago in his loquacious, wheel chair rôle. . . . The great Nijinsky, recently released from a sanatorium in Switzerland, will be brought to America shortly. . . . Edouard Kulikowski, former Polish vice consul in Chicago, reported dead from a German bomb in Poland, but who recently arrived in New York with his sister, Jancia, is writing the story of his escape for a national weekly. . . . Soprano Janet Fairbank's portrait has been painted by Stokeley Webster, son of the late Henry Kitchell Webster. . . . One of the first things Allan Jones did upon arriving in Chicago for personal appearances at the Chicago was to go backstage at the Grand, the theater where he played long runs in Student Prince and Blossom Time, and take all the employés out for champagne. . . . Ballet Dancer Chris Volkoff as the Knight of Death in Bacchanale did not carry a black umbrella but was inside of one, a place Mr. Chamberlain probably would have liked to be often, cracks Eliza M. Hickok.

Answered Call?

Most amusing newspaper headline occurrence of the new year: The eight column line on an edition of an afternoon daily: Roosevelt Calls for Unity, and directly underneath it, in the center of the page, the photograph of Unity Freeman-Mitford, captioned "Unity Arrives."

Epicurean Triumph?

Then there was the one over an A. P. dispatch:

French Toast Victory.

Call Out the Gods.

If you want an idea as to what kind of a headdress to wear to the Call Out the Gods masque ball the Chicago architects are giving Jan. 12, there is a whole window devoted to them in a State street department store. There is a kind of Medusa headdress of snakelike protuberances of feathers; a lovely Ceres head adornment of wheat, fruit, and berries; diadems such as Astarte might have worn, fantastic head ornamentations for, perhaps, gods of the future.

Some State street pedestrians who stopped to look at the window didn't notice the smallish card identifying the headdresses as mythological ones for the ball. One of them, looking at the Medusalike headdress, said to her companion: "Honestly, I don't know what the milliners will try to make us wear next."

Paraphrase.

The small daughter of the Richard Sampsons apparently has heard mother mention her social activities. Anyway, the little girl sings it: "Luncheon bridge is fall-down."

Remembered Yarn.

The late Orson C. Wells, whose large bequest to the University of Chicago recently was made public, was a Chicago newspaper reporter before his brilliant career as a stock broker. One of his assignments was an interview with a famous politician. Dale of Dundee relates the tale: Altho he was down to his last dollar of expense money, Wells started things off by asking the senator to have a cigar. At the counter the senator selected a cigar of a three for a dollar brand. Wells told about the incident to a group of fellow reporters afterward.

"So I bought three," he added. "The senator smoked one and I smoked one."

"What did you do with the third," asked one of the group. "O," said Wells, "the next morning I ate that one for breakfast."

Frosh Social Terminology.

(At the University of Chicago.)

Rat race—public dance.

Convulsion — cabaret dance, small floor, plenty people.

Squidge—drug store sandwich.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Quite an argument arose over the play of the following rubber bridge hand:

"South, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 8
♥ J 8
♦ Q J 9 7 4 3

WEST
♠ 10 7 6 4 3 2

EAST
♠ Q J
♥ 10 5 4 2
♦ 8
♣ 9 8 6 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 5
♥ A 9 6 3
♦ A 6 5
♣ A Q

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I was North, the declarer. East opened a small heart and I played dummy's ace, then cashed the ace-king of spades, discarding my losing heart. Next I led a small heart which I ruffed, then led the queen of trumps thru East. West won with the king and now I had to take every trick which, at first glance, appeared a certainty. But West returned a small spade and I, not knowing the position of the ten of trumps, was in a dilemma as to whether to ruff low and risk an overruff by East, or to ruff with the jack and then depend on the ten dropping on a lead to dummy's ace. After much thought I played my jack of trumps, figuring that if East were out of spades it was quite likely he had one or both of the other trumps. Naturally, after my play I was down one. The argument is that I should have figured out why West led a small spade. The only reason I could think of was that he had no other lead, but my partner feels that he played it to try to force me up with the jack of trumps, thus automatically establishing his ten. I could have made my contract, but I still maintain that this was not the correct way to play the hand.

"Incidentally, if I had not been so greedy in trying to make every trick I could have given the opponents the king of trumps on the second lead of trumps and made a small slam without any finesse. R. L. T., Canada."

There somebody goes stealing my thunder again! I was all set to give declarer the devil for getting himself into a jam when all he had to do was lead the ace and another diamond, disdaining the finesse. To my disgust he himself made this point clear in his last paragraph.

Nevertheless, the point is so important that I am publishing the hand and shall insist on my pound of flesh. Here was a case in which an argument arose over a completely inconsequential point, a point that never should have arisen in a rubber bridge game. The declarer was playing a small slam contract which was worth 1,370 points to him. He risked these points—and lost them—because he wanted to make an extra 30 points! In other words, he laid approximately 46 to 1 that he could catch the K-10 of diamonds!

Even at duplicate bridge, in which an extra 30 points may result in a substantially better match-point score, it would be absurd to take the diamond finesse in this hand. For one thing, the chance of catching the king and ten is not very good and, for another, the risk is all out of proportion to the gain. The proper play was to win the opening heart lead in dummy, cash the trump ace [perhaps the king would drop singleton], then cash the A-K of spades, discarding a heart, and then lead a second diamond toward the closed hand. Obviously, this conservative and logical line of play would have left no defense. West could capture the second diamond with the king and, as before, return a spade, but now, with only one trump at large, and with that situated in the West hand, North would be in absolutely no danger.

An 'If Girl' Is 'Sour Grapes' and Disliked

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Are you, by any unfortunate chance, an "If Girl"?

Almost any large gathering, party or dance is certain to be plagued with at least one "If Girl," Orchestra Leader Bob Chester observes, and, speaking for his fellow man, regrets her presence exceedingly. She's such a bore.

The female of the species is likely to have an "if" for almost everything, Bob finds. "For everything—past, present, and future."

You know this If Girl for her expression: "If I had the money to spend on clothes that that one has I could out glamor her all right."

When a man hears that rolling off the tongue, he may be sure he is in for a wonderful evening. An evening punctured and frazzled and frayed as only the green eyed monster's appearance can make it. Envy, that's what it is, as men interpret it, girls. Envy, with no ambition whatever to have the money to buy the clothes that make the other girl look her part.

Opportunity is another factor that begets the If one's envy. "If I had her opportunity"—and so on. "If I'd had the chance to go to college as she had, things would have been mighty different with me!"

"If I had a nice home I'd throw a better party myself," may be another version.

The If Girls just don't realize that the victims of their envious aspersions would have men friends if they lived in igloos.

Yes, says Bob Chester, the If Girls run the gamut of human emotions and failings to find reasons for their own shortcomings and for other girls' successes. Luck, fate, sickness, slight physical imperfections serve to stud the endless list of grievances cited for unpopularity or nonsuccess.

"No dice," concludes the maestro. "It's not only good policy but good sportsmanship to take the "breaks" as they come, and give a great, big hand to the other person."

Symphony Pays Annual Tribute to Its Founder

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Yesterday was the 35th anniversary of the death of Theodore Thomas, who founded the Chicago orchestra in 1891 and served as its conductor until the very end of 1904. Orchestra hall marked the day by a wreath laying ceremony in the afternoon and a memorial concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra at night.

Participating in the wreath laying ceremony, which took place before the portrait of the founder in Orchestra hall's foyer, were Frederick Stock, Thomas' successor as conductor, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Orchestral association, and a group of men and women closely identified with past and present orchestral activities.

In the evening Mr. Stock, who had played for years in the viola section of the orchestra before assuming the conductorship in 1905, presented in honor of his old chief a program drawn almost entirely from the music which Thomas performed frequently in the Chicago orchestra's early concerts. One could have gone to the Auditorium 45 years ago and heard substantially the same program. [Orchestra hall was not completed until 1904. The Auditorium was the home of the Chicago orchestra from 1891 to 1904.]

First came Beethoven's "Coriolanus" overture, which was performed in the orchestra's 1891 season and frequently during the succeeding years. The Brahms third symphony, which followed the Beethoven overture last night, has a similar performance record. The concert's postintermission period was given over to excerpts from Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs," music which Thomas labored mightily [and successfully] to popularize.

And the manner of performance, as well as the repertoire, was in the Thomas tradition. Here were impressive sonorities, cleanly textured tonal effects, simple and forthright rhythms. Thomas' hatred for the meretricious was passed on to his successor and constitutes perhaps the most valuable part of Chicago's musical legacy.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo last night ended its ten day stay at the Auditorium theater. The ballets presented at this final performance were "Rouge et Noir," "Ghost Town," "Bacchanale," and "Gaité Parisienne."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

And therefore "we believe it is the wisest course for the university to discontinue football. . . ."

With a finality and emphasis that might have served as copy for the trustees of the University of Chicago, who in December abandoned intercollegiate football, the trustees of Northwestern university, on March 22, 1906, eliminated football "for five years after June 21 [date of commencement], 1906."

Actually, however, and here quite likely the parallel ends, a new president came to Northwestern two years later. He believed in intercollegiate football and brought a coach from the east, even as Chicago's first president, William Rainey Harper, had employed Amos Alonzo Stagg of Yale 15 years before.

Has Integral Place.

The minutes of the meeting of the trustees of Northwestern university in 1906 do not offer reasons for the action. Perhaps the decision was in accord with the period which saw introduction of the forward pass to change the crushing attack by center rushes and intervention by the president of the United States to aid in preserving the game. It is unlikely, indeed, that either recruiting or subsidization was considered.

Today Dr. Franklyn B. Snyder, president of Northwestern university, who was a faculty member of Northwestern's athletic committee for 27 years before assuming the presidency, is firmly convinced that intercollegiate football nas an integral place in education.

Judge N. U. by Practices.

"I have seen Northwestern teams at the very bottom and at the top," Dr. Snyder remarked during our conversation in his second floor offices in the Lunt administration building. "In the 27 consecutive years I was on the athletic committee there was no discussion of abolishing the leading intercollegiate sport. Moreover, it is my personal opinion that no formal policy for Northwestern can be deduced except from our practices.

"I do not think we overemphasize football at Northwestern. We deal with college men who want to play football, not football players who want to go to college."

This imperative statement, that denies Northwestern recruits its athletes, or that Northwestern cannot play Big Ten football "without being crooked as far as the league rules are concerned," as charged recently by an unidentified spokesman for the trustees of the University of Chicago, is amplified in this credo:

"Northwestern believes [Dr. Snyder continued] in physical education for all, broadly interpreted, and all students are required to take part. The program, including sports, has been so attractive that many continue after requirements have been satisfied. We believe we do better when the whole program, in a sense, is brought to a head in intercollegiate athletics."

Conforms to Rules.

President Snyder also said emphatically that "Northwestern conforms to all rules of the Western conference faculty committee, reports [as is required] all money paid to athletes for work, grants scholarships only thru the agency supervised by the university for aid to all students."

In the Western conference, which includes eight tax supported universities, Northwestern and Chicago are the only privately endowed institutions. Despite an annual tuition fee of $300, Northwestern enrolled 2,404 undergraduate men last year. Four hundred competed on 10 varsity intercollegiate teams and 86.8 per cent of the other students participated in the 12 sport intramural program.

The University of Chicago, in its selectivity of freshmen, also has a counterpart in Northwestern. Last fall, for instance, 60 per cent of the entrants had been graduated in the upper fourth of their high school classes. Thirty per cent had been graduated in the second fourth and only ten per cent, admitted after entrance examination, came from the lower one half of their high school graduation classes.

No Athletic Financial Problem.

In 1919 25 per cent of Northwestern's entering class was in the upper one-fourth of high school graduating classes. Twenty per cent was in the second one-fourth.

"Northwestern is seeking additional scholarships," President Snyder said. "Northwestern does not wish to be known as a rich man's school. Northwestern wishes to educate any

Armstrong Knocks Out Ghnouly in 5th

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4 (AP).—Henry Armstrong successfully defended his world welterweight championship by knocking out Joe Ghnouly of St. Louis in 34 seconds of the fifth round of their scheduled 15 round bout here tonight.

Armstrong started out with a rush and for a few minutes it appeared the Negro champion might duplicate his one round knockout of Lew Feldman here last March. The Italian challenger was on the canvas three times in the first round, once for a nine count.

Ghnouly backed up thru the second and third rounds. He mixed blows with Armstrong in the fourth, but again a hard right sent him down for a count of six.

Armstrong came rushing out at the start of the fifth round and with only 34 seconds elapsed sent Ghnouly spinning with a hard left. As the challenger fell forward Armstrong stepped aside and shot another hard left to his jaw.

HUTCHINS MAY TALK FOOTBALL BEFORE STUDENTS

University of Chicago students hope to hear something about the discontinuance of football from their president—Robert M. Hutchins—who will address the general student body for the first time in four years next Friday noon.

The title of the address was announced yesterday as "Undergraduate Life," but the belief on the campus is that the president will explain the recent action of the trustees, who voted to withdraw the Maroons from intercollegiate gridiron competition.

The Daily Maroon, campus newspaper, said in yesterday's issue: "It is certain that Hutchins can in no case ignore the storm of controversy aroused by the university's withdrawal from intercollegiate football. The university students will expect him to explain and justify his stand."

President Hutchins was said to be in New York yesterday.

INELIGIBLE PASS RECEIVER RULE ALTERED AGAIN

Change Applies Only to Foul Behind Line.

Palm Springs, Cal., Jan. 4 (AP).—Four changes were written into college football rules today and two old regulations were clarified. Winding up a three day session, the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association made these revisions:

1. Reduced the penalty for forward passes touching ineligible receivers on or behind the line of scrimmage.
2. Changed the rule for roughing a passer.
3. Moved to speed up by five seconds the time allowed for putting the ball in play.
4. Specified measurements and construction of cleats.

Pass Penalty Eased.

Seeking to encourage short forward passes behind the line of scrimmage, the association reduced further the penalty when the forward pass strikes an ineligible player. The penalty now will be merely loss of the down.

However, if the passer, trapped and striving to save himself from being thrown for a loss, throws the ball and it touches an ineligible receiver behind the line, the penalty will be loss of the down and 15 yards, as in the case of an intentionally grounded pass.

Penalty for a pass touching an ineligible receiver beyond the scrimmage line remains the same, 15 yards and loss of the down.

Roughing Made Tougher.

Penalty for roughing a passer in the future will be enforced from the spot of the previous down. In the past, where a pass was completed or intercepted, the penalty was enforced from the spot of the foul, which often made it necessary for the offended team to refuse the penalty.

The speed up signal reduced from 30 to 25 seconds the time allowed for putting the ball in play. Whether this will lead to elimination of the much discussed huddle remains to be seen.

In disposing of the cleat problem the committee specified the points of the conical cleats be three-eighths of an inch instead of one-half inch, and the point head must be parallel with the base. No material was specified, but the committee said it was watching with interest manufacturers' experiments with rubber and impregnated canvas.

Kicking a Free Ball.

Two rules were clarified. In one, officials were put on their guard to determine if a free ball is intentionally or unintentionally kicked. In another, it was made clear that on kicks from behind the line of scrimmage protection is given the kicker only when it is reasonably obvious that he is going to kick. This applies especially to quick kicks made from close to the scrimmage line.

Present at the meeting were Chairman Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh, William J. Bingham of Harvard, W. G. Crowell, Narberth, Pa.; Fielding H. Yost of Michigan; George Veenker, Iowa State; Dana X. Bible of Texas; L. H. Mahony, Denver; Willis O. Hunter of the University of Southern California, and Amos Alonzo Stagg of College of Pacific, a life member.

I was walking down the street
When a fellow I did meet
Who was tall and dark, but not at all good looking;
Tho I tried to pass him by,
He just looked me in the eye
And insisted that I'd need an evening's booking.

Then he grabbed me by the arm,
But I felt no great alarm,
'Cause there's something 'bout a caveman that is thrilling,
And he took me out to eat
At a supper club élite
And as long as he was paying I was willing.

But imagine my chagrin
When I tried to look at him
And discovered there was just an empty chair;
I had come without my purse,
Which made matters all the worse,
For a waiter with the check was standing there.

I'm washing dishes for the bill,
But I'm looking for him still,
And I've made a vow to go out with no other;
For I've often cursed the fate
That allotted me the date

THREE CUBS SIGN FOR 1940 AND STILL NO MOANS

Yanks Get Grissom in a Trade with Reds.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs' front office yesterday enjoyed its first returns from the recent broadcasting, by registered mail, of 1940 contracts. Three of them, bearing signatures as evidence that at least that many members of the baseball ensemble were satisfied, came back.

And according to Vice President Boots Weber, supported by Publicity Director Charles Drake, the day's mail didn't include any tear jerking moans from even one of the fellows listed as possible candidates for holdout rôles. However, those who feel they are entitled to a beef need time to compose their complaints so the present calm can be considered temporary.

The signers were Shortstop Bob Mattick, Outfielder Dominic Dallessandro, and Al Epperly, the kid pitcher who has been in and out repeatedly these last couple of seasons.

Merullo Makes a Mistake.

A fourth Cub also agreed that what he had been offered was fair enough, but he made a slight mistake in the procedure so cannot be listed as a contented athlete until a correction is made. The lad who erred was Leonard Merullo who, while a student at Villanova, failed to learn how contracts are closed. As is customary, he was sent two copies, one signed by the club and the other blank. The former was to be retained by him, but he kept the blank document. Merullo, a shortstop, was on leave last season because of a dead arm.

The world champion Yankees yesterday obtained Pitcher Lee Grissom from the National league Reds in exchange for Pitcher Joe Beggs, and the deal was immediately pointed out as a method by which the invincible title holders can get around the trading ban set up recently by the American league. The ban prohibits American league clubs from trading with the holder of the championship.

Yankees May Profit.

The Yanks, with their great fielding and power house attack, can make a lot of pitchers look good, so may get some value out of Grissom. But there is no reason to believe that whenever they need help for a particular position they can acquire it simply by swapping with a National league member.

To make such deals it is necessary to get waivers, the American league club from its own members, and the National from its members. After these two hurdles have been cleared an interleague swap can be consummated. But the players involved in trades which call for jumps from one major league to the other never are A-1 material.

The Yankees could afford to take a chance on Grissom's lame left arm, now that their one time stalwart Vernon Gomez, also a southpaw, has shown signs of crumpling. In 1937 Grissom won 12 and lost 17, but the Reds were a last place team. He injured an ankle early in 1938 so had a modest record of 2 victories against 3 beatings. Last season the 27 year old athlete contributed 9 victories and 7 defeats to the Reds' pennant achievement.

NIGGELING TO BROWNS.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns tonight announced the acquisition on waivers of Pitcher John Niggeling from the Cincinnati Reds.

Niggeling, a right-hander, won 2 and lost 1 after joining the Reds late last August. He came from Indianapolis of the American association, where he won 15 while losing 7 in 1939.

The Cardinals announced the signing of Harold Epps, who starred in the outfield with Houston last season. Manager Ray Blades, who came here for the signing of Epps, said he plans to leave for Florida Feb. 1 to visit friends and to rest prior to the opening of the Cards' training season March 2.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night trimmed the rapid Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, thus yanking them out of a first place tie in the National Hockey league and otherwise distressing them sorely. It was the second time in two weeks that the Chicagoans bowled over the proud and tough lads from Toronto.

George Allen scored for the Hawks in 13:09 of the second period, on assists from fellow rookies Bill Carse and Phil Hergesheimer and a little more than four minutes later Semi-Rookie Joe Cooper scored a brilliant solo for what turned out to be the payoff.

Goodman Stars Again.

Paul Goodman, Hawk rookie goalie, who scored a shutout in his Chicago debut last Monday night, had visions of a whitewash encore until 9:41 of the final period when Billy Taylor, another rookie in a rookie night of accomplishment, picked up a rebound after one of Goodman's many spectacular saves, and scored to give the Leafs their lone counter of the night.

The efforts of the Leafs to catch up after the Hawks first took the lead were terrific, but play was remarkably clean as Hawk-Leaf games go.

The 10,128 fans who braved zero weather to see the boys on artificial ice got some of the best thrills of the season as the Hawks protected their one point lead during the last 10 minutes and 19 seconds—after Taylor's goal.

Hawks' Ninth Victory.

The victory was the ninth of the season in 20 games played by the Hawks, and they now are within three victories of their grand total in 48 games of last season. They have won five of their last six games.

Play was pretty dull in the first period and still pretty tight in the first nine minutes of the second period. Then suddenly things opened up and kept getting livelier after the Hawks scored their first goal in 13:09 of the second period. Allen, Carse, and Hergesheimer for some seconds had juggled the puck along the left boards toward the end woodwork. Before the sweep of play could carry the rubber directly behind the cage, Carse passed out and from the melee that ensued off Goalie Turk Broda's toes, Allen rammed home a goal. Carse, likewise Hergesheimer, won assists.

Goodman Averts Tie.

This goal spurred the Leafs no end and in the next few minutes Goalie Goodman had to make three spectacular diving saves to avert a tie. The Leafs were carrying the burden of the offensive seconds before the Hawks raised the count to 2 to 0. Cooper picked up a free puck in neutral ice and when Bucko McDonald tried to make a headlong check, Cooper lifted the rubber over him.

As Cooper avoided McDonald and raced to overtake the puck, it went on its edge and appeared to be on a hooplike trip to the end boards. Then Cooper reached out in a great swing, caught the rolling object just right and banged it into the far corner of the cage. The time of this sparkling solo was 17:21.

Leafs Finally Score.

With Art Wiebe in the penalty box as a result of a last second foul in the second period, the Hawks were short handed at the start of the final session.

The Hawks, after returning to full force, succeeded in throwing back thrust after thrust until 9:41 of the third period when Goalie Goodman's dream of a second successive shutout was dissipated by that late and only Toronto goal. Taylor, Red Horner, and Bob Davidson rushed the puck into the Hawk defense zone. Goodman stopped a fine shot, but the rebound set up another shot for Taylor. He had Goodman off balance and Paul had little chance for a second save. Horner and Davidson drew assists on Taylor's goal.

PREP FOOTBALL RULERS AIM TO CUT WASTE TIME

Statistics Reveal Where Delays Occur.

How long is a football game in actual elapsed time? What causes the delay, and why? How many plays are run off in each game? And on what type of plays and in what sector of the gridiron do the most injuries occur?

These and numerous other questions will be answered for the enlightenment of the public and for thousands of players and coaches when the national interscholastic rules committee sits down for its opening session in the La Salle hotel this morning. Representatives of 26 states will listen to the highlights of a survey of collegiate and professional as well as high school games, made last season by Hugh L. Ray of Chicago and a special subcommittee.

This statistical research will be used in deliberating on proposed changes in prep rules for 1940—changes based on equity and with intention of reducing dangers of the sport. From them, also, will come suggestions to coaches and officials which may prove helpful in shortening the total elapsed time of contests.

Also Advises Pros.

Ray, who is technical adviser and associate editor for the interscholastic rules body, is also technical adviser to the National Football league. Thus his findings also will be of interest to owners, coaches, and players of professional teams.

College and professional games, played in 15 minute quarters and with two minute intermissions after the first and third and 15 after the second, normally would last 77 minutes without interruption in contrast to 65 in prep competition. But average elapsed times, according to Ray's survey, are two hours and four minutes for high school, 2:29 for colleges, and 2:33 for professional football. On the basis of 15 minute quarters a prep game probably would last 2:27½, according to the survey.

How Time is Wasted.

Action time, however, is only 9:53 for high schools (12 minute quarters), 11:57 for the Big Ten conference and 12:30 for the National league. These are the total minutes and seconds in which the ball actually is in play. The remaining minutes, even hours, are wasted by time destroyed when the clock is stopped, as specified by rules.

In assembling data for his survey, Ray employed five experienced timers on each game. They discovered that the timer's watch was stopped between a dead ball and the ensuing snap from center on nearly 50 per cent of the plays, and that an average of 31 seconds elapsed on each occasion. These situations alone accounted for more than 2,100 seconds of wasted time.

They also discovered, among other losses, that two minutes and eleven seconds is wasted between a touchdown and the following kickoff; one minute and 30 seconds after a field goal; and 36 seconds after an incomplete forward pass. The clock also is stopped each time the ball goes out of bounds and when penalties are inflicted.

Pros Play Faster.

The average number of plays per game, Ray announced, is 148 for professional, 147 for the Western conference, and 120 for prep games. The weakness in the supervision of high school games, as Ray sees it, is that the normal average of 36 seconds time-out after incomplete passes is extended actually to 57 seconds because coaches fail to send in substitutes promptly. Each time the fan in the stands is that much farther away from his evening dinner.

Until the 1935 season 50 per cent of all high school football injuries developed in play between the 20 yard line and the end line, yet only 28 per cent of the play took place in this area. Since then the injury ratio for these sectors has been cut in half.

CHICAGO ARENA ICE SHOW TO BE HELD MARCH 2

The Chicago Arena's annual ice carnival and skating revue will be held the night of March 2 in the Arena, it was announced last night. Part of the proceeds will go to the Chicago Board of Trade Post of the American Legion for its winter relief service.

Winners of the national ice championships held in Cleveland next month will participate in the Arena show. A hockey game and the various features will produce a two and a half hour program.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — CASTING TODAY

Bernie Hopes to Complete Skate Sweep

Bernie Cannata, the ice skater who makes his living by helping dig the subway, never was one to leave things undone. Just now Cannata wants to complete his set of Tribune Silver Skates trophies. He has won them all, from junior up—except the senior pair—most coveted prize of all.

The 22 year old west side Italian has won national and international events thruout the country, but the Silver Skates Derbies are his chief goal.

He Plays Football, Too.

At Austin High school he was better known as a football star in 1933-'34 than as a skater. He played left half and was a brilliant runner.

It was as a prep athlete that he caught the eye of Frank Stack, Canadian champion, who then was living in the Austin district. The little Italian kid was an admirer of Stack and often watched the champion skate.

Stack trained Bernie daily thruout The 1933, '34 and '35 seasons. Cannata scored points to help Austin High win the city championship all three of those years and then went on to win The Tribune Silver Skates for junior boys in '33 and the intermediate skates in '34. He also will tell you he was Chicago's marble shooting champion in 1932.

He Really Labors.

Bernie's work in the subway tunnel is not the best training for an athlete. He labors 47 feet below street level, operating two power knives in the Clybourn and Division sector. Cutting thru clay and boulders, he sits high in the head part of the tunnel on scaffolds. Starting his day at 4 p. m., he has the entire day time period to train for the Silver Skates and reports that he is in tip-top condition. He has been a tunnel worker for four years.

When, and if, Cannata wins in THE TRIBUNE'S 23d annual Silver Skates Jan. 13 and 14 in Garfield park, he says he will hang up his skates and devote all his time to being a good father and husband. [P. S. —Bernie's wife, the former Mary Agnes O'Connor, presented him with a son Dec. 26.]

Sheboygan Beats Akron Goodyear Quintet, 24-22

Sheboygan, Wis., Jan. 4 [Special].—The Sheboygan Redskins defeated the Akron Goodyears, 24 to 22, in a National Basketball league game tonight. Akron led, 20 to 18, at the start of the final quarter, but two baskets by Sokody and two free throws by Adams put Sheboygan in the lead. Anderson contributed the only basket of the Goodyears during the final period.

RANGERS DEFEAT AMERICANS, 6-2; THREATEN RECORD

Complete 18th Straight Without Defeat.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—The New York Rangers whipped their intra-city rivals, the Americans, 6 to 2, tonight and pulled within two games of the Montreal Canadiens' National Hockey league record of 18 straight games without defeat.

The victory, coupled with a defeat by Toronto, gave the Rangers undisputed possession of first place. Toronto, Boston [idle tonight], and the Rangers were all tied before tonight's games.

A crowd of 13,700 watched the Rangers roll up a 4 to 0 lead in two periods before relaxing. Then, with the result beyond doubt, the Americans scored a couple of third period goals.

The Rangers did everything a little better than the Americans, who slipped back into a tie for last place as Detroit's Red Wings defeated the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 2. Alex Shibicky fired the first goal after three minutes and the Rangers always were in command after that.

Shibicky got another and also drew an assist to lead the Ranger scorers. The other Ranger marksmen were Neil Colville, Lynn Patrick, Dutch Hiller, and Alf Pike. Nels Stewart fired the first American goal 12 seconds after the third period opened and Eddie Wiseman got the second 11 minutes later. Lineups:

DETROIT, 3; MONTREAL, 2

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 4 (AP).—The Detroit Red Wings, scoring two goals in the final period, sent the Montreal Canadiens down to their eighth straight loss tonight, 3 to 2, before 4,000 fans. Threatened with a shake-up because of their recent poor play that has seen them lose 10 of their last 11 starts, the Canadiens took the lead in the first period on a goal by Walter Buswell, but saw this margin disappear when the Wings ran up a 3 to 1 edge on a second period tally by Mud Bruneteau and scores in the last period by Connie Brown and Kenny Kilrea. LOS ANGELES GOLF TOURNEY TO OPEN TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4 (AP).—Rain and slushy greens kept most of the contestants in the Los Angeles open off the golf ranges today, but a few crept out for tee shots in a final tune up for the tournament at the Los Angeles Country club.

The $5,000 event, which opens tomorrow, has drawn perhaps the finest field in its 15 year series and, with favorable weather, the purse money may be increased to $7,500, as was done a year ago. Back to defend his 1939 title is young Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., but he is not the favorite.

Conceded better chances were National Open Champion Byron Nelson, Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, national amateur champion; Olin Dutra, Ralph Guldahl, and Clayton Heafner, who tied the course record of 64, seven under par, in a practice round.

This is the fifth time the north course of the Los Angeles club has been selected for the tournament. In 1926 Harry Cooper won the event with a 72 hole score of 279. It hasn't been tied since on this course, yet many believe it will be broken when the 1940 winner finishes Monday.

Makes Record High Run in Amateur Cue Tourney

A record high run for an amateur in Chicago three cushion billiard tournament competition was made yesterday by Norman Petersen in the class A meet now under way in the 29 West Randolph recreation. Petersen had a high run of 16 in defeating O. H. Sampson, 40 to 16, in 54 innings. Petersen's victory placed him in a four way tie for the lead. At 5 o'clock tonight Elmer Lindquist meets Allen Chapman in the round robin tournament.

BOXER HURT IN DRILL WITH CONN IS NEAR DEATH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 4 (AP).—Jim Lindsay, a middleweight boxer, injured in a sparring bout with Light Heavyweight Champion Billy Conn, lay near death tonight as relatives sought to locate his bride of two months.

Lindsay, 24 years old, was hurt Dec. 23 while working out with Conn. Severe headaches developed Monday and he entered a hospital.

A blood clot developed in Lindsay's head tonight and he was hurried to the emergency operating room shortly before midnight. He asked repeatedly for his wife.

Dr. Floyd H. Bragdon, attending physician, said Lindsay had been hit on the temple by a hard blow "which snapped his head back." He added: "He has a cerebral contusion and is in a serious condition. I am hopeful that he will pull thru."

Efforts to locate Lindsay's 20 year old bride, Virginia Pearson Lindsay, a dancer, were unsuccessful.

Bowlers Open Fire in Major Meets Tonight

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Chicago will be the center of bowling activity of the nation this weekend. The city's two major tournaments in which a total of more than 1,700 teams are to participate, will open and in addition two major sweepstakes attracting the best teams within a radius of 1,000 miles, are to be held.

Firing will open at 6 o'clock tonight when the first of 1,248 teams competing in the Chicago Bowling association's tourney takes over the 26 alleys at the Western Recreation, 63d street and Western avenue. Seventy-eight teams representing the bowling alley proprietors will roll tonight in squads starting at 6 o'clock, 8:15, and 10:15, according to Secretary Albert Sindelar. Five-man teams will continue shooting until Jan. 21 when doubles and singles competition will open.

Plenty of Prizes.

A total of $12,355 in prize money, to be distributed in 1,211 awards, is at stake in the city tourney. First prize in five-man competition in the major division, in which 54 teams are entered, is $80. The doubles winners will receive $40, first prize in the singles is $27, and in the all-events $15. The top five-man team award in the handicap section is $200. Other first prizes will be $90 in the doubles, $60 in the singles, and $25 in the all-events. A total of 1,194 teams are entered in the section.

Defending champions in the city tourney are the Pabsts of the Classic league, who rolled a 3,411 record total last year; Al's Gold Coast Inn, which hit 3,099 in the handicap division; Frank Wright and Joe Fliger, who registered 1,361 in the doubles; Harry Kaad, whose 718 topped the list in the singles, and Adolph Carlson, who won the all-events with 2,073.

Women Break Record.

A record total of 452 five-women teams, 514 doubles combinations, and 1,132 singles entrants will compete in the Chicago Women's Bowling association tournament in the Windy City Recreation, 2101 South Cicero avenue, according to Betty Ramsey, secretary of the association. They will shoot for $4,420 of prize money, starting at noon tomorrow.

Booster teams will do most of the firing this week end. Teams sponsored by bowling proprietors will start taking over the alleys early tomorrow evening and from 10 o'clock will occupy all the lanes. The tournament will continue thru Feb. 4.

The sweepstakes are the fourth annual event at Ray Schalk's Beverly recreation and the third annual at Art Meier's Gold Coast recreation tomorrow and Sunday. The best five man combinations of the middle west will compete in both of these and the scheduled competition will be supplemented by matches between the big name shooters of the sport.

Twenty-four Teams Ready.

Twenty-four teams will bowl in three squads at Gold Coast. The first will go on at 8 o'clock tomorrow night and the other two at 4 and 8 o'clock Sunday, each team bowling four games across eight alleys. Five prizes totaling $3,000 and with a top of $1,000 will be up. The Classic league Pabsts are the defending champions.

Eighty teams will shoot for $4,000 and a top of $1,000 at Beverly. They will go on at 8 and 11 p. m. tomorrow and 2 and 5 p. m. Sunday. The total of prizes is 16. The Joseph L. Gills of Chicago are the defending champions.

Chicago teams competing in one or both sweeps include most of the Classic league fives, two Budweiser quintets, the Gills, Mineralites, Walter C. Edens, and others well up in major league standings.

The Joseph L. Gills team bowled a 3,324 series on games of 1043, 1111, and 1170 to win two games from the Franklin MacVeaghs and advance to within a game of the leading Budweisers in the Randolph major league last night. The Budweisers turned in a 3,180 series against the Whitecaps, but lost the odd game when the Whitecaps hit a 1118 total.

ILLINOIS NETS $102,228 FROM 1938 FOOTBALL

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 4 (AP).—Student and other organizations on the University of Illinois campus received incomes totaling $540,806 for the fiscal year ended July 1, 1939, a report published today showed. The accounts of all organizations at the university are audited by the university business office under the direction of Prof. Lloyd Morey, controller.

Largest gross income was that of the Athletic association, $213,139. After expenses were deducted, the net income was $957. Payments for equipment, repairs, and replacements totaled $20,662. Operating surplus dropped from $87,462 at the start of the year to $67,757 at the end.

Athletic association activities for the 1938-'39 season showed gross income from the 1938 football season was $145,472, with a net of $102,228. Basketball netted $17,017, and the golf course showed a net of $1,106.

All other Athletic association activities had greater expenses than income. Greatest loss was in track, $6,636. Baseball lost $4,893.

N. U. President Gives Football Integral Place

youngster deemed worthy of the opportunity."

There is no athletic financial problem at Northwestern. This statement by President Snyder may surprise.

"We have no obligation that could prevent Northwestern from dropping intercollegiate football if that step were deemed necessary. There is no bonded indebtedness on Dyche stadium. The university built it. Interest and the principal if eventually paid from athletic receipts will constitute only a refund to the university. No outsider has any voice in our athletics.

Carries Other Sports.

"Other intercollegiate sports are carried financially by football," President Snyder continued. "This obligation could be assumed, if necessary, by the university, and our coaching staff would continue. Its work is of great importance to the university."

It should be inserted here that in a recent survey of 603 members of the "N" Men's association, only 1 per cent reported that if they had it to do over again they would not compete in intercollegiate athletics.

"Say for me," Dr. Snyder concluded, "that I agree with President Dykstra of Wisconsin. It is my firm belief that intercollegiate football has a proper place in undergraduate activity, that it contributes to the purposes of education, and that, in the Western conference, it is properly controled."

COAST ADMITS FAULTS

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4 (AP).—Pacific Coast conference faculty representatives admitted today the 10 member collegiate organization is plagued by abuses and violations of rules governing its athletic administration. Portions of the Edwin N. Atherton report, a survey completed by the former government agent, were summarized for public consumption.

The report, a 2,000,000 word, $40,000 document compiled after two years of work, brought to light that most of the abuses exist in football.

Woods and Waters by Bob Becker

With more dogs being trained in kennels which feature obedience work and good manners in dogs, and a large number of owners enrolled in clases where they learn how to train their own pets, indications are that Chicago will have more obedient, well behaved canines during 1940 than ever before. Trainers report a definite increase in interest in dogs that have had a course in obedience.

One Chicago trainer said this week that five years ago prospective purchasers of pets inquired about a "good dog." Now they commonly ask for a "good dog that has been trained."

Dog owners who are interested in teaching their pets obedience may join one of a number of clubs that feature such courses of training. Evanston has one, North Shore Training club. It meets at 8 p. m. every Wednesday in the Lincoln school, Main street and Forest avenue, Evanston, and is for all breeds. William Schafer of Glenview is the club trainer and is assisted by John Roberts. Dog owners who want further details may write Miss Patricia Dell, 5746 Kenmore avenue, secretary of the organization.

There are two training clubs for residents of the west side of Chicago and west suburbs. The West Point Training club [for all breeds] meets every Wednesday evening in the Eden ballroom, on 22d street near La Grange road, La Grange. Ludwig Gessner, Chicago, is the club trainer, and Mrs. Alice Wismer, 455 Berkley avenue, Elmhurst, is president.

The other west side organization is for German Shepherd owners, who have a club of their own for training their dogs. It is the German Shepherd Dog Training Club of Chicago, which meets every Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m. at the corner of La Grange road and Grand avenue, Franklin Park. C. A. Madison, 7874 Cressett drive, Elmwood Park, is secretary.

All dog owners who have become members of these organizations pay a small fee to the club to cover expenses of their instructions. None of the organizations operates for profit. Officers of these training clubs point out that instructors appear at club meetings not to train any one's dog, but to teach the owner how to do that training correctly.

GMC'S Extra PULLING POWER INSURES SWIFTER DELIVERY

There's nothing to compare with a GMC when you're working against time. Beer drivers say GMC's greater pulling power gets them through traffic quicker, more safely, and with less gear-shifting. But that's only one of the big reasons why "Swiftsure" is so strong for General Motors Trucks. Gas costs are lower with GMCs—(this fact is proved by countless owner comparison tests.) Driving is easier, because GMCs are the only Medium and Heavy-Duty Trucks offering SYNCRO-MESH Transmissions and FRICTION-FREE Ball Bearing Steering. And GMCs are built to last longer.

BANKS' IDLE CASH SHOWS INCREASE OF 220 MILLIONS

Advance Follows Return of Shoppers' Funds.

Lendable excess reserves of banks in the federal reserve system increased $220,000,000 in the week ended Jan. 3, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The increase, which followed one of $150,000,000 in the preceding week, raised the total of idle cash to $5,270,000,000.

The board said the after Christmas return of funds to the banks was principally the result of three factors—redeposit of money spent by shoppers, tax collections by the federal treasury, and government purchases of gold.

The 12 federal reserve banks cut their holdings of government bonds $5,000,000 during the week, reducing to $2,484,000,000 their investment in all types of federal securities, the board said.

Loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by New York City member banks declined $13,000,000 to $538,000,000.

DECCA.

With the phonograph business on the upgrade, Decca, listed on the New York Curb, looks like a good speculation. I would like some data on this company.—W. S.

Answer: Decca Records, Inc., was among the few new firms which entered the phonograph record field early in the current revival of the industry. The company was organized in 1934 with the aid of an English firm, Decca Record Company, Ltd.

Unlike the older companies, Decca has not attempted to compete in the recording of classical music. Its production has been concentrated on popular musical recordings which retail at 35 cents each. Sales are made to 4,500 outlets thru Decca Distributing corporation, a subsidiary. About 95 per cent of total sales is of popular priced records.

Decca has under contract numerous prominent radio artists and bands. Thru arrangement with the English company it has exclusive rights to press and distribute reproductions of master records owned by the former. The company also sells phonographs and accessories made by other manufacturers and produces electrical transcriptions for radio broadcasting and commercial use.

Sharing in the revival in the phonograph record industry, Decca's sales have followed a general uptrend. Jack Kapp, president, recently informed stockholders that November sales volume was at a record monthly peak. Net sales, net income, and earnings per common share in recent fiscal years ending Aug. 31 were:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1935	$ 495,000	*$397,000	*$1.11
1936	1,103,000	*80,000	*.23
1937	1,776,000	80,000	.23
1938	2,463,000	207,000	.58
1939	3,641,000	374,000	1.00

*Net loss. [Note: Fiscal year was changed recently to the calendar year.]

Net income in 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1939, was $378,368, equal to $1.01 a share on 373,325 shares of $1 par common stock. The company paid dividends of 60 cents a share in 1939 and in 1938, and an initial dividend of 30 cents a share in 1937.

The Aug. 31, 1939, balance sheet showed current assets of $773,859 against current liabilities of $446,608. Cash included in current assets amounted to $6,508 compared with $27,593 a year earlier.

FIXED CHARGES.

What are fixed charges?—K. B.

Answer: The term "fixed charges" usually refers to interest and amortization requirements on corporate funded debt. The term, however, is also sometimes used to include taxes, rentals, and insurance.

EDISON FINANCE PLAN PROCEEDS AT RAPID PACE

Convert Nearly Half of Debentures.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Nearly half of the $130,000,000 of debentures issued by the Commonwealth Edison company under its recapitalization program has been converted into common stock, Charles Y. Freeman, chairman, announced yesterday.

Charles Y. Freeman. (Moffett Photo.)

Debenture holders, he said, up to the close of business yesterday, had turned in a total of $63,703,000 of their securities, accepting common stock in exchange. Thus the company is approaching more rapidly than expected the objective of the financial program. That objective is the substitution of common stock for a large part of the company's funded debt by which a more balanced capital structure would be created.

Dividends Authorized.

Freeman also announced that directors of the company at their meeting yesterday authorized the payment of the regular quarterly dividend of 45 cents a share, to be distributed Feb. 1 to stockholders of record Jan. 15. The payment is the same as that voted three months ago, when the quarterly rate was increased from 40 cents to 45 cents.

Debenture holders who received their semiannual interest payment at the start of the month will be entitled to receive the dividend voted yesterday if they elect to convert their securities into stock by Jan. 15, the record date for the payment.

Freeman said that holders of $16,603,000 of debentures turned in their securities on Jan. 2 for conversion after receiving their interest payments.

49.2 Per Cent Converted.

The first of the debentures were issued by the company in September, 1938. In the 16 ensuing months the company has converted 49.2 per cent of the debentures into common shares. The operation is equivalent to the marketing of $63,703,000 of common stock during a period when common stock financing has been regarded difficult of accomplishment.

Before the refinancing program was undertaken the capitalization of the Edison company consisted chiefly of funded debt and other fixed obligations made up of subsidiary preferred stock and other minority interests. It was the purpose of a plan launched by the late James Simpson, then chairman, to effect a material reduction in the funded debt, eliminate the minority interests, and create a capital structure which would consist mainly of common stock.

Record of Changes.

How this objective is being achieved is indicated in the following figures on the division of capital (per cent):

	End of 1936.	Jan. 4, 1940.	*Objective.
Funded debt	62.4	46.0	46.0
Convertible debentures	...	11.0	....
Sub. pfd. shares	5.7	....	....
Minority interests	5.9	....	....
Common stock	26.0	43.0	54.0

*After conversion of remaining debentures.

One of the results of the program is a wider distribution of the company's stock geographically and an increase in the number of stockholders. The number of stockholders increased from 77,000 to 86,000 in 1939. At the beginning of last year 90 per cent of the stockholders were in the middle west. This figure dropped to 85 per cent at the year end. At the same time the number of stockholders in the eastern states increased from 5 to 9 per cent of the total.

Because of the wider ownership the company is listing the stock on the San Francisco Stock exchange.

Hopkins Expects Decline in Peak Industrial Rate

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—Secretary Hopkins said today that industrial activity in the last three months of 1939 matched the best quarter in 1929, but that some decline in production appeared certain early this year.

1939 Building Awards Climb to 3 Billions

Engineering construction awards in the United States increased 8 per cent in dollar volume last year to $3,002,856,000, the highest level since 1930, Engineering News-Record reported yesterday.

Private awards totaled $890,707,000, 11 per cent more than in 1938, and public awards amounted to $2,112,149,000, an increase of 6 per cent.

The nine year record was for private and public awards combined. Public awards were the largest on record. Private contracts were less than in 1937, when they totaled $1,115,866,000.

Four Classes Set Records.

"Four classes of construction reported new highs in 1939," the journal said. "Streets and roads topped their record the preceding year by 1 per cent. Public buildings passed their high level of 1938 by 18 per cent. Water works and sewerage projects broke their previous records of 1938 by 24 and 17 per cent, in that order. Bridge construction, with the second highest volume ever reported, was 12 per cent above a year earlier."

Summarizing activities by geographical sections, the report said:

"The southern states reported the largest volume ever recorded and a gain of 51 per cent over the preceding year. In the middle west and west of the Mississippi, such awards exceeded all yearly totals since 1929 and were 40 and 10 per cent higher, respectively, than a year earlier. New England reported the largest volume since 1931 and a gain of 18 per cent over 1938. Middle Atlantic and far west figures were 7 and 24 per cent lower, respectively, than in 1938."

Figures for Week.

The publication's figures for the week ended Tuesday showed that awards were $53,460,000 for private and public projects combined, 19 per cent more than in the preceding week, but 39 per cent less than in the corresponding 1939 week.

Private contracts in the week were 47 per cent above the week before and 96 per cent larger than a year ago. Public awards were 6 per cent larger than last week but 58 per cent less than a year ago when a rush to get PWA work under contract lifted public construction to relatively high levels.

Comparison of the week's awards follows:

[Last three figures omitted.]

	Last wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Private	$21,697	$14,778	$11,077
State and municipal	26,986	25,294	68,415
Federal	4,777	4,656	7,503

NLRB ORDERS GEN. MOTORS UNION HEARING

Wasington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—The National Labor Relations board today ordered a formal hearing on conflicting claims by A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions over representing the employés of the General Motors corporation in some 67 plants in 21 states. If an election is ordered to settle the dispute it will be the largest single group of employés ever polled by the board.

Board officials said they had no estimate of the total number of General Motors workers who would be affected by an election. They pointed out, however, that the vote in General Motors, if finally ordered, would be far greater than the 55,000 workers who were eligible to vote in the Chrysler corporation elections last fall.

The date and plans for the hearing, as well as the selection of an examiner to preside, will be announced by Frank H. Bowen, NLRB regional director in Detroit.

NEW ACT FORCES BROMO SELTZER FORMULA CHANGE

New York, Jan. 4 [Special].—The chemical formula of Bromo Seltzer, headache remedy which has been on the market for years and made a fortune for the Emerson family of Baltimore, has been changed to conform to the new food, drug, and cosmetics act, it was revealed today with the signing of a consent decree in the federal district court. It also became known that the government agency endowed with enforcement of the act is destroying supplies of the proprietary medicine manufactured under the old formula.

Quantities of Bromo Seltzer have been seized thruout the country, it was disclosed. The government charged misbranding "in that the articles are dangerous to health when used in the dosage or with the frequency prescribed, recommended, or suggested in the labeling."

Neither the federal prosecutors nor counsel for the manufacturers would explain in what way the medicine made under the old formula was alleged to be harmful.

MEXICAN OIL EXPORTS SLIP TO LOWEST MARK SINCE JUNE OF 1938

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4.—Mexico exported only slightly more than 1,100,000 barrels of oil during December. This was the lowest total in any month since June, 1938, the third month after the expropriation. Exports were 2,500,000 barrels in July and 2,000,000 barrels in August, the peaks reached under Mexican management of the industry.

Scarcity of sales abroad has obliged the Mexican oil monopoly to curtail production drastically because the storage space for surplus oil is virtually exhausted. Peak production was reached in October last year with 106,000 barrels daily. In December it was down to slightly less than 100,000 barrels. It is not believed further reductions will be effected because production now balances internal consumption plus exportation.

The United States in December again headed the list of foreign purchasers of Mexican oil, taking 538,000 barrels.

OCEAN INSURANCE RATES CUT; SHIP LOSSES REDUCED

New York, Jan. 4 [Special].—Marine war risk insurance underwriters today took official notice of the reductions in merchant ship losses by mines and torpedoes in the war zone in recent weeks by cutting cargo insurance rates as much as $2.50 per $100 cargo valuation, effective tomorrow.

Largest reductions apply on cargoes carried to ports in Sweden and Denmark and certain Norwegian ports not beyond Malmo, where a premium of $5 per $100 was fixed for both belligerent and neutral flag vessels. The rate on belligerents formerly was $7.50 and that on neutral vessels $6. The rate on belligerent flag vessels to Norway not south of Bergen by the northern route was cut to $4 a $100 from a previous rate of $5.

Other rate changes included a reduction of $1 per $100 on shipments to the United Kingdom, Irish Free State, and the continent of Europe from Brest to Holland inclusive. The new premium is $4.

Rates to French Atlantic ports south of Brest were reduced to $2.50 from the previous level of $3.

Mexican Utility Unable to Meet Principal on Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 4.—The Mexican Light and Power Company, Ltd., will be unable to meet the principal of the $8,929,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds due on Feb. 1, but will pay the half-yearly interest falling due on that date, the company stated in a letter received here today. The company operates in Mexico, but is incorporated in Canada.

N. Y. Exchange Pleads Cut in Stock Sale Tax

New York, Jan. 4 [Special].—William McChesney Martin, president of the New York Stock exchange, warned today that state tax on stock transfers is driving business away from New York, seriously increasing unemployment in Wall street, and threatening a permanent decline in the securities market.

W. McC. Martin.

Addressing a meeting of the state chamber of commerce, Martin urged that legislators now in session in Albany, take prompt steps to reduce the tax on trading volume and the efforts of other states to lure securities business away from New York.

Would Affect Entire State.

Asserting the exchange and its members are willing to bear their fair share of the tax load, Martin urged that the legislature consider revision of the tax in view of what it would mean to the whole state should Wall street lose its preëminence in its field.

Present depressed business on the stock exchange is due to several causes, he admitted with the transfer tax important among them.

In California, Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio there is no transfer tax, he said, and the transfer taxes in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are much lower than in New York. This state takes a $4 tax on the sale of 100 shares of General Motors, while the tax in Massachusetts or Pennsylvania is only 20 cents.

Quotes Tribune on Tax.

Martin quoted THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as having said recently of the New York state tax: "This tax is a racket. . . . midwesterners can beat the New York state racket by selling their stocks thru the Chicago Stock exchange."

In 1937, he said, brokers dealing in lots of less than 100 shares on exchanges outside New York handled 11.6 per cent of this business as was done on the New York Stock exchange; in 1938, 16 per cent, and in 1939, 22 per cent.

"The exchange," Martin said, "is subject at present to 20 separate direct taxes levied by federal, state, and city governments. Most of our member firms are subject to at least 13 different forms of taxation. If we expect business to prosper and unemployment to decrease, we must have surcease from this."

MURPHY'S ELEVATION MAY ASSURE FEDERAL DEFEAT IN OIL CASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3 (AP).—Lawyers said today the appointment of Attorney General Frank Murphy to the Supreme court might assure a government defeat in the Madison, Wis., oil antitrust case.

The government lost on Nov. 22, when the tribunal affirmed by a 4 to 4 vote Federal District Judge Patrick T. Stone's action in dismissing indictments against 11 defendants who had been found guilty by a jury.

The department of justice asked the Supreme court to reconsider the case as soon as a successor to the late Justice Pierce Butler took his seat. The court has deferred action on the petition until a ninth justice is sworn in.

Because Murphy has been active in the antitrust cases lawyers expressed the opinion he would disqualify himself from acting on the Madison case. That would let the 4 to 4 vote stand.

UNITED STATES BUYS 52 PCT. MORE FROM ARGENTINA

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 4 [Special].—Argentina's exports to the United States increased 52 per cent in 1939, according to figures given out today by the American consul general. Returns are based on sworn valuations of consular invoices certified during the year.

Exports of wool to the United States in 1939 totaled $16,482,732, compared to $6,968,350 in 1938. Exports of hides and skins increased from $5,666,700 to $12,715,589. Exports of quebracho wood, used for tanning, increased from $2,334,825 to $3,976,922. Exports of canned meats rose to $4,411,853 from $3,915,865.

AUTO SALES SET 2D HIGHEST PEAK FOR DECEMBER

Cook County Quarter Volume Is Record.

Automobile sales in Cook county in December totaled 10,082, the second largest volume for the month in history, the Bureau of Motor Advice reported yesterday. The total for December, 1938, was 8,943 and the largest volume to date for the month was the 13,070 total in December, 1936. The Bureau of Motor Advice, a semi-official agency, bases its figures on registration of new cars at Springfield.

Total car sales for 1939 were 97,755, compared with 67,197 in 1938. The highest number for a year was the 126,462 in 1937. The 1936 total was 119,213 and in 1929 it was 111,913.

Set Quarterly Record.

Sales in the fourth quarter of 1939, totaling 24,279, were the highest for that period in history, exceeding the record set in the 1936 fourth quarter.

Chevrolet held first place in December with a total of 1,872 compared with 1,348 in December, 1938, and 1,500 in November, 1939. It also held first place in November, but was in second place in December, 1938.

Ford held second position with a total of 1,184, compared with 1,084 in December, 1938, and 898 in November, 1939.

Buick held third position with a total of 1,179, compared with 940 in December, 1938, and 940 in November. Pontiac was in fourth position with 917, compared with 572 and 637.

Plymouth Ranks Fifth.

Plymouth occupied fifth position with a total of 885, compared with 1,427 in December, 1938, when it was in first position. Plymouth and the other divisions of the Chrysler corporation were unable to make full deliveries in November because of a strike, and they were not able to make full deliveries during all of December because of the heavy orders that had accumulated on their books during the strike. The sales total, as reported by the bureau, does not reflect the orders on the Chrysler units' books that could not be delivered while the strike was under way.

B. & O. Chief Urges Cuts in Rail Fares

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, urged reduced railroad passenger fares today to meet the challenge of bus competition. However, spokesmen for other eastern railroads disagreed and urged retention of the present basic coach fare of 2½ cents a mile.

Daniel Willard.

"I am convinced," Willard told the Interstate Commerce commission, "that the railroads can meet this challenge successfully at rates that will yield profits and at the same time leave to the buses a large and growing patronage from which they also can hope to realize substantial and compensatory earnings."

Argument of Opposition.

Walter S. Franklin, traffic vice president of the Pennsylvania, chief spokesman for other eastern railroads, said that unless the 2½ cent rate was retained the sliding scale round trip fares, established in the east last summer, "will be jeopardized and the results of this radically advanced experiment in passenger rate-making largely nullified."

Willard said he felt confident that the Baltimore and Ohio "would earn more net money with a maximum coach fare of 2 cents a mile than it can or will earn with a maximum rate of 2½ cents a mile.

Willard's Rate Views.

"If I felt free to establish on the Baltimore & Ohio such rates as in my opinion would be productive of the greatest amount of net revenues, I would make the Pullman charge 2½ cents a mile for sleeping cars, with a 2¼ cents per mile in such cars for round trips," he said. "I would also make the 2½ cent rate in chair cars, including all features of that service. I would give further trial to the rate of 2 cents a mile for one way in coaches, with a round trip of 1½ cents per mile."

The present "first-class" rate is 3 cents a mile one way, but the eastern carriers have established reductions for round trip tickets.

RESERVE BANKS' 1939 EARNINGS RISE TO $12,245,000

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—The federal reserve board said today that the 12 federal reserve banks earned $12,245,000 last year, an increase of $2,660,000 over 1938. Nearly all of the earnings were derived from interest on and profits from the sale of government securities held by the banks.

Of the total, $8,110,00 was paid out in dividends to banks belonging to the federal reserve system, $4,110,000 was added to the surplus accounts of the 12 regional banks, and $25,000 went to the treasury as its share of the profits on industrial advances made by the reserve banks.

ACME STEEL CO. LETS CONTRACT FOR NEW PLANT

Other Concerns Map Big Expenditures.

Steps toward expansion of manufacturing facilities to keep pace with rising business were taken by more companies yesterday. The Acme Steel company of Chicago announced the award of a contract for construction of a cold reduction mill. Sun Oil company said it will increase its development expenditure to $14,000,000 this year, and Stanolind Pipe Line disclosed it will build a 145 mile line across central Kansas.

United Engineering and Foundry company received the order from Acme Steel. Plans to install the mill as part of an improvement program for the Riverdale plant were announced in November, when Acme officials said the expansion had been under consideration since before the European war began.

War Brings Business Gain.

The war caused a subsequent sharp upturn in business, increasing the need for additional facilities, the company said. The cost of the Riverdale plant improvement, including the new

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—The stock market ran into mild selling squalls today after sailing thru five consecutive bullish sessions. The list added fractions to a point or so to Wednesday's brisk upturn shortly after the opening. Traders then began to sell while awaiting the President's budget message and initial gains were seen erased or converted into losses. .

At the close gains and losses were about evenly divided. Transfers amounted to 855,150 shares, compared with 1,020,790 the day before.

The administration's fiscal recommendations caused little excitement in board rooms, as they were about in line with Wall street's expectations.

Business news, on the whole, seemed encouraging, and in a number of cases proved a bolstering influence.

Loft again was a lively performer, making a new 1939-'40 high. Estimates of earnings of Pepsi-Cola, in which Loft has a heavy interest, were viewed as the buoying factor here. Boeing left other aircrafts behind with a jump of 2 points. There were reports this company would finance expansion thru bank loans instead of sales of additional stock.

Holding gains were J. I. Case, International Harvester, Lockheed, and Coca-Cola.

Lower were United States Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, United States Rubber, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Western Union, Santa Fe, International Paper preferred, Celanese, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, and Johns-Manville.

The majority of rails kept declines to minor fractions.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—While many domestic corporate issues eased fractions to more than a point in the bond market today, some selected industrial issues held their ground, and recovery was fairly general before the close.

United States government obligations were quiet and firm, showing gains running up to 10-32ds. The foreign dollar division registered a mixed trend. Buenos Aires 4½s-4¾s gained 2 at 58½ and Norway 4s rose ⅜ at 71½.

A number of rail loans dipped on profit selling. Bonds of Boston & Maine were turned actively on the company's announcement of plans for refinancing its debt.

Chicago Stocks.

Three stocks established new 1939-'40 price peaks in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. They are Aro Equipment, ½ point higher at 15¾; Central and South West Utilities $7 preferred, up 2 points to 116, and W. F. Hall Printing, which closed at 19½ for a gain of ⅞ point.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago Title and Trust advanced a point in bank stock trading yesterday to close at 122 bid. Other issues were steady.

GENERAL MOTORS CUTS INTEREST IN BENDIX AVIATION

Other Changes in Holdings Summarized by SEC.

General Motors corporation sold 21,000 common shares of Bendix Aviation corporation during November, according to a monthly summary made public yesterday by the Securities and Exchange commission.

Walter P. Chrysler disposes of more stock.

This was the first sale of Bendix shares by General Motors, which had owned a 23 per cent interest in the company thru acquisition of 500,000 shares in April, 1929.

The SEC report covered transactions and holding of officers, directors, and principal stockholders of corporations with registered securities. Sales and purchases, while holding to a low level, were about evenly balanced. In October and September sales were in the majority.

Many Changes in Aircraft Issues.

Aircraft shares continued as one of the most heavily traded classifications. Many gifts of stocks were reported.

Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Chrysler corporation, disposed of 300 shares in his own organization during November. Chrysler had made large sales in preceding months. In October he disposed of 3,500 shares, in September 11,900, in August 8,100, and in July 10,000. His ownership of 74,932 shares at the end of November contrasted with 98,732 at the end of July.

William A. Fisher, vice president and director of General Motors corporation, also continued on the selling side, disposing of 500 shares. His holdings at the end of November totaled 18,416 shares directly held, and 16,930 shares thru GM Shares, Inc., a holding company. Fisher, who lives in Detroit, had disposed of large blocks of General Motors shares during October and September.

Coyle Also Sells Stock.

Marvin E. Coyle, also a General Motors vice president, sold 1,000 shares, cutting his direct holdings to 3,903 shares. In addition, Coyle of Detroit disposed of 546 shares indirectly held, trimming his indirect holdings to 5,980 shares.

Charles W. Nash, chairman of the Nash Kelvinator corporation, sold 2,100 shares, retaining 164,000.

Joseph Goldblatt and Louis Goldblatt, vice presidents of Goldblatt Bros., Inc., each gave away 3,609 shares. At the end of the month each retained ownership of 17,275 shares. Morris Goldblatt, president, gave away 5,924 shares, decreasing his direct ownership to 19,034 shares. Nathan Goldblatt, secretary and treasurer, also gave away 5,924 shares. This cut his direct interest to 22,766 shares. The four reside in Chicago.

Nolte Exercises Option.

Charles B. Nolte, Chicago, exercised an option for 5,000 common shares of Crane company, of which he is president. At the end of the month he held 20,500 common and 100 preferred shares.

W. H. Sommer, president of Keystone Steel and Wire company, sold 1,250 shares during the month. Sommer, of Peoria, continued in ownership of 26,110 shares.

MARSHALL FIELD STOCK PURCHASE OFFER ACCEPTED

Marshall Field & Co. announced yesterday that holders of 82,733 shares of its 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock have tendered the shares under the purchase plan included in the company's reorganization program. This was the exact number of shares which the company offered to buy under the plan, which expired at the close of business yesterday.

Holders of the stock will receive $83.50 in cash for each share. Accumulated unpaid dividends of $9 per share were cleared up Dec. 26, and a regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 was paid Dec. 31.

The company said that 150,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred will be outstanding when the plan is completed, of which 54,492 shares will be the new second series. The plan is intended to reduce the outstanding preferred by about $5,400,000, the company announced, which would cut preferred dividend requirements about $324,000 a year.

FRIGIDAIRE SALES HIGHER; FURTHER GAIN EXPECTED

Sales of electrical refrigerators and ranges by the Frigidaire division of the General Motors corporation in the Chicago area showed a gain of 35 per cent for 1939 over the 1938 volume, L. F. Skutt, regional manager, said yesterday at the annual divisional sales meeting at the Morrison hotel. Skutt said that on a basis of the present volume a 1940 increase over 1939 of 30 per cent is expected.

More than 700 dealers and salesmen from the Chicago area attended the meeting at which Lee A. Clark, advertising manager from headquarters at Dayton, outlined sales plans for the coming year.

W. Alton Jones Elected Cities Service President

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—W. Alton Jones, first vice president of the Cities Service company, today was elected president of the $1,000,000,000 oil and utility enterprise, succeeding the late Henry L. Doherty, founder of the company.

Business Bits

Officials of the National Tea company today will observe the 40th anniversary of the founding of the big grocery chain. George Rasmussen Jr., 29 year old member of the management and son of the founder, said that when his father opened his first store at North and California avenues, the only items in stock were butter, coffee, and tea. The company now has 1,200 stores and does an annual business of $50,000,000. When the elder Rasmussen opened his first store he had one helper. Now the company employs about 6,000 persons. George Rasmussen Sr. died two years ago.

George Rasmussen Jr.

Thomas A. Callaghan, president of the Federal Pipe and Supply company, was elected director of the Consumers company at a special meeting of the board yesterday. He recently was appointed a co-trustee of the company by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Consumers, which deals in coal, building materials, and ice, is in reorganization.

Shreve M. Archer, president of the Archer-Daniels-Midland company, Minneapolis, has been elected chairman of the board of Northwest Airlines, Inc., subject to approval by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Edwin White, St. Paul investment banker, was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Richard C. Lilly.

LEHMAN CORP. ASSET VALUES DIP IN QUARTER

Common Stocks 79.3% of Holdings.

Net assets of Lehman corporation, investment trust, on Dec. 31 declined to $32.72 a share from $33.66 a share on Sept. 30, the company reported yesterday. Net asset value a year ago equaled $34.09 a share.

Changes in the investment portfolio during the last three months of 1939 were relatively small. The company acquired 76,203 shares of Aviation and Transportation corporation stock, 2,400 United Fruit company shares, 2,800 United Carbon company shares, 2,000 Marine Midland corporation shares, and 2,500 American Can company shares.

Sells Some Holdings.

Included in the few sales of investment holdings were 1,800 Western Union Telegraph company shares, 1,600 shares of Anaconda Copper Mining company, 3,000 Atlantic Refining company shares, 3,900 shares of Climax Molybdenum company, and 1,100 Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation shares.

At the end of the year common stock represented 79.3 per cent of gross assets; bonds, excluding United States government issues, 5 per cent, and preferred stocks 4.6 per cent. The proportion of each of the 3 categories changed less than 1 per cent during the last quarter of 1939, the company said.

Security Purchases Reported.

United corporation purchased $855,056 of securities during the fourth quarter, the company reported. The additions to the portfolio included 3,300 common shares of General Electric company, 700 Procter & Gamble company, 2,300 Pullman, Inc., 9,500 Socony-Vacuum Oil company, 3,300 Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and 1,700 Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. The company sold 3,600 shares of Niagara Hudson Power corporation common in the open market.

General American Investors Company, Inc., reported net asset value as of Dec. 31 equaled $11.81 a common share, against $12.90 a share a year earlier.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE FOR WEEK; BELOW YEAR AGO

New York, Jan. 4 (AP).—Bank clearings during the holiday week ended Jan. 3 exceeded the preceding short week, but were below a year ago due to smaller turnover at New York, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

The total in 22 leading cities was $6,077,072,000, or 4.6 per cent less than a year ago. New York clearings dropped 14 per cent from 1938 to $3,608,573,000. In the other cities the aggregate rose to $2,468,499,000, or 13.4 per cent. Chicago volume of $372,300,000 was 15.4 per cent higher.

Butter Futures Prices Highest in About 2 Years

Butter futures prices advanced to the highest levels in nearly two years on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Closing prices showed gains ranging to 0.45 cent a pound. The government production report for the week ended Dec. 28 showed a decrease of 3.3 per cent. January refrigerator egg prices rose 0.45 cent to 14.35 cents a dozen. October standards, however, were unchanged at 18 cents.

DECLARE WHEAT IMPORTS BLOW TO FEDERAL SCHEME

Much Canadian Grain in United States.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4 (AP).—Imports of cheap Canadian wheat, the tariff commission was told today, threaten the success of government measures designed to aid domestic producers. The commission held a hearing at the direction of the President under the agricultural adjustment act.

L. A. Wheeler, director of foreign agricultural relations for the department of agriculture, told the commission an emergency existed with respect to wheat.

World Price Is Low.

"Measures designed to improve the domestic price and income of wheat farmers and to maintain the proper balance between supply and demand," he said, "have resulted in a domestic price materially above the world price."

This was due, he said, not to a high domestic price but to the low level of world prices.

"Stocks of Canadian wheat in the United States," he said, "have increased to the highest on record except January, 1929. This is a factor in keeping the domestic price below parity. Canada has a supply far in excess of the probable foreign demand.

"Imports of a huge quantity of Canadian wheat for consumption would undoubtedly render ineffective the government's programs."

Export Supplies Large.

E. J. Bell Jr. of the department of agriculture said supplies in principal exporting countries were particularly large this year, but requirements of importing countries were smaller than they were a year ago. Canada, he said, had an exportable surplus of 425,000,000 bushels.

"Nearly 40,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat are now in the United States," he said. "This wheat is largely at New York, Albany, Buffalo, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, and Duluth. Present stocks of Canadian wheat are over five times those of a year ago and eight times those of two years ago."

More than 140,000,000 bushels of wheat in Canada, he said, were in market positions near the United States.

DECEMBER SALES SET NEW RECORD FOR WOOLWORTH

December sales of the F. W. Woolworth company reached the highest level on record for that month, the company reported yesterday. The total was $52,332,952, or 3.8 per cent above that of 1938. Sales for all of last year were $318,[illegible]3,170, an increase of 4.7 per cent over the 1938 level. The new December peak was attained despite one less shopping day than in the 1938 month.

70 PCT. OF AIR LINE STOCK DEPOSITED UNDER SALE PLAN

Seventy per cent of the capital stock of Western Air Express has been placed in escrow under an agreement providing for the sale of the stock to United Air Lines, W. A. Patterson, United president, announced yesterday. The acquisition is subject to the approval of the Civil Aeronautics authority. A hearing on the proposed merger is scheduled Jan. 8 at Washington, D. C.

United's application, if approved, will merge the operations of the two lines. Their routes connect at Salt Lake City. Patterson wrote stockholders of Western Air Express that the contemplated merger would be carried out on terms which would insure the same consideration to non-depositing stockholders as that given stockholders who had deposited their holdings.

SCIENCE TURNS SOY BEANS INTO BODY FOR AUTO

Hammer Blows Fail to Dent Car.

Your new automobile in a few years—perhaps even next year—may have a soy bean body. Victor H. Schoffelmayer, speaking before the annual meeting of the Mid-West Shippers Advisory board at the Palmer House yesterday, told of seeing an experimental car of the Ford Motor company made almost entirely of soy beans, the new "wonder crop" of the middle west.

The trunk of the car was repeatedly struck hard blows with a hammer, Schoffelmayer said. "The hammer bounced back without leaving a mark," he said.

Schoffelmayer spoke on chemurgy, the new science which attempts to produce substitutes for known products. Its principal aim, he said, is to provide new outlets for the nation's surplus farm crops and thus boost farm income.

Illinois Crop Expands.

Schoffelmayer, an agricultural editor of Dallas, Tex., and a former Chicagoan, compared Illinois' soy bean crop expansion with the drop in Texas cotton production. Texas, he said, has lost 10,000,000 acres of cotton under the Agricultural Adjustment administration's crop reduction programs in the last 10 years. As a result Texas has lost half of its former foreign market for cotton and will probably never regain it, he said.

Meanwhile Illinois has developed the soy bean from a virtually unknown crop to one of 2,726,000 acres. Last year's crop was worth more than $50,000,000 to Illinois producers, who grow half the nation's supply. The total United States crop was close to 90,000,000 bushels.

Huge Increase Forecast.

Processors predict that within five years the soy bean crop of the nation will total 250,000,000 bushels, Schoffelmayer said.

Earlier in the day the shippers elected Fred A. Schleifer, traffic manager of the Franklin County Coal company, as general chairman of the group. Hugo W. Gehrke of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce was named alternate chairman, and Irving M. Peters of the Corn Products Refining company, secretary. George A. Blair, traffic manager for Wilson & Co., was reelected chairman of the executive committee.

Due to small changes in the loadings outlook for various commodities, the board revised its estimate of first quarter car loadings in the middle west to 787,229 cars, an increase of 13.7 per cent over the first quarter of 1939. The first estimate, released Dec. 22, was for 781,713 cars, a gain of 12.9 per cent over last year's actual loadings of 692,308 cars.

O. L. COON GROUP BUYS INTEREST IN TERMINAL BANK

A substantial interest in the Terminal National Bank of Chicago has been purchased by Owen L. Coon and associates, Gaylord S. Morse, president of the bank, announced yesterday. Coon is chairman of the board of General Finance corporation.

It was understood that Coon and at least two associates will become members of the bank's board of directors. Coon said Morse will continue as president, and that no changes in policy or management are planned.

Terminal National has capital of $200,000, surplus of $200,000, undivided profits of $85,000 and reserves of $100,000. Deposits are about $7,770,000.

All directors and officers of the East Side Trust and Savings bank and the Wilmette State bank were reelected yesterday.

RATES REDUCED. Monthly rate reduced to 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and 2% on loan balances above $150.

Save the Difference

Commonwealth's charges are less on all loans than the maximum permitted by law. Our monthly rates of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES and CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THE SAME RATES. Of course persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter or telephone will receive immediate attention.

Local Loan Gives You SERVICE

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL Loan originated and perfected this service because employed people, young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months] and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends, and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone, so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.
